Lancaster's Penn Del Farm Has All-American Grand

HARRISBURG — To indicate the prestige of the Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, it was chosen as the site for this year's National Guernsey Show. Extra premiums or special trophies are awarded to many of the class winners at a national show, and a special junior show is held.

LANCASTER COUNTY'S Penn Del Farm of Willow Street exhibited the grand champion female and senior champion female, a three-year-old cow named "Penn Del Vesuvins Glenna." Owned by Ray and Louise Witmer, "Glenna" was also declared the best cow and best udder in the three-year-old class. The Witmers received a special Douglaston Manor Farm Trophy, presented annually by the Pulaski, New York farm.

Glenna was the only animal the Witmers brought to exhibit at the Guernsey Show.

"We haven't shown for several years and this is the only animal we brought with us this time. This is the first time she has been out this summer. We had no idea she would go this far today. We just

Maryland Has Two Top Teams

HARRISBURG — The Francis Scott Key team from Maryland captured first place in the Future Farmers of America team rankings for their judging abilities with 510 points at the PA All-American Invitational Youth Dairy Judging contest.

They edged out the California FFA with 1501 points, Madison FFA with 1478 points and Pennsylvania FFA with 1405 points.

Held in conjuction with the All-American Dairy Show at the Farm Show complex, the contest offers students the chance to match wits and dairy judging skill while earning prestige among their national peers.

Matt Hoff of New Windsor, Maryland, was the best individual in the FFA competition, scoring a 510 for all breeds in his ability as a future judge. Team members Shane Schwartzbeck of Union Bridge and Scott Staley of Towneytown scored 500 points each for all breeds, along with Toby Soares of the California FFA. By virtue of a mandatory tiebreaker, Soares took third, Schwartzbeck took fourth and Staley took fifth.

Sara Sileira of Merced, California, tied with her neighbor Soares for first place in total reasons, each scoring 47 points, but the tiebreaker showed Silveira to be the winner. Teammate Scott Sherman of Winton placed a close third with 46 points.

Maryland had the high-scoring 4-H team, earning 1772 points out of a possible 1950. The Sauk County, Wisconsin, 4-H team placed second with 1765 and the Vermont team was third with 1763 points.

Troy Koenig of Bernville, Berks County, was the best judge in the individual 4-H rankings for all breeds, taking 615 points. Kevin Martin of Smithsburg, Maryland, was second with a 607 and Andrew King of Cambridge, Vermont, was third with a 601. Martin also won first place for his reasons, scoring 140 points over teammate Karen Stonesifer of Union Bridge with 139 and Gene Doody of Clearbrook, Virginia, with 135 points.

The collegiate judging team from the University of Wisconsin placed first among 19 intercollegiate teams in its ability to judge five breeds of purebred dairy cattle and

Lampeter Steer Winners Named

Oscar, the 1140-pound steer shown by Julie Greider, daughter of C. Robert and Marian Greider of Columbia, was named Grand Champion Steer of the Lampeter Fair Wednesday night. Julie, 17, has been raising steers since she was 9, and considers Oscar the best she's ever had.

The Reserve Grand Champion Steer was shown by Vicky Hess, daughter of Abe and Janie Hess of Conestoga. Her Angus, Albert, weighs 1160 pounds and is her second champion.

The placings are as follows:

Century Farms Needed

LANCASTER — Lancaster County Extension Agent Jay Irwin has announced that applications for Lancaster County Century Farm nominations are still being accepted by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

"To qualify as a Century Farm, the farm must have been owned by the same family for 100 consecutive years," said Irwin. "A family member must currently live on the farm," he added, "and the farm must consist of at least 10 acres of the original holding, OR gross over $1,000 annually from the sale of farm products."

Lancaster County currently has 92 registered Century Farms. Fifty-five farm families in the Commonwealth have been designated as owners of official Pennsylvania Century Farms during the second half of 1986, bringing the state's total to 1,087.

Century Farm information and applications may be obtained from the Lancaster County Extension Service, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601, or from the Department of Agriculture, Press Office, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110.

Irwin said that Century Farm nominees whose applications are processed prior to October 31 will be honored at the Lancaster County Farm-City Banquet in November.

The Cooperative Extension Service is an affirmative action, equal opportunity educational institution.

Holstein Sale Has $20,000 Top

HARRISBURG — The first cow in the ring here Thursday evening at the 24th All-American Holstein Sale was number one in the catalog and brought $20,000. The mostly white Very Good Bell daughter Shpii Bell Peg-ET out of the 3E92 GMD Elkson Glendell Pioneer was consigned by Elvree Farm, Slate Hill, New York, and sold to Steve Smith and Chester Crosby from Topshani, Vermont.

The second high price of $6,500 came from another New York consignment by George Morgan of Walton and sold to A. Lifeeder, Bowman, South Carolina. This was a rotate heifer out of a Jetson daughter.

At $5,000 was the unborn ET Choice Of Nine by SWD Valiant for Bossir Glenn-Valley Starlight Al out of the 3E94 GMD Walkup Astronaut Lou Ann. This Astronaut daughter has seven milking daughters all Very Good or Excel-

ACRES SOYBEAN UPDATE: Soybeans futures closed nicely higher this afternoon on spillover strength from the recovering soymeal. Further support came from the lighter than anticipated commercial hedge selling, despite news of active farmer selling. Weakness early in the session came on heavy cash movement and harvest progress. Rumors resurfaced that USSR bought soypellets from Argentina. November gained 2 cents, settling at $5.29 and January gained 3-1/2 cents, settling at $5.36.

ACRES WHEAT UPDATE: Wheat futures closed lower today, close to session lows, in a late sell-off tied to long liquidation. News that Morocco's secound round of bids for export bonus wheat had been rejected in addition to the absence of China's export bonus tender put wheat on the defensive throughout today's session. Continuing reports of USSR harvest problems limited further losses. The Dec. option posted a 4-1/4 cent loss, settling at $2.92-1/2, which is below our last support of $2.93.

ACRES CATTLE UPDATE: Live cattle and feeder cattle futures mixed this afternoon, with losses in the front months and gains in the deferreds. Selling in the nearby months was spurred by the premium which October holds to cash cattle prices as first notice day approached. Limiting further losses was the steady dressed beef and fed cattle prices at midday after yesterday's losses. Trading was light today and feeders mirrored live cattle.

CME FEEDER CATTLE SETTLEMENT PRICE: 9/21/87 $78.64 dn $ .07

ACRES HOG UPDATE: Pork belly futures closed higher in position-evening before Friday's USDA cold storage report. October and December live hogs posted losses against the deferreds linked to active cash connected bull spreading with ideas that next week's Hogs and Pigs report will show continued expansion. Supporting the nearby months was the steady to higher cash prices and ideas that this firm tone will continue in light of the active harvest. Steady midday pork product values limited gains.

Like to get a full 5-year warranty on your next running gear?

Then ask for Unverferth. That's right, our precisely built, road-ready, 8- and 10-ton wagon running gears come with a full, 5-year warranty and much more. For example:

To give you years of safe, worry-free service, we incorporate features like all-welded construction with extra bracing, pivot point grease fittings, and renewable bushings in the steering and front spindles.

And, to help keep those years of service safe, we use a specially aligned frame for smooth, straight trailing and 180° tongue swivel and innovative low-profile design for added maneuverability and unmatched stability...even on hillsides.

For more about reliable, safe Unverferth running gears or our full line of high quality grain boxes, see your dealer today. Or call us toll-free:

OPINION

Farm Safety Week

Farmers are under pressure during the harvest season to bring in their crops while the weather is good.

"It's natural for us to take pride in our ability to work long hours in pursuit of a goal," says Ron Jester, University of Delaware extension safety specialist. "However, fatigue, drowsiness and illness frequently contribute to mishaps in the field. Try to recognize when you have 'had enough' and turn the operation over to someone else."

Jester also warns farmers not to rely on stimulants to keep working or depressants to calm nerves. "Drugs and alcohol work against the keen awareness that is vital to safety," he says.

Periodic breaks relieve the monotony of machinery operation. "If you're going to eat in the field, at least climb down from the machine and relax for 15 to 20 minutes," he says.

President Regan has proclaimed September 20-27 as National Farm Safety Week. This year's theme, "Farm Safety Makes Good Sense" is underscored by the fact that nearly 1,700 people died in farm accidents last year and 170,000 suffered disabling injuries. Agriculture remains among the nation's most hazardous major industries. According to the National Safety Council, the total direct and indirect cost of an average disabling work injury is $12,200, while the cost of the average fatal injury is $460,000 in future lost earnings alone. Most accidents can be prevented with care and protective equipment.

A major potential problem this time of year is the silo gas hazard.

Preventing accidents caused by the inhalation of silo gas is, in theory, very simple. Whether or not this is true in your experience depends upon your willingness to practice these safety tips:

1. Keep children away from the silo and adjoining area for at least two weeks after silage has been put in the silo.

2. Close the feed room door to the barn.

3. If entry into a silo becomes necessary, you should:
   -ventilate all silo areas,
   -get the help of a second adult, and
   -wear a dust mask.

Regard silo gases as a real hazard NOW! Don't wait until you become a statistic. This goes for every type of potential farm accident.

Since equipment is involved in most serious and fatal injuries, Jester suggests the following precautions:

* Equipment should be made harvest-ready in the off-season, or at least several weeks in advance of use.

* All routine maintenance

FARM FORUM OUR READERS WRITE

Editor:

This is in response to the article printed in the August 22, 1987 edition of your paper. In this article titled "Ecologically Safe Farming Methods Needed, McHale says" former Secretary of Agriculture of Pennsylvania, James McHale pointed out that the use of manure as fertilizer would solve many of the pollution problems to the Chesapeake Bay and that the real problem was the overuse of commercial fertilizers.

Our Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Program emphasizes a complete nutrient management program developed for participating Pennsylvania farms. Our program further recognizes the use of animal waste as fertilizer in conjunction with a balanced system using only those amounts of commercial fertilizer necessary to grow a specific crop. Where commercial fertilizer is needed, it is only recommended in environmentally safe quantities in order to avoid any pollution to the ground or surface waters of the Commonwealth.

To date, we have had nearly 200 farmers participating in high priority watersheds by signing a contractual agreement with our local conservation districts to implement a total nutrient management plan for their farm. In most cases these plans will reduce the amount of purchased commercial fertilizer used to carry out the cropping program on individual farms. In some cases fertilizer amounts have been cut in half from previous years application. The total nutrient management concept recognizes the need for a balanced nutrient program in order to produce crops in an environmentally safe manner.

We are pleased with the response that Lancaster Farming has given the Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Program in the past and we hope that this clarification of our Nutrient Management Program will offset any misleading statements about the accomplishments of our program.

James R. Grace,
Deputy Secretary of Resources Management

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin
Lancaster County Agriculture Agent

To Prepare For Wheat Planting

Wheat is an important crop in many of our farming programs and the selection of good seed will result in a better crop next year. Due to some fungus infections in our winter wheat over the past several years, growers should be extra careful this fall by planting clean seed. Certified seed would be free of these problems. If you are planning to use homegrown seed, then do an extra good job of cleaning and treating. Vivatax 200 is a recommended fungicide for seed treatment. The fly-free date is either after the first killing frost or, in southeastern Pennsylvania, October 10.

Just a few reminders on planting wheat — it should not be planted in the same field more often than once every 5 years; this time period will reduce the fungus carryover in the soil. Plow the field as early as you can, then disc and harrow to kill as many weeds as possible. It's also a good idea to harrow the field thoroughly the day of seeding.

To Help Cows Adjust

During this time of the year, cows are subjected to many stresses. They need all the help they can get from you to adjust to new feeding programs, changing weather and to indoor confinement. Feeding changes should be made gradually. Bringing cows in from the pasture and confining them to concrete all day long can be a severe stress. An earthen exercise lot will do wonders for these cows. Good stall maintenance can also increase their comfort. When cows are kept in confinement, we have the obligation of providing proper ventilation. This is especially critical during fall and spring when the weather can change quite drastically and quite suddenly.

It is a good idea to work closely with your veterinarian to develop a good health program for your herd.

To Be Aware Of Potential Silo Fires

The unusual growing condition — dry July and August and heavy rainfall just prior to corn harvest — could cause a higher-than-usual amount of silo gas to be given off by this year's corn silage. One of these gasses is a yellowish-brown, nitrogen dioxide gas, which is toxic to breathe. Antoher gas is methane, which is very combustible. Both are heavier than air, and can accumulate in silo chutes and feed rooms. A single spark can ignite the methane, which in turn can ignite accumulation of dried chaff in the silo chute. The smoldering chaff can burn its way through wooden doors and into the silage. Our recommendations are to ventilate the chute and feed room well, using fans as needed, but being careful of any sparks. Keep the silo chute free of debris. When working around the silo, use the buddy system, and contact your physician upon exposure to these gases.

Caution - Do Not use water on a silo fire; this could create an explosion, call your fire company.

To Watch For Unwanted Guests

Now that the weather is getting cooler you may find some unwanted guests in your barn and home. You won't see them too often perhaps, but they're there. These guests will destroy more food and property than they eat. The guests in question are rats and mice. As the weather gets colder, they migrate from outdoors to indoors.

Rats are dirty, destructive and disease-spreading pests. You knew that. But did you know... * Rats cause an estimated 25% of all farm fires... * Rats have a new litter every 30 days - multiply so rapidly a pair could have 15,000 descendants in a year's life span... * And that rats destroy about 20% of all crops planted each year.

For control, use bait stations and keep fresh bait in the stations each week.

The Cooperative Extension Service is an affirmative action, equal opportunity educational institution.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W ALTHOUSE

ON MAKING A NAME FOR OURSELVES

September 27, 1987

Background Scripture: Genesis 11: 1-26.
Devotional Reading: Proverbs 16: 1-19.

Just what does God want and expect of us? Sometimes it would seem that we are reprimanded and even punished when we try to use the resources he has placed within us. If we are intellectually and creatively able to invent and develop the wonders of this technological age, should we not assume that this is good in God's sight, inasmuch as he is the source of this potential?

TO CONFUSE THEIR LANGUAGE

This is one of the important questions raised by the story of the Tower of Babel in Genesis 11. Where did these people on the plain of Shinar go wrong? Certainly they did not offend God or thwart his plan by learning the art of brickmaking and mortar. Certainly there was no sin in their decision, "Come, let us build ourselves a city" (11:4). Was it the building "a tower with its top in the heavens"? Or was it their desire to "make a name for ourselves"? Neither can we imagine that there was any offense in having but one language.

It would seem that the writer of Genesis wants us to believe that God opposed all of the above. It sounds as if God is concerned that his creatures will be too smart and too constructive. "Behold, they are one people, and they have all one language; and this is only the beginning of what they will do; and nothing that they propose to do will be impossible for them" (11:6). To stop this "dangerous" development, the writer of Genesis represents God as saying, "Come, let us go down, and there confuse their language, that they may not understand one another's speech."

TOWER OF BABEL

There are far too many passages in the Bible, particularly the New Testament, indicating God's plan to unite his children for me to believe that God really wants us to be alienated. In fact, it would seem that at no point in the world's history has there been any "danger" of humanity being too unified and too productive. God is concerned because we make too little, not too much, of our human potential.

What, then, is the point of this story? Perhaps the key is in that they wanted to "make a name" for themselves and forget about the God who gave them their potential in the first place. Our sin is not in our ability to build towers of Babel, but in letting these creations take the place of our Creator.

RAT FOR RAT ASSAULT® IS NEARLY 400% LESS EXPENSIVE.*

Concentrated ASSAULT wreaks havoc on other rodenticides in pounds of bait needed to kill 150 rats.

And dollars saved.

	Number of rats killed	Cost per pound	Pounds needed	Total Cost	Cost per rat
ASSAULT®	150	$8.55	2.5	$ 21.38	14.2¢
Havoc®1	150	$5.00	20.3	$101.50	67.7¢

*Based on Buying For The Farm January 1987 Bait prices may vary depending upon location

ASSAULT
- Kills rats faster—nearly three times faster than the nearest competition.
- Kills with one feeding through a different mode-of-action.
- Kills rats resistant to anti-coagulant rodenticides.
- Is preferred by rats over grain or feed.
- Causes no toxicity problems if pets eat a rat that has consumed ASSAULT.

HARDY OUTSIDE WOOD FURNACE HEATS YOUR HOME AND YOUR HOT WATER

* FURNACE SITS OUTSIDE - 10'-100' from home/business/barn. Removes fire danger.
* CLEAN - No ashes, dust smoke, trash inside.
* CONVENIENT - Load every 10-12 hours. Burns logs up to 16" in diameter. Stops most log splitting.
* THERMOSTAT CONTROLLED - Even heat.
* EASILY CONNECTS to forced Air/Hot Water System. Needs no chimney or water heater. Heats domestic hot water year round. Warm months of the year firing every 6 to 10 days.
* DAIRY FARMERS - BIG savings for you on hot water costs at barn.
* IDEAL FOR NEW CONSTRUCTION & existing homes.

"Our Hardy outside wood furnace is easy to use. Just fill it & forget it. Produces plenty of domestic hot water, and it's easy to start a fire. You don't need any kindling, just some newspaper. Furnace is so well insulated that the sides don't even get warm."

New Test:Right™ can add points to your fat test

Is fat test a problem on your farm? New Test:Right dairy feed from Agway is the answer.

You're probably aware that feeding whole cottonseed can increase the fat level in your milk. But if you've fed cottonseed in the past, you're aware of the handling and storage problems.

New Test:Right is the only pelleted dairy feed that includes whole cottonseed, regulated protein solubility, and regulated carbohydrates in an easy-to-handle, easy-to-feed pellet. And it's also easy to see the difference that an increase in fat test can make in your milk check!

If you want to increase your milkfat content, and your profits, talk to your Agway Farm Enterprise Salesperson about new Test:Right. He can balance your feeding program with the on-farm Ration Balancing Computer System and prescribe the correct Test:Right feed for optimum milk production and fat test results on your farm.

by adding this to your feed.

AGWAY ALFALFA

LASTING VALUE

Not all varieties of alfalfa can endure year after year of bitter northeastern winters.

But Agway has solved that problem With four high-performance varieties especially bred for longevity and superior yields under your growing conditions

Centurion—The newest variety is the first multipest-resistant alfalfa offered by Agway to demonstrate outstanding resistance to all of the Northeast's major diseases Verticillium Wilt, Phytophthora Root Rot, Anthracnose, Fusarium Wilt and Bacterial Wilt

Excalibur—The premier Verticillium Wilt-resistant alfalfa in the Northeast

Sparta—Outstanding yields, plus excellent resistance to Bacterial Wilt and Verticillium Wilt, and moderate resistance to Phytophthora Root Rot and Fusarium Wilt

Blazer—High yielder, resistant to Bacterial Wilt and Phytophthora Root Rot

Excalibur, Blazer, Sparta and new Centurion are available exclusively in the Northeast from your Agway store or Farm Enterprise Salesperson

Working for people who work the land.

Supreme Dairy Champ Repeats At Ephrata

EPHRATA — She did it again. Sunny Craft Lucinda Tony owned by Kimberly Stauffer, Ephrata, was the grand champion Holstein and went on to the supreme championship of the Ephrata Fair dairy show for the second year in a row. Milking 100 pounds per day, Lucinda also had best udder in the Holstein show and was part of the best three females and the best produce of dam.

William Lesher, judge and Berks County breeder, liked everything about this three year old and made her grand champin of both the open and junior Holstein shows. Reserve grand champion of the open show was Meadow Cliff Mars Rita, an upstanding aged cow for David D. Zimmerman, Reinholds. Reserve grand champion of the junior show was the junior two year old for Sharon Zimmerman of Meadow Cliff Farms.

Three other breeds had only one entry each. Jeffrey Balmer had the champion Guernsey. Larry Gehart had the champion Jersey. And John Gehart had the champion Brown Swiss.

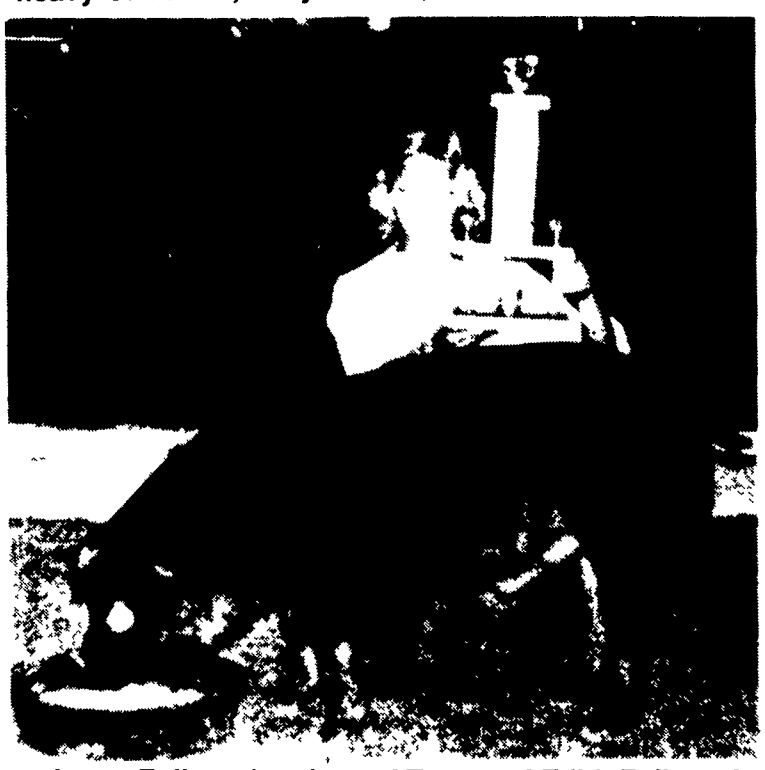
The middleweight white barrow shown by Randy Groff, son of Robert and Hester Groff of Ephrata, walked away with Grand Champion Hog of the Ephrata Fair Tuesday night. The hog was selected for its long, heavy structure, easy strides, and lean musclature.



Laura Folker, daughter of Tony and Edith Folker of New Holland, showed a middleweight red hog that was proclaimed Reserve Champion Hog of the show.

Dairylea Farmers Draft Policy Recommendations

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Dairylea Cooperative's milkshed-wide resolutions committee met recently here to draft policy recommendations for the coming year. The resolutions will be acted upon by cooperative delegates on Oct. 14 during Dairylea's annual meeting at Liverpool, NY, according to president Clyde E. Rutherford.

The policy-drafting committee included one representative from each of Dairylea's 13 districts as follows:

District

1. Ronald Closky, Cambridge Springs; 2. Hiram Beckerink, Clymer, NY; 3. Ray Chamberlain, Wyoming, NY; 4. David Mollenhauer, Newark, NY; 5. Royal Champluvier, Wyalusing; 6. Robert F. Pardoe, Milton; 7. Kathryn E. Miller, Bangor; 8. Edwin Mead, Montrose; 9. John Walrath, East Springfield, NY; 10. Daryl M. Bishop, Pennellville, NY; 11. Richard Hoskins, Sr., Lyons Falls, NY; 12. Wayne Senecal, Whitehall, NY; 13. Arlene King, Athens, NY.

One resolution calls for seeking total reciprocity among the states in the testing of milk and inspection of farms.

A second urges both federal and state government enforcement of sanitary and composition standards to assure consumers of quality milk and dairy products.

A third seeks aggressive state action and full reciprocity in licensing milk dealers among states. It is designed to gain New York State milk processors and distributors the right to compete in other states which now impede equality of competition.

Another resolution urges continued support of the recently-created Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency to make RCMA a successful program for gaining better farm milk prices, consistent with the effort of other dairy farmers.

The committee proposals call for continuing support of two Dairylea Fall Production Incentive Programs designed to even out the farm milk supply during the year. One, in which more than 1,300 Dairylea member farms already participate, says a bonus for total extra milk produced in the short-supply months of September, October, and November as compared with the previous year. The second is a new Counter-Seasonal Production Program offering a bonus for total pounds produced in the three fall months over the total pounds produced in April, May and June of the same year.

Support for efforts to consolidate the assorted federal milk markets into one comprehensive federal other area in the northeast is sought in another resolution for "this common market and common production area."

Additional policy proposals support preservation of key agricultural laws, encourage nutritional efforts in schools and promotion of both brand and non-brand dairy product consumption, maintaining environmental qualities of agricultural land, and restoring integrity to the dairy price support program.

The two-day meeting, which starts Tuesday, October 13, will commemorate the eightieth anniversary of the area's oldest dairy cooperative. The Dairymen's League was founded in 1907 in Orange County, NY, becoming the incorporated Dairymen's League Cooperative Association in 1919 and abbreviating its name to Dairylea Cooperative in 1969.

Dairylea currently has 3,000 members in NY, PA, NJ and part of New England, plus 13 other dairy cooperatives affiliated for services. Net sales of the co-op for its 1986-87 fiscal year were $343 million.

Asgrow Adds Six New Hybrids

Reinforcing their commitment to the nation's corn growers, Asgrow Seed Company introduces six new hybrids for the 1987 growing season to their product line.

Asgrow/O's Gold brand RX475 is a high-yield potential, corn with medium-short plants. Husks of these ears open approaching maturity to facilitate drydown and provide corn of high test weight. RX475 is resistant to northern corn leaf blight race 1 and has delivered maximum yields in northern and eastern areas of its adaptation.

Yield performance, tolerance to stalk rots, and root strength combine to make RX498 an excellent new hybrid in the Asgrow/O's Gold brand line-up. Widely adapted to varied soils and environmental conditions, this hybrid also boasts easy shelling and high test weight grain. Its medium to short plant height sets well-placed ears.

New RX578 demonstrated excellent yield performance in company and on-farm trials. Good ear retention, root and stalk strength contribute to its top field performance.

Low placed, girthy ears with deep, medium-yellow kernels are features of new RX626. The new hybrid displays excellent yield potential for this maturity. RX626 has excellent emergence, good early growth rates and very good resistance to stalk rot diseases. Strong ear retention is another outstanding feature of RX626.

RX759 is a new hybrid with excellent tolerance to northern corn leaf blight and Goss's bacterial wilt. Girthy, medium-length ears show good milling quality in tests of food processors. Harvestability is aided by medium-height plants, excellent root strength and good stalk strength.

In addition to Asgrow/O's Gold corn hybrids, Asgrow Seed Company markets a complete line of Asgrow brand soybean varieties, sorghum hybrids, alfalfa and other forages.

Farm Credit Scholarship Offered

The Board of Directors of the Southeast Farm Credit Service is pleased to announce the availability of its seventh annual $500.00 scholarship toward the higher education of a student planning to pursue a career in agriculture. The Southeast Associations have offices in Avondale and Silverdale with an outpost office in Creamery, the headquarters office is located in West Chester. They serve over 1,600 members of the agricultural community in Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery, and Philadelphia counties with long and short term financing.

One of the requirements of the applicant is that his or her parent(s) or guardian(s) must reside in one of those counties. The applicant must be a high school senior planning to attend a four year college on a full-time basis with agriculture or agribusiness as the major emphasis of study.

Notification of the availability of the scholarship is being sent to the Administrators of the secondary schools in the five county area. Southeast Farm Credit also intends to reach as many of the private schools in the area as possible; the scholarship is not limited to the public school systems. Anyone whose educational institution was not contacted should not consider himself or herself excluded from requesting an applicaton form. He/she is encouraged to contact the Southeast Farm Credit Service, Administrative Office, P.O. Box 514, West Chester, PA, 19381-0514 or telephone (215) 431-1257.

The Board of Directors of Southeast Farm Credit is pleased to offer this scholarship and views it as an investment in the future of agriculture.

Dairy Board Votes To Go Under Act 1

It's just about official.

With the paper work completed at its September meeting, the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program will become an independent commodity promotion group October 1. Well, almost.

The big move was made possible by Act I, a law sought by the major farm organizations and signed by Governor Robert P. Casey May 6, 1987.

Basically, the new act frees farm commodity groups from the cumbersome state operating procedures that long irked PDPP board members.

The act also assures producers will have full say on how their contributions are spent.

And that is considerable for the dairy promotion group. During the first 11 months of the current fiscal year, $1.7 million was spent on advertising, $87,949 for public relations, $142,000 in grants to three dairy councils and the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Program, $51,100 for local and miscellaneous promotions and $25,000 for Penn State milk quality research. Administrative expenses ran $45,600 or 2.2% of total expenditures.

Board chairman Jim Harteis, Ebensburg, and the executive committee worked closely with state ag secretary Boyd Wolff and his staff to assure a smooth transition.

In August, the promotion board voted to put the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program under Act I. Then at their September meeting they proceeded to clean up the paper work.

New procedure for contracts and funding grants were adopted at the meeting. Details for paying bills also were developed.

But freedom is not absolute. All contracts still must be approved by the attorney general's office and the bureau of market development, it was noted by Bill Smedley, commodity promotion chief for Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Smedley has served PDPP as program administrator for three years at no charge to the program. But Ron Gaskill, director of bureau of market development, told the board that the ag department could no longer guarantee that Smedley or some other administrator could devote 90%, 70% or even 50% of his time to PDPP.

That said the board voted to seek a fulltime administrator from the private sector.

Employees will not fall under the state system. A new one, Lolly Long, attended her first meeting as program coordinator. A Penn State ag graduate, she replaces Cindy Weimer who resigned in August.

Insurance coverage also was reviewed. The program and employees lose state protection in the move to Act 1 status.

Board chairman Harteis indicated the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program would continue to be housed in the state agriculture building . . . at least in the foreseeable future.

All new directors would continue to be appointed by the state secretary of agriculture, it was revealed. Terms of seven expire this month. They include Donald Cook, Drums; Donald Duncan, Robesonia; James Harteis, Ebensburg; R. Laverne McCarty, Forksville; Janet Reynolds, Watsonville; David E. Roth, Loysville; and Byron E. Sollenberger, Curryville.

The present board has 21 members. Act 1 calls for 20 directors and gives the board a new name. After October 1 it will be known as the Commodity Marketing Board.

In other action, the board —

* Supported the referendum in the November 3 election to preserve farmland, and learned from director Jim Turner, Pittsburgh that side panels on milk cartons across the state will soon urge consumers to "Vote 'Yes' for farmland."

* Approved an effort by program coordinator Lolly Long to seek one dairy promotion booth at Farm Show for all programs serving Pennsylvania. The space is available and invitations made, she said.

* Voted to continue with the HBM/Creamer advertising agency in the next fiscal year with major emphasis on White Lite 2% milk.

* Received report on expansion of White Lite milk and advertising into Central Pennsylvania markets by mid November. "All dealers and juggers have been invited to use the White Lite trademark," Smedley reported.

* Learned that a presentation of the PDPP's White Lite campaign will be made to the National Dairy Board at a Vermont meeting. A first move to syndicate the White Lite label nationally also was announced.

* Purchased health insurance benefits for employees through the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association group plan.

A Secure Market is as

SIMPLE AS A D C

ADC stands for Atlantic Dairy Cooperative.

The largest, full-service cooperative in the Northeast is owned and operated by dairy farmers who know that dairying is a tough business. They believe their personal growth is best assured in a strong organization with stable marketing programs. This is particularly important with today's critical shortage, when everyone is looking for more milk, and some are waving short-term inducements at milk producers.

ADC stands for its members.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative was formed earlier this year by a merger of Inter-State Milk Producers and Lehigh Valley Farmers.

The tradition of service goes on. ADC is committed to:

- develop long-term guaranteed markets for our members.
- secure enough milk to meet consumer needs.
- get the best possible prices for the milk.
- maximize the dividends paid to our members.

PA Junior Dairy Show Opens Pennsylvania All-American

BY PAT PURCELL

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show hosted the largest number of 4-H and FFA exhibitors in its 32-year history with 821 entries, held at the Pennsylvania Farm Show building in Harrisburg on Monday. The numbers were overwhelming and so was the standard of excellance exhibited in all breeds.

JERSEY CHAMPIONS

Choosing the best from the large number of entries in the Jersey show was not an easy task for Dr. J. Lee Majeskie of College Park, Maryland, but he said he picked the champions on their dairyness and their breed character, not necessarily on their size.

Tom Arrowsmith, son of William and Gerladine Arrowsmith of Peach Bottom, Lancaster County, captured the Jersey grand champion honors with his 4-year-old, Hill Acres Fame Tee, bred by Matthew Arrowsmith. The judge described the champion as a nice animal in a small package with an excellent mammary system. The sire is Sun Valley Quicksilver Fame.

Denise Martin, of Chambersburg, Franklin County, not only captured the reserve grand championship, but was awarded the best bred and owned title for her senior 2-year-old dry cow, Pleasant Valley Superb Cashew. Denise is the daughter of Lester and Ruth Martin of Chambersburg.

Helen Arrowsmith, of Peach Bottom, took the honors in the junior division with Hill Acres Silver Beacon Este, an intermediate yearling. Arrowsmith said she was not surprised with the win. Most recently Este was shown at the Maryland State Fair and had done very well. Janelle Koontz, 9, took the reserve championship with her 4-H project Stan-Els Samson Sweet Potato, bred by her father Stanley Koontz of Bedford in Bedford County. Sweet Potato took the junior championship at the Bedford County fair this year also.

"I have selected the most complete animals for our champions because of their dairyness and straightness as a representation of the depth we've seen in all these classes today," said Majeskie.

From a show with an overwhelming 354 competitors show judge Jeff Myers pulled five of the top animals into the center of the ring while making his decision for senior and grand champion honors.

"I believe these animals I have placed in the center of the ring exemplify the competitive edge in a show where close competition runs deep into the placings in nearly every class. My senior champions are very close, but I have to go with the five-year-old because I like the udder on this cow. The height and width of the rear udder attachment is impressive," said Myers.

The five animals considered for the championship title were: Jay Braund's junior 2-year-old, Braund-Valley Chairman Emma from Troy in Bradford County; Paula Rynd's senior 2-year-old, Rynd-Home Prestar Bonjour out of Cochranton in Crawford County; the 3-year-old exhibited by John Andrew Foster, III, from Petersburg in Huntingdon County and also those of the champions.

After a lengthy study and examination and a re-examination of the top five in a large show for even Holstein competitors, Myers awarded the grand champion rosette to M-Maplegrove Valiant Melone-ET, a 5-year-old exhibited by Patricia Miller of Nazareth in Northhampton County. Melone took the reserve grand championship at the 4-H southeastern district show at Kutztown in August.The dam is Maple Grove Elevation Myrtle with a classification of EX-90. Miller, 17, is the daughter of Kenneth and Carol Miller.

Christine Young (left) of Newville in Cumberland County was the big winner in the Milking Shorthorn competition. Young captured the grand championship in the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show and the junior champion title. She also received the award for the best animal owned and bred by an exhibitor. Melissa Reisinger of Newport won the junior reserve title.

C.E. Hubbard, III, son of Ed and Joy Daugherty of New Cumberland in York County, took the reserve grand championship title with Kowraygan Creek Linnan Jean. This 6-year-old dry cow is an offspring of Kowraygan Happy Lady whose production reached 28,000 pounds of milk with 1300 pounds of butterfat. The sire was Creek Bluff Elevation Lester. Jean took the grand championship title at the York County 4-H dairy show in July.

Beverly Meyers, daughter of Alvin and Diane Meyers of Chambersburg, Franklin County, won the junior championship with an offspring bred by her father at their farm, Aldina Holsteins. The champion was Aldina Magic Gigi, sired by Romandale Magic. The dam is Aldina Colby Gilda.

Jeffrey Davis, son of Ray and Francis Davis of Leesport, Berks County, took reserve with Danview Pete Ginger. Ginger was the junior champion of the district 4-H dairy show at Kutztown in August. Ginger also captured the award for best bred and owned by an exhibitor for the Holstein class. Ginger is the offspring of an Elevation Pete and the dam is Danview Straight Pine. Myers described Ginger as an exceptional animal with many of the excellent features he likes to see in young Holsteins.

FFA HOLSTEIN SHOW

James Houser of Spring Mills in Centre County captured the Holstein FFA championship. Houser's 3-year-old, Penn-Dell Chairman Rhonda took it all, the grand championship, the senior championship and the award for the best animals bred and owned by an exhibitor.

In the reserve Holstein FFA spot was J & K Vue Homestead Sunny, exhibited by Jonathan Boop of Millmont, in Union County. The junior champion FFA was taken by Brenda Robson of Mansfiled, Tioga County. Jeffrey Pirrung of Ulysses, Potter County, took the reserve junior champion in the FFA show..

AYSHIRE CHAMPIONS

In the Ayshire division Lona Rader of Connoquenessing in Butler County took the grand championship with Long-View Barry Windie. Reserve grand champion went to Shelli Hunter of West Alexander in Washington County. In the junior Ayshire division Laura Harding of Lebanon in Lebanon County took the championship title with Sycamore Meade Quality's Renny. In the reserve spot was Chanteele Zilhaver from Cambridge Springs, Crawford County with her senior calf, Sycamore Meade Mystic's Frankie.

MILKING SHORTHORN CHAMPIONS

Christine Young of Newville, Cumberland County had the grand champion in the Milking Shorthorn class with her junior two-year old, Three Springs K.A. Krystle. Her junior yearling, Three Springs K.A. Rena, won the junior champion title and also the award for best animal bred and owned by an exhibitor.

BROWN SWISS CHAMPIONS

In the Brown Swiss contest the judge said there was no contest for the junior champion. County, the judge said there was no competition for the junior championship. It was clearly the the intermediate yearling owned by Michael Kunkle of Jonestown, Lebanon County. The champion was Shady Creek Index Bonnie Bess. The dam on the junior champion was Shady Creek Reward Bonnie which is classified as VG-88. Michael is the son of Miriam Kunkle. He also won the reserve junior championship with Shady Creek Shanna Bab Shirley an intermediate calf. Kunkle said both calves had been purchased from Richard Wenger of Manheim when they were two weeks old

Beverly Meyers (right) of Chambersburg exhibited the Holstein Junior champion. Jeffrey Davis won the junior reserve title and received the award for having the best animal owned and bred by an exhibitor at Pennsylvania's Junior Dairy Show in Harrisburg.

and both have done very well this year winning the Lebanon County fair junior championship and reserve grand championship at the district show held in Manheim.

James Berlin of Smethport, McKean County captured the award for best bred and owned by an exhibitor with the fine udder attachment on his senior two-year-old named Irons Julie.

The judge Jeff Myers of Westminster, Maryland, selected the two-year old of Jason Kennedy as the easy winner for the Brown Swiss grand champion. Jason, 11, is the son of Jim and Rita Kennedy. According to Myers, Four Seasons Radar Kara, had a lot of breed character, dairyness and the best udder in the show on a young cow. For the reserve grand champion Myers went to Locust Spring Titan Michelle, the animal he said had the advantage in breed character belonging to Jeffrey Moon of Volant, Lawrence County. Jeffrey is the son of Richard and Arlene Martin of Volant.

GUERNSEY CHAMPIONS

In the Guernsey class, Sabrina Wagner of Meadville, Crawford County, took the top honors with her 3-year-old, Anchor & Hope BP Hillis. Hillis was bred by Dosch Uriel & Sons of Wisconsin. Janice Garber of Willow Street, Lancaster County, took the reserve championship spot with the first place senior 2-year-old, Willows Fayette Toshya, bred by her father Gerald Garber.

Dale Mummert of Chambersburg, Franklin County, captured the junior championship with his senior yearling, Darling Downs Emory's Rose Milk. The reserve title went to Jeffrey McCullough of Newville, Cumberland County with Lebanon Valley Fayette Lolli. Capturing the best bred and owned by exhibitor award was Clayton Snyder of Oley in Berks County.

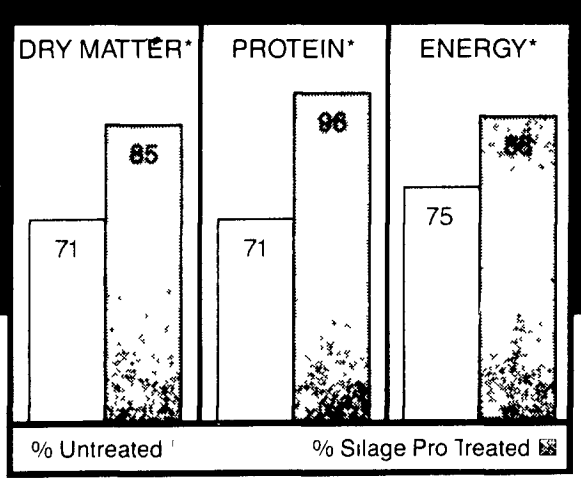
Using Silage Pro™ is like harvesting three extra tons for every twenty.



A brief exercise that can increase your profit margin Write down the volume of silage you put up last year, and how much of that silage you actually were able to use Now figure out what retaining 15% more silage would have been worth to you

That much extra silage is exactly what Silage Pro has proven it can provide Consistently and economically On farms just like yours

Here's how Silage Pro preserves forage quantity and quality

- Enzyme catalysts promote rapid production of lactic acid
- Lactic acid lowers pH quickly and inhibits the growth of harmful spoilage bacteria
- Because heat is controlled quickly, loss of available protein is minimized
- Controlled fermentation promotes abundant production of propionic acid, the most effective preservative for haylage and silage Propionic acid also contributes to greater energy, improved feed efficiency, better animal health and more palatable silage

Increase the value of your silage Make Silage Pro part of your crop and feed management program, and get more dry matter, more protein and more energy Agway guarantees your silage quality will improve respective team members scored first and third in individual rankings. The University of Wisconsin scored a 2141 overall, finishing well ahead of the University of Minnesota with 2013 points and Cornell University with 2094 points.

Brad Burke of Amery, Wisconsin, scored a total of 725 points to win the individual rankings for all breeds and his 240 points won him first place in the total reasons for individuals. Team member Brian Benhke of Brooklyn placed third in individual rankings for all breeds with 712 points and third in total reasons with 229 points. The team also included Tim Baumgartner of Belleville and alternate Chuck Jinkins of Montfort.

The University of Minnesota team managed to give Wisconsin some competition. The overall 2103 points in the team rankings for all breeds placed them second. Larae Carlson of Raseau, Minnesota, scored 712 points in the individual rankings, with a tie-breaker placing her second ahead of Benhke. Carlson was second high individual for total reasons with 231 points.

One of the 4-H coaches was heard saying last night, "The quality of 4-H reasons this year was the best I've heard in many years." The competitors must score the dairy animals, then stand before the contest judges and tell in comparative terms why they placed the animals the way they did.

Contest superintendent Alan Bair from the Atlantic Breeders Cooperative in Lancaster feels the reasons portion of the contest is very important. "It requires the students to make their decisions and then defend those decisions in positive terms before the real judges. The contest also improves their skills in vocabulary, poise and quick thinking," Bair said.

Mid-East Milk Lab

Working To Bring DHIA Records To Dairy Farmers

BY SUE CROW
Maryland Correspondent

HAGERSTOWN, MARYLAND — On dairy farms where milk records are kept each month, a Dairy Herd Improvement Supervisor (DHI) comes to the farm to take a sample of milk from each cow. The sample is sent away to be tested. In less than two weeks the farmer receives in the mail a computer fact sheet stating the butterfat content and the somatic cell count for that sample, plus an updated record of the pounds of milk produced by each cow along with a summary of her past milk records.

How is all of this information acquired from that sample of milk?

In Hagerstown, Maryland a small up-to-date lab tests 750 herds in Maryland and West Virginia. It is the Mid-East Milk Lab run by Robert Hope with a staff of four.

The Dairy Herd Improvement supervisor visits farms each month to take samples of milk from each cow. The vials are registered by number on the barn sheet and shipped to the Mid-East Milk Lab for butterfat and somatic cell count testing.

The milk samples are shipped by UPS everyday and arrive at the lab by 9 a.m. The samples from the neighboring counties arrrive the night before and are stored in a walk-in cooler. The two lab technicians start at 6 a.m.

The technicians double check the barn sheet to make sure no samples are missing and to make sure the vials are in numerical sequence. A log slip is then completed with an assigned herd code number, and other important information and entered into the computer. The computer is connected to the butterfat testing, somatic cell machine and to the printer. After samples are tested, the secretary enters the assigned herd number into the computer and it prints the data in the numerical sequence as it appears on the barn sheet.

When this procedure is completed the computer printout and the barn sheets are sent by courier everyday to Provo, Utah or to New York for the calculations to be

Eliminate Mastitis In Heifers

The new heifer crop is the foundation of a dairy herd. With a sound breeding program, heifers bring with them the best genetics in the herd.

Ideally, heifers should enter the herd infection free and remain that way as long as possible to insure maximum production and herd life. But as more data is accumulated, we find that mastitis can be and is a real problem in heifers. It is not unusual to find 20 percent of first lactation animals requiring treatment for clinical mastitis during their first lactation with more than half of the cases occurring within 30 days of calving. Thus, we fall short of our goal very early in their productive life.

What is the source of infection? To date, only preliminary data is available but the following are potential sources:

1. Calves suckling each other, especially during the milk feeding stages.
2. Infections spread following teat end damage by biting flies, especially in young heifers kept on pasture.
3. New infections that occur near the time of calving associated with leaking milk and inadequate hygiene of calving pens.
4. Infections which may occur soon after calving due to milking machine factors associated with liner slip which can be enhanced by udder edema and heifer movement during the first milkings.

In the absence of good research data, we suggest the following prevention procedures:

- Prevent heifers from suckling infantile udders.
- Control biting flies in pastured animals.
- Keep calving area clean and be especially conscientious with teat dipping.
- Be aware of milking machine adjustments when milking new heifers.

This article is one of a continuing series made available by the National Mastitis Council. For additional information, contact the NMC, 1840 Wilson Blvd., Arlington, VA 22201.

Chicken Virus Affects Metabolism

Some viral infections in chickens cause an unexpected response in trace mineral metabolism, say four University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station researchers.

William W. Saylor, John E. Dohms, Alan L. Metz, all professors in the university's Department of Animal Science and Agricultural Biochemistry, and Michel Y. Carr, a graduate student, chronicled their conclusion in a paper prepared for the Poultry Science Association annual meeting, Aug. 10 through 14, in Corvallis, Ore.

Their research shows that two strains of infections bursal disease virus (IBDV) caused a rise in iron in the blood, liver and spleen of infected chickens. "In bacterial infectious, on the other hand, specific mechanisms in the animal's body withhold iron from the blood to help fight off the infection," says Saylor.

The Delaware group infected 3-week-old chicks with one of three IBDV strains (IM, STC or variant A) to determine their influence on iron and zinc metabolism. In all groups, the zinc levels showed a typical response to infection, decreasing in the blood and increasing in the liver. In chicks infected with the IM and STC strains of the virus, however, the iron levels increased several fold in the blood, liver and spleen.

"This iron response in blood was the opposite of what we expected," says Saylor. "Now we need to explore the possibility that if this virus causes an increase in blood iron levels, does it make the chicken more susceptible to bacterial infection?"

Teens Learn To Be Leaders

Fifteen teenagers from three Delaware counties spent some of their summer learning how to develop new 4-H projects to share with younger club members later this year.

Selected for their leadership potential, the teens completed a two-day Salute to Excellence workshop at the University of Delaware in August. Marty Butterfield and Joy Sparks of the Delaware 4-H staff trained the young people using a model from North Carolina 4-H called TRY (Teens Reaching Youth). Funds for the program were provided by the R.J. Reynolds Nabisco Foundation.

New Castle County teens participating were Karen Anderson, Middletown; Gayle Cleaver, Middletown; Chris Melson, Wilmington; Chad Nelson, Newark; Jason Pepin, Wilmington; Jamal Wiggins, Newark; and Ted Wolfer, Newark.

Kent County teens taking part in the training were Michelle Charles, Dover; John Clendaniel, Hartly; Chris Masten, Harrington; and Sherry Sharpe, Wyoming.

Sussex County teens in the program included Lisa Eger, Seaford; Dawn Melson, Bridgeville; Hope Messick, Laurel; and Carolyn Sipos, Seaford.

The training experience included a segment on the developmental characteristics of youth between 6 and 19 to help the teens understand their audience. They were also shown how to sell their program to different groups.

"For instance, if they wanted to use a program in a school and needed to enlist the help of the PTA or the school board, they were shown how to approach that party," explains Sparks.

As a final part of the workshop, the teens were asked to design a program to present to their 4-H club or to help their community or county. The young leaders have until Oct. 15 to develop their plans and recruit their audience. From Oct. 15 to the end of March they will put their program into operation.

Among the possible projects discussed by the group were programs on insects, ATV safety, horses, microwaved meals, space and 4-H itself.

The seven New Castle County 4-H'ers have a variety of interests and skills to share.

Chad Nelson, 14, wants to start a horticulture club. He plans to teach the younger members about houseplants and gardening.

Because she likes horses, Karen Anderson, 14, would like to take her 4-H'ers on field trips to learn about the different kinds of horses and how they are used for racing, pleasure riding or harness racing.

An amateur entomologist, Ted Wolfer, 14, is interested in teaching his club about insects. If he is successful, he would like to expand his entomology program throughout the county.

Food projects fascinate Chris Melson and Gayle Cleaver, both age 15. Gayle plans a program on food and nutrition, and Chris expects to take younger club members to visit the Herr's pretzel and potato chip factor in Nottingham, Pa.

Jason Pepin, 15, is interested in space. He plans to use a new 4-H program called "Blue Sky Below My Feet" to teach 9- and 12-year-olds about gravity and forces, fibers and spacesuits and how food is eaten in space.

Jamal Wiggins, 16, wants to introduce 8- and 9-year-olds to the different projects in 4-H. He will use the "Exploring 4-H" program to provide activities for his club.

The four Kent County 4-H'ers attending the August workshop want to get more people from their county involved with 4-H.

Sherry Sharpe, 15, and Chris Masten, 16, both hope to increase enrollment in Kent clubs. Sherry wants to involve more young people in 4-H club activities and get them to stay past the age of 13 or 14. Chris also feels a particular need for older members, and he plans to recruit older teens into 4-H.

Michelle Charles, 16, wants to recruit more 4-H project leaders, individuals who work with special interest groups ranging from photography to dairy science. The younger members of her club often have to do things alone, and Michelle believes they could get more out of club activities if they had leaders to help. She plans to become a project leader for her club.

John Clendaniel, 15, is working on an ATV safety project. He will make a video tape demonstrating ATV safety procedures for 4-H'ers and the general public. He will be teaching 6- to 25-year-olds.

The four Sussex County 4-H'ers will help younger club members and also contribute to their community's needs.

Lisa Eger, 16, wants to start a day camp in western Sussex County to stimulate more interest in 4-H.

Hope Messick, 17, will work toward having a traffic light installed near the inside flea market off Route 13 in Laurel. She says the area is very congested and a traffic light would make it safer.

By starting a microwave cooking class, Dawn Melson, 15, will teach younger members how to prepare meals for their parents.

Carolyn Sipos, 17, intends to expand her club's clothing project. She also wants her club to post a "Delaware 4-H welcomes you to Delaware" sign at the state line.

Grange Slates Convention In Butler

HARRISBURG — State Grange Master Charles E. Wismer, Jr. announced that the Pennsylvania State Grange is buzzing with excitement as it gears up for the 115th Annual Pennsylvania State Grange Convention to held in Butler, Pennsylvania, October 26 through 29. State officials and the office staff have been busy making preparations for this monumental Grange event.

An estimated 1,500 Grange members from nearly every Pennsylvanian county will flock to Butler to attend the convention. Delegates representing each of the 538 local and 55 pomona district granges will decide legislative policy for the 1987-88 year with issues centering on agricultural, environmental and rural concerns. Policy development starts at the local, grassroots level of the Grange.

Subjects which will be voted on during this year's convention will include: the Farm Bill, tax reform, road repairs, gasoline tax increase, the Beef Checkoff Program and Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board regulations.

The state convention is hosted in a different county each year through a bidding process. Lawrence and Butler Counties, with a combined membership of nearly 1,300 members, will host the 1987 convention in Butler. The majority of the events will take place at the Butler High School. Several events, including craft exhibits, will be held at the Days Inn, Butler.

While adoption of legislative policy is the primary objection of the convention, a number of other activities will take place. Numerous contests sponsored by departments within the Grange will be conducted during the convention, and an outstanding Granger of the Year will be honored.

The annual state talent contest featuring district talent finalists in six categories of competition will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 28 at the Butler High School.

Family Farming May Be On The Up-Swing

MADISON, Wis. — The much-reported decline of full-time family farming that was evident in the 1970s may be slowing in the 1980s, say two Cornell University sociologists who think that this decade's farm crisis could produce a "partial renaissance" of household-based agriculture.

Frederick H. Buttel and Pierre La Ramee told the Rural Sociology Society meeting in Madison, Wis., that the decline in family farms can be blamed on certain economic conditions of the 1970s and may be reversed by this decade's massive deflation of land prices, erosion in agricultural price-support programs and severe debts incurred by large farms.

Buttel is a professor in the Department of Rural Sociology in Cornell's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences. LaRamee is a Ph.D. candidate in development sociology at Cornell.

They posed the question of why "family farms exist at all, when family grocery stores and pharmacies are long gone and family steel mills or automobile plants never existed." Their answer was that "there are enduring economic reasons for the establishment and persistence of family farms, even in advanced economies where concentrated production is otherwise pervasive."

Depending upon the definition used, there are between 700,000 and 2 million family farms in the United States. Analyses of data from the United States and Canada indicate that full-time family farms — those that are owned by families who provide most of the labor and derive their livelihood from the farm's income — declined in total numbers and in percentage of agriuclural production during the 1970s, Buttel and LaRamee reported.

Meanwhile, the numbers of small farms owned by families whose primary income is fror another job and of farms owned by corporations or management firms and worked by employees have incresed, leading to what Buttel and LaRamee term agricultural dualism — small part-time farms and larger-than-family farms, but a "disappearing middle."

But nature of agriculture itself works to discourage corporate investment and "encourage household production as the normal means of farming," the researchers asserted. Among the points they cited:

- The cycles of planting and harvesting and of animal reproduction require expensive pieces of equipment to sit idle for much of the year.
- The risks related to disease, pests, perishable commodities and unstable prices are being reduced by research and marketing strategy, but still are high.
- The availability of dependable labor for seasonal work is low, and supervising employees working on 2,000 acres is difficult.
- The need for sizable profits is pressing for corporations but not for families.

"These problems tend to make agricultural production relatively unprofitable, which discourages large-scale investment and causes agriculture to be relegated to family or household production units,' Buttel and LaRamee explained.

In the 1970s, however, land-price inflation hindered families' entrance into agriculture or enticed them to sell to large-scale investors seeking asset appreciation, they said. Economic diversification of rural areas provided farmers with the option of better-paying, non-farming jobs. A slowing of advances in machinery size combined with the concentration of land into larger units led to an increased prevalence of hired labor in American agriculture.

But in the 1980s:

- Economic stagnation has hit rural areas the hardest, reducing the viability of part-time farming.
- Plunging land prices are making large-scale investments in agriculture less attractive.
- President Reagan's cuts in price-support programs have dropped prices to, and even below, the costs of production.
- Debts are most severe for large farms, while many family farms have little or no debt.

"We are not necessarily predicting that the 1980s will be a period in which the trend toward dualism was reversed," the sociologists concluded. "Rather, we suggest that the socioeconomic environment of agriculture has changed a great deal. Some of these changes should reduce the relative advantages of sub-family and larger-than-family farms, and help the family farmer."

Gender-Based Insurance Receives Grange Support

HARRISBURG — "We favor a continuation of a classification criteria whereby policyholders pay a premium equal to the amount of risk or loss those policyholders reflect." — Pennsylvania State Grange Policy

Once again, the PA State Grange is taking to heart the 42,000+ members which it represents. Not only are Grange members to benefit from this Grange endeavor, but the entire Commonwealth will prosper through the Grange's success.

You may ask, "What will affect the entire state of Pennsylvania, the young and the old, the women and the men? The answer is gender-based insurance!

Not long ago, the Grange took a stand concerning this important issue. The date was October 17, 1985. Legislative Director Brenda Shambaugh presented testimony in front of the House Insurance Committee concerning Grange policy. Grange policy supports the use of all determining factors to compute insurance rates.

According to Brenda, the elimination of the gender-based insurance premium is only the tip of the iceburg. When discussing the future ramifications of not using every available factor to determine insurance rates, Brenda said, "The Grange is concerned about the negative impacts which will occur as a result of dropping gender as a determining factor. Gender is the first domino to fall. Next will be age, distance, or any other rate factor currently being used. Before long, PA citizens will pay one insurance rate regardless of statistically proven differences in driver classifications," she concluded.

Three out of four states in the country which have eliminated gender have also eliminated other factors. Hawaii eliminated age, marital status and gender. North Carolina eliminated age and gender. Michigan eliminated gender, marital status and restricted the number of rating territories and range of rating territories and range of rating differentials. The end result in all four states where rate factors have been eliminated is a dramatic insurance increase. In Michigan alone, rates increased as much as $425 for married females and $178 for unmarried females and married males.

Within a few months of Brenda's 1985 testimony, the language of the law changed. This allowed gender to be a determining factor for insurance premiums.

Later in 1986, a suit was filed in Commonwealth Court to determine whether or not the new law is constitutional. The suit was filed against the Pennsylvania Insurance Commissioner Constance Foster, by John Bartholomew. Bartholomew contends that as a young male, he is being charged more for his insurance.

In July 1987, the PA State Grange filed an "Amici Curiae Brief" in opposition to the plaintiff's motion of summary judgement. The hearing has not yet been scheduled, and may not take place for several months. However, the PA State Grange is staying abreast of the situation and is taking the necessary steps to deter any changes in the present law.

First Jr. Dairyman Contest Posts Winners

HARRISBURG — Recognizing that our youth are the future of the dairy industry, show management added a new activity for young competitors to this year's 24th Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show. The first annual Junior Dairyman Contest, held Tuesday at the Farm Show Complex, was established as an educational activity for 4-H and FFA members from across the country.

The Conrad Weiser FFA from BERKS COUNTY captured first place in the overall FFA team competition, scoring 902 points and earning $50 and a trophy for their efforts. Team members included the newly crowned Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Becky Sonnen from Richland, Chris Blatt, Dave Wolfskill and Kay Fessler, all from Robesonia. The Tyrone Area FFA placed second with 856 points, good for $40, followed by the Elizabethtown FFA and the Madison County FFA from Indiana.

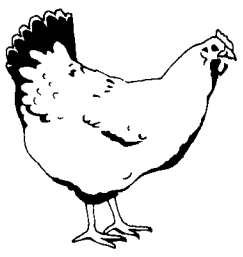
The Milksquirts 4-H Club from SOMERSET COUNTY scored 827 points to win the overall 4-H team competition, earning $50 and a trophy. Team members included Jennifer Brown of Garrett, Jennifer Welch, Matthew Welch and Thad Will, all from Berlin. The Udder Half 4-H from New York finished second with 809 points and the CRAWFORD COUNTY 4-H Club placed third with 765 points.

Julie Walbert from the Howard County 4-H Club in Maryland was the highest scorer in the overall individual competition, earning $100. Tom McCauley from Elizabethtown, LANCASTER COUNTY, placed second; Karen Fessler from the Conrad Weiser FFA, BERKS COUNTY, placed third and club mate David Wolfskill placed fourth; Abe Harpster from the Tyrone Area FFA placed fifth.

Individual state awards were also presented to the high scorers in each of the three categories. Tom McCauley was Pennsylvania's high individual overall, Conrad Weiser was the high scoring team in the Pennsylvania FFA division and the Milksquirts captured first place in Pennsylvania's 4-H division. State awards also went to contestants from Maine, Indiana, New York, New Jersey and Maryland.

Competitors were quizzed on knowledge of ten classes covering dairy judging of cows and heifers, meats identification, feed identification, forage identification and evaluation, milking systems, dairy products, dairy marketing, dairy management and pedigree evaluation. Contestants were then interviewed by a panel of judges and could score extra points for their understanding and knowledge of the questions, ability to respond orally to questions and express their thoughts clearly, and the accuracy of their answers.

Financial assistance for the new contest was provided by Eastman Chemicals Division of the Eastman Kodak Company and by Pfizer Agricultural Division. The All-American Dairy Show is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association in cooperation with the state Department of Agriculture and Farm Show Commission.



Thanks and Congratulations to

Field Day Set

York County Manure Management Field Day has been set for Thursday, Oct. 1 from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Desota and Robert Burchett farm located off Frosty Hill Road, Airville.

Offers for the day include free lunch; view and evaluation of the manure/fertilizer comparison field plot by John Rowehl, county agriculture agent, at 11 a.m.; cost savings through nutrient management planning by Mark Kimmel, York Conservation District at 12:45 p.m.

Because of the free lunch provision, interested persons are asked to pre-register by Sept. 24, by calling 757-9657.

At 1 p.m. John Rowehl will present a system for improved soil fertility management. Explaining the economics of hauling manure on the farm will be Roland Freund, area farm management agent, at 1:20 p.m.

Manure spreader calibration demonstrations will take place at 1:40 by Mitch Woodward, Penn State regional specialist.

SIGNS OF THE FUTURE

You can give the credit or the blame to whatever factors you wish — and there are a number to choose from — but the signs are already pointing to a national increase in milk supply beyond what the expected increase in demand can use this fall and winter. Monthly milk production that was four percent less than the previous year in January has now pulled even with a year ago in July. I realize that a year ago in July you were just into the fourth month of the 18 month Dairy Termination Program but I also notice that this August was the last month of the DTP and already production is up to last year. The signs of things to come have been there for months but prices were expected to improve more than they have because of increasing demand.

The problem is that increasing demand for butter and cheese is the most important mover of milk prices at the farm and that hasn't happened. At least not yet. A year ago butter prices at Chicago jumped 16 cents from June to August and this year they gained only five cents in that time. It's true that butter prices jumped six cents from May to June but this August they were still almost six cents below last year. Butter prices don't usually go up in the Spring and at that time it was regarded as a sign of even better things to come but it hasn't happened. Last Fall the Commodity Credit Corporation was selling butter when the price got up to $1.54 a pound but it doesn't look likely this year. You might guess that processors are holding back waiting for the 25 cent drop in the support price on October 1st to restock their inventories for the holiday season but that's almost too late for that and it would mean only a few cents on the price.

We could follow a similar pattern for cheese prices which were three cents lower than last year in July. However, CCC stocks of cheese are larger than butter because the price never got high enough last year for government sales as they did for butter. On the other hand cheese prices now are down almost to the support level so if processors are building inventories they should have started already.

Bottom Line

All of this adds up to a Minnesota-Wisconsin Prices Series that is no better in August than it was in February. It bottomed out in April and May at $11.00 which was no better than the year before. It increased 35 cents last year from April to August during the first disposal period of the Dairy Termination Program. This year it advanced only 27 cents in that same period and is now six cents lower than last August. Price-wise, you're worse off than a year ago and there seems to be nothing in the immediate future to turn it around. Your average prices for 1987 will be higher than 1986 but the monthly difference over the year before has been diminishing since January and may be eliminated by December. Increases in the M-W were expected to move it up to $11.70 this Fall but it hasn't reacted that way yet. It increased only ten cents last month and in July making it $11.27 for August. That in spite of the very hot weather in the Lake States that dropped the butterfat test to a record low in July of 3.48 and protein down to 3.05 compared to averages of 3.67 and 3.4 percent.

Local Markets

Of course, as I pointed out in my last letter, the Northeastern States are out of step with the national production trends and our supply situation is much tighter but our prices don't show it. Certainly some handlers are finally paying premiums to producers but more to hang on to the producers than to reflect the local market value of the milk. Granted, the local value may be difficult to establish and may vary between handlers so what is needed is a mechanism that can more equitably determine the market value or prices, applying it to all handlers and sharing it equally with all producers. Many local conditions can affect the supply/demand situation that make it different from the national. In addition to the economic factors that affect production such as feed, land and labor costs there is also the opportunity for off farm employment and, as happened this summer, the effect of weather. It didn't affect the Lake States so much but with a dozen counties in Pennsylvania looking for emergency disaster assistance we have dropped production below last year's level in July and I'm sure the effect will last until next Summer. In addition, New York has been hovering between four and six percent below last year ever since last Fall and the drought may have the same effect on Pennsylvania. These two states are the big guns in milk production in the Northeast that provide most of the supply. When their production drops all markets in a dozen states are affected. However, it won't make any difference in the price famrers receive except for what handlers may wish to offer voluntarily to maintain their supply.

As it appears now, the national trend is toward increasing supplies that will lower farm prices in 1988 below what you got in 1987. Congress is back in session as of September 7 and the 1988-89 budget is at center stage. The price support cut already mandated by last year's farm bill will occur on October 1st when it drops 25 cents to $11.10 and chances for another cut of 50 cents to $10.60 on January 1st improve with every monthly report on increasing national production. The most recent USDA estimate of 4.8 billion pounds of milk equivalent purchases by CCC in 1988 are based on a support price of $10.60 not the $11.35 you'll get this Fall. Under the circumstances of higher production and lowering CCC costs the most likely reaction will be to go for it. If that happens, the supply/demand situation in the Northeast will get even tighter but all you will have to make up the difference are the handouts from handlers that are offered to meet the competition for your milk.

Order 2 prices

The situation is best illustrated with the numbers right here in Order 2 that appear on your milk check. The blend price for 3.5 milk at the 201-210 mile zone in August is $12.44 or two cents less than last year. Back in January it was 84 cents higher than the year before and it has dropped in eight months to two cents less. The $12.44 is 48 cents higher than July but 35 cents of that was your pay back from the Louisville Plan. The other 13 cents came from a 17 cent increase in the Class II price to $11.37 and a seven cent increase in Class I to $13.62. Your prices will continue increasing into the Fall months but not as much as last year. They may look better as the assessments for the DTP end this month but look out in January when the full 50 cent cut in the support price will be transmitted directly to your milk check. You better line up all the premiums you can now and join whatever groups are working to get you more if you're interested in selling milk for all it's worth.

MAMMA Includes Lowfat And Skim Milk In New Advertising Plans

BY KARL BERGER
Special Correspondent

HUNT VALLEY, MD — The Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Agency will include lowfat and skim milk in its fluid milk promotional pitch next year, a new wrinkle that will continue a tradition of innovative leadership in dairy marketing, according to agency boosters.

Plans for modifying the agency's current campaign were outlined to directors of the agency — known by its acronym, MAMMA — at their annual meeting here Monday & Tuesday. The directors endorsed the proposed changes in allocating a 1988 budget estimated at $5.9 million.

MAMMA receives most of the funds that Federal order 4 dairymen contribute to local advertising through a check-off conducted by the market administrator's office. The agency sponsors educational and promotional programs in the order's four major markets: Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, D.C., and the Harrisburg-Lancaster area of south-central Pennsylvania.

The new campaign will continue to use the major elements of MAMMA's current and past campaigns, including the use of area sports stars as spokesmen and the well-known slogan, "Milk: It's Fitness You Can Drink," which the agency first introduced in 1983. For the first time, however, radio and television commercials featuring this message will mention specifically lowfat and skim milk.

The change will be made without a large investment in new ads. For instance, existing television commercials featuring Baltimore Orioles star Cal Ripken Jr., and Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies, among others, will be altered to include a shot of three different cartons of milk and a narrator's voice urging viewers to drink whole, lowfat or skim milk.

MAMMA also hopes to produce a new commercial featuring all three of the Ripkens currently with the Orioles — younger brother Bill is a second baseman and father Cal Ripkin Sr., is the manager — in which each of the three would champion a particular type of milk. The agency will develop a print ad featuring the three types of milk and the roles they play in various diets.

The mention of either lowfat or skim milk in generic milk advertising, the kind dairy farmers primarily fund, is still a rarity nationwide despite figures showing the sale of reduced-fat milks has been rising while whole milk sales have fallen. The only current example, according to MAMMA manager Dick Norton, is the "White Lite" campaign for two-percent-fat milk being conducted by the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program.

In remarks to the directors, David Sackey, an executive with the Baltimore-based W.B. Doner and Company, an advertising agency retained by MAMMA, was careful to distinquish Doner's plan from the Pennsylvania campaign. He said an advertising campaign focused exclusively on lowfat milk might accelerate the increasing consumption of such milk, but only at the expense of also accelerating the decline in whole milk consumption. The result would be a smaller overall market for dairy products, as a sales shift from whole to lowfat fluid milk creates more excess butterfat.

Sackey likened MAMMA's new approach to that pursued by beer and soft drink makers that market both regular and diet brands. The Anheiser-Busch Brewing Company, he said, didn't stop advertising Budweiser when it began to promote Bud Lite.

MAMMA's campaign will be conducted, as it has in the past, by professional athletes or coaches that exemplify the fitness theme; with billboards, print ads and other related material in addition to television and radio commercials; and through tie-ins to specific teams and events. For instance, MAMMA will sponsor advertising and give-away promotions at Georgetown University basketball games in Washington and basketball and football games at Philadelphia's Temple University. Georgetown coach John Thompson appears in several MAMMA commercials already. Temple football coach Bruce Arians will be featured in several new radio ads.

Doner executives are particularly excited about MAMMA's association with Thompson, who will coach the U.S. men's basketball team at the Summer Olympics in South Korea. They plan to schedule commercials during telecasts of both the Summer and Winter Olympics next year.

At a price tag of about $3.1 million, the agency's advertising efforts will command the lion's share of the $5.9 million budget, Norton said. The directors also allocated about $1 million to fund Dairy Council work in Philadelphia and Washington. The remainder will go to foodservice, merchandising and communications programs and administrative costs.

A renewed emphasis on training seminars for store personnel who sell dairy products and a continuation of milk promotion efforts among foodservice operators, particularly school-based ones, are among the priorities in the latter area. MAMMA also has launched a program to install promotional messages on tanker trucks that haul milk in the Mid-Atlantic area.

At a reorganization session during the meeting, the 19-member board of directors selected Robert McSparran of Peach Bottom, as the new chairman. McSparran is president of Atlantic Dairy Cooperative. Also elected were: Walter Martz of Frederick, Md., vice chairman; Ivo Otto Jr., of Carlisle, secretary; and Bryon Meredith Jr., of Springfield, Va., treasurer.

Farm Family With Fairy Tale Ending

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

Sometimes life really does come with happily-ever-after endings.

But for Erie County dairy farmers Henry and Cindy Cass, what would be a farm family fairy-tale finish began with sorrowful overtones.

The wicked witch of the story was loneliness. And the knight in shining armor came disguised as a client-listing notebook at the dating service People Helping People.

Product of a small Clarion County farm, Cindy was working in 1982 as a night shift hospital nursing supervisor. Her son, Shawn, a typical four-year-old, thrived in the extended family of his mother, grandparents, aunts and uncles.

But Cindy's loneliness, job stress, and frustration with the "singles scene" had combined into emotional dissatisfaction. She faced a problem that has just recently begun to be seriously discussed in rural America — where to find social companionship in the country.

"I'd go back to farming in a minute," she she confided once to a co-worker, who challenged her to do just that. But the home place simply was too small to be economically operated by Cindy for a living for herself and Shawn.

Instead, and with considerable hesitation, Cindy enrolled in a dating service she had seen advertised in a local paper. On her People Helping People resume, Cindy listed "children" and "farming" as her interests.

While a few initial phone contacts "scared me off," within two weeks, she received a call from Henry.

Loneliness and frustration had also come calling early in 1983 at the 100-head dairy farm of Henry Cass. Single-handedly shouldering the responsibilities of the dairy herd, and his nine and seven-year-old daughters Becky and Sandy, after a marital breakup, Henry simply had no time left for socializing.

Then, he remembered an advertisement for the People Helping People organization. And, near the back of a client listing book, he found Cindy's resume, complete with her interests in "children and farming."

Adhering to the dating service's strict recommendations to become acquainted during daytime hours, on neutral territory, in "Dutch-treat" style, they arranged to meet midway, at a McDonald's restaurant in Titusville.

For hours that Saturday afternoon, they compared notes on kids, family farming, and discovered similarities, such as each being left-handed and adoring the color purple.

. "It was as if we'd known each other forever," relates Cindy. "I knew by the end of that day that he was for me."

"Well, I didn't know that," interjects Henry, with a chuckle.

Before their second date the following week, Cindy became very ill, and was hospitalized. Henry ignored the message she sent cancelling their plans, and turned up instead, between milkings, to visit his hospitalized date.

"I looked awful," she still groans when recounting the incident.

But, three weeks from their first date in late January, Henry and Cindy were engaged.

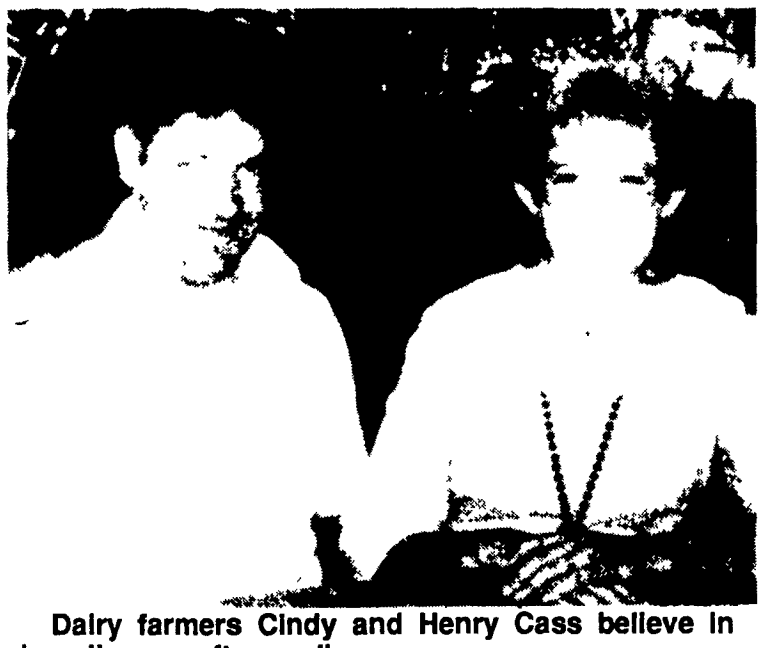
They waited until July, past the ending of the school year, corn planting and haymaking, to be married. But the happily ever after, admittedly, had to work through three children facing upheaval in their lives.

However, with patience, working with a ministerial counselor, and time, the two family entities began to meld into a unified one. The births of their daughter Christy Sue, now three, and Kimberly, two, further bonded a family that together operates the farm and has become actively involved in community and agricultural activities.

"Farming is tough now," figures Henry. But he and Cindy are eager to share their personal beliefs that, no matter how difficult times may seem, a strong family foundation and deep religious convictions can make almost any problem surmountable.

The stabilizing of the family working together on the farm has made a notable difference in the productive efficiency of the Cass' dairy herd. They have been recognized for the most improved production herd in Erie County, with a herd average on the 50 head milking string that initially jumped from 15,000 to over 19,000 pounds.

"It just shows what two people who can work together with cattle can do," Henry reflects. However, he's quick to add that family time together is of greater importance to the Cass' than production accomplishments.



Dairy farmers Cindy and Henry Cass believe in happily-ever-after endings.

And, while all family members pitch in to help with chores, the children are encouraged to be involved in extra-curricular school events, such as band. Cindy and Henry, too, have taken leadership roles in numerous church and agricultural activities, including DHIA, dairy princess committee, PFA and through their membership with Milk Marketing, Inc.

In 1986, they were selected a district young couple for MMI, and attended the annual Pennsylvania Association of Farm Cooperative's young couples conference. Cindy and Henry were selected by their peers to serve on the planning committee and to return as a leader couple for the 1987 conference, held at Danville in July.

When they recount their fairy-tale story, the Cass' still marvel at instances which happened in their separate lives, but almost concurrently, and which played roles in their farm life together now. "It's all just too ironic to have just accidentally happened," both insist.

Put your trust in God," say Cindy and Henry, of the chain of events which led to their happily-ever-after ending.

"When times get tough, you just have to let Him take charge; as farmers we have to do that, too," adds Henry.

West Lampeter Hog Show

Sixteen-year-old Andy Groff, 1218 Lampeter Road, got things off to what is fast becoming a traditional start by winning the grand championship of the junior market hog show for the third year in a row.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Groff is a junior at Lampeter-Strasburg High School.

In addition to winning the championship, Groff was named the best senior showman of the competition.

The reserve championship of the show went to Laura Folker, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Folker, 80-A Redwell Drive, New Holland.

For Miss Folker, it was her second reserved championship in less than 24 hours. On Tuesday evening, she stood in the same spot at the Ephrata Fair.

The pair of reserve champions were litter mates.

Dave Hartman, Columbia County Extension Agent was the judge.

Ephrata Champion Sells For $999

Emery's Buying Station at Green Dragon in Ephrata paid $4.50 a pound for the animal, exhibited by 15-year-old Randy Groff, of 475 Indian Run Road, Ephrata.

The reserve champion hog of Laura Folker, 15, of 80-A Redwell Drive, New Holland, sold to Hatfield Packing Co. for $1.75 a pound, or $399.

In all, 45 hogs were sold to 15 buyers. The average price per pound, excluding the grand and reserve champions, was 73 cents.

Volume buyers included Hatfield, Emery, Ezra Good, Inc. and Ephrata National Bank.

Gordon Sheetenheim, membership chairman of the MD Polled Hereford Association, never misses an opportunity to promote beef. His license plate was spied in the parking area at the Autumn Harvest Classic II Sale held recently at Spring Bottom Farm.

Plant Pathology Head Named

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. — Herbert Cole Jr. has been named head of the Department of Plant Pathology. He had been serving as interim head since January 1986. During the 1986-87 academic year, he also served as chairman of the University Faculty Senate.

"Plant pathologists are to plants what physicans are to people," says Dr. Cole. "Plants are subject to a full array of pathogens including fungi, bacteria, viruses and nematodes, which limit the growth of landscape plants, food and forage crops and forest products. The successful management of plant diseases is an essential part of providing resources for man in the 21st century," he says.

Faculty in the Department of Plant Pathology teach graduate and undergraduate classes, conduct research and participate in the full range of extension education efforts. The department's Plant Disease Clinic receives thousands of specimens every year from citizens throughout Pennsylvania.

Dr. Cole was appointed to the Penn State faculty in 1957, after receiving his Ph.D. in plant pathology and biochemistry from the University. He became an associate professor in 1962 and professor in 1969. His current research interests include the development of systems of plant disease control for agricultural crops, as well as understanding the fate of agricultural chemicals in the soil and the role of agriculture in society into the next century.

Dr. Cole notes that his experience as chairman of the Faculty Senate has reaffirmed for him the centrality of students and faculty to the University. All functions of the University, he feels, should support teaching and research. "Helping students and faculty become the best they can be is one of my prime objectives as department head," Dr. Cole says.

He has long been active in regional and national efforts to help the general public understand and appreciate agricultural science and technology. He is the author or co-author of more than 100 scholarly articles.

Farm Safety Week

should be carried out on schedule. Evening fuel fill and lubrication will ready equipment for the next day, and prevent condensation and corrosion.

* All guards and shields should be secured before equipment is started.

* Hydraulically raised equipment should be securely blocked before anyone starts working around or under the machine.

* Never attempt to clear plugged equipment by hand while power is engaged. Alert operators always shut off the power before leaving the driver's seat.

* Fire is a hazard in the field, particularly during special grain harvest. Every piece of powered equipment should carry a fire extinguisher.

Children should not be allowed to play around machinery. Bill Field, safety specialist of Purdue University says far too many children under 16 end up in the back of ambulances.

Parents need to take extra precautions to protect children, he says. Field outlines six provisions for adults to follow:

1. Remove hazards. "We put up fences for cows, but we let our kids wander all over," says Field.

2. Provide responsible supervision. In a number of farm fatalities that Field investigated, "most of those kids died alone"—without any adult around.

3. Set limits. "Some people say I'm infringing on their creativity. I say I'm loving them by setting limits. Some areas of the farm should be off limits. It's serious business," Field says.

4. Establish priorities and set realistic expectations. "I still think it's important for kids to work," adds Field.

5. Provide ample instruction. Field advises parents to take the time to teach and instruct their children in the proper use of equipment and safety. "We don't take enough time to give good instruction, to point out the dangers," he adds.

6. Use common sense. There are many "don'ts" for parents to follow as well. Don't let kids drive machinery early. Don't let them ride on tractors. Don't let them ride in the grain wagons. The injuries and deaths from accidents are just to numerous to say otherwise.

All this advice can be summed up in one word—"love". "Love is the most effective motivating tool parents have. If you care about your children, protect them." And don't take chances yourself either.

Dairymen Nominated

SYRACUSE, NY — Two Pennsylvania dairy farmers have been nominated to the 18 member board of Agway Inc. at recent meetings across the state. They are Samuel F. Minor, Washington and Joel L Wenger, Green Castle.

Minor will replace Richard Croner of Berlin, PA, currently serving as Agway chairman. Croner chose to retire from the Agway Board when his term expires following the Agway Annual Meeting in Syracuse, NY, October 29-30.

Minor operates a 300-acre dairy farm with 65 head of livestock. He has been a member of the Eighty-Four Agway store committee since 1979 and was elected committee chair in December 1986.

Minor and his wife, Beverly, are active in their community. They have five children.

Wenger will replace Benjamin Wineka of Red Lion who chose to retire following the Agway annual meeting, October 29-30 in Syracuse, NY.

Wenger operates a 320-acre dairy farm with 130 milkers in partnership with his son Larsen. Wenger and his wife, Wilma, have two other sons, Marlin and Darwin, and a daughter Jodi.

A member of Agway since 1965, Wenger has served on the Agway store committee at Chambersburg since 1980 and presently serves as chairman. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association where he has served in a number of leadership roles.

Waverly Farm Tops PA All American Jersey Show

BY PAT PURCELL

HARRISBURG — Waverly Farm Jerseys of Clearbrook, Virginia was the big winner at the Pennsylvania All American Jersey show by capturing the grand championship title and both the premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners. And it was no surprise to anyone with those credentials already gathered that the state or provincial herd honors went to the Virginia State Herd represented by all the competitors from Virginia.

Those exhibitors representing the state of Maryland had an excellent showing also. Bona-Kling Farm of Centreville, Maryland took the reserve grand championship with Bona-Kling Fairy Beacon which was also declared the best milking cow. The junior champion rosette went to Waverly Farms of Virgina. However the Springvalley Farm of Westminster, Maryland captured the reserve junior championship with Glenyle S. J. Hetty.

Waverly Farm Jerseys also took first place in the best three females, dairy herd and dam and daughter classes. Williams Jerseys of McConnelsville, Ohio took first in get-of-sire and produce of dam classes.

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

— A pen of Juniata County White Leghorn hens was declared the winning entry in the 1956-57 Pennsylvania Official Egg Laying Test supervised by the State Department of Agriculture.

The White Leghorns of Leo J. Graybill, McAlisterville, produced a total of 3,757 eggs for 4,038 points during the test period of 11 and one-half months. Second place went to a New Jersey pen of White Leghorns that produced 3,750 eggs and scored 4,000 points, a point being equivalent to one two ounce egg.

— Late maturing corn, pastures and spring-seeded grasses were stimulated by statewide rains accompanied by warm and humid weather during the week ended Monday, according to surveys announced today by the State Department of Agriculture.

Fall plowing was underway in all counties in preparation of seed beds for planting winter grains.

— Although excessively high temperatures and drought conditions existed during most of the crop year in Southeastern Pennsylvania, statewide apple production is expected to exceed last year's by 400,000 bushels, according to surveys by the State Department of Agriculture.

— At the Solanco Community Fair, held in Quarryville last week, the baby beef contest paralleled the contest in Elizabethtown in that the Grand and Reserve Championships were in one family.

Two Aberdeen Angus steers shown by Ernst Frey, 19, and Miss Magda Frey, 12, were grand and reserve respectively. The young owners are the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Frey, Quarryville.

These days the big difference in banks is personal service.

The kind of service only a local bank can give.

It seems as if the pace of life keeps getting faster and faster, no matter how much we try to slow down. Demands on our time increase and the world becomes more impersonal.

That's why at Blue Ball National Bank we place such a high value on personal service. We know that a smile from a teller you know and quick, honest answers to your questions are important. And we believe that a little extra care is part of what local banking is all about.

For over 80 years Blue Ball National has been a part of this community, growing alongside our friends and neighbors. And we plan to remain a strong part of our community, to be a bank where decisions are made locally, where all our offices are full-service and where you're greeted by someone who knows your name.

Sure, we have all the services and conveniences big banks offer: MAC machines at every office, cash management and pension plans for businesses, Ready Reserve and Ready Equity lines of credit. But we think being a local bank means even more than that. As one of our customers told us, "The people at Blue Ball National know me and I know them. That matters to me."

BY THOMAS A. BREWER

There's been a lot of talk lately about lessening barriers to International Trade. Some believe not much will be done, by either the United States or its trading partners, to move toward that goal even though economists talk favorably about it. Perhaps the skeptics are right, but then gain the incentives for moving to free trade and the opening of international markets are quite strong. The most fearful development in my view is the growing wave of "protectionism" in the U.S. If the international trading system is operating at less than an optimal level now, more trade barriers or subsidies which are sure to follow any retaliatory measures we put in place, can only make it worse.

I'll tell you right now that the economist in me believes free trade practiced throughout the world would benefit everyone in the long-run. I can understand though, how pressures and power-politics, which accompany any attempts to "free up" markets, can slow the transition.

I can even understand how individuals might have opposing views concerning how they'd like the markets to operate. For instance I like baseball -- like to watch it and would still like to play. What does my love for and desire to play baseball have to do with trade? Probably nothing, but I am a bit dismayed about the way the baseball player market operates. It bothers me to think I can't play centerfield and bat clean-up for a major league team. The market isn't working to my satisfaction -- Maybe to everyone elses but not mine. Should government make it possible for me to fulfill my wishes. After all, I've been practicing for 53 years and have devoted a good part of my life to the game. I'm 57 years old and do not have the skills to take the job from a current player, but those reasons shouldn't keep me from doing what I want to do. Or should they? But, let's get back to talking about international trade.

Agricultural trade is only a small part of all international trade but it seems to be getting the most attention. We run a surplus in agricultural trade in the United States and it's a substantial one. Many argue that our favorable agricultural trade balance would be even larger if foreign markets were more open and free from government interference. Furthermore, many believe foreign countries shouldn't subsidize agricultural production to keep their farmers competitive. If foreign markets were open and foreign producers were not subsidized our exports and export prices might go up. Perhaps then the U.S. could eliminate agricultural production subsidies though no one has, as yet, tied these two goals together in the public statements I've seen. The U.S. trade representative's primary arguing point at this time seems to be "you can't expect the U.S. to provide you with free and open markets for televisions, automobiles, cameras, foot wear, steel, oil, etc. if you do not provide the same kinds of markets for our agricultural products. Perhaps we do not provide such free and open markets ourselves and perhaps when it comes to markets for agricultural products, foreign countries view them differently and believe them to be of much more importance than automobile or shoe markets. The following remarks are not intended to place blame on anyone. It is hoped they will help the reader understand why some of the current proposals make little sense and why even some of those that do not have merit may not be accepted and put into effect.

Why trade with others in the first place. The reason rational people trade is to better their individual positions -- to have more of or a better mix of the things they want and can pay for. In the old days a person who produced large quantities of butter and nothing else might have wanted eggs. Suppose this led that person to trade with someone who had lots of eggs but wanted more butter. Each party would need to be willing to give up part of his or her goods and exchange some of them for some of those owned by the other. Each trader would need to feel he or she would be better off after the trade. Otherwise trading wouldn't take place. In modern economies, (at least those with internationally recognized and traded currencies) money rather than a commodity, is traded for goods or services. Since money has many alternative uses, buyers purchase those items which will, in their minds at least, better their positions most. Buyers aren't especially concerned about where products are produced. They simply buy them as long as they remain a "good deal." Traders only trade to become better off. Therefore it follows, if all parties must be convinced they will be better off as a result of a trade before trading will take place, that trading must benefit all participants. Great! Knock down the barriers. Let's do it and do it freely. In general w do, but governments of most countries, including the United States, sometimes feel a need or can be pressured into interfering with the traders or ther terms of trade. They use import tariffs, embargos, import and export quotas and production and export subsidies. All distort the "free market" and leave traders less able to better their positions. They interfere with an optimum production mix and with an optimal distribution of goods and services. The optimums, from the consumers' point of view, are no longer achievable because of public interference in the markets.

Sometimes, pressure causing a government to interfere in the workings of markets, arises from the public's concern about the reliability of foreign suppliers. Buying nations ask, "Will foreign suppliers always be willing to provide these products and serve our needs or won't they? If there were a shortage in the exporting country would they still serve us or reduce exports?" they ask.

Most countries have poor records as reliable suppliers. During the 1970's, threats to starve OPEC nations into a more favorable (at least from our point of view) crude oil policy were often heard. We could do it, supporters believed, by withholding technology or food which would be forms of free market interference. Many such policies were suggested and promoted by columnists, commentators, politicians and perhaps even some economists. Then later in the 1970's the use of an embargo to prevent sales of agriuclural products to the Soviet Union became official U.S. policy. Neither of those actions was reassuring to our trading partners. The Russian export embargo was put into effect for political purposes. It and other U.S. policies have cast doubt on our reliability as a supplier of food for foreign countries. Furthermore some of the European countries and Japan have experienced food shortages during this century. They haven't forgotten those times. To some degree fears of a food shortage reoccurring, have lead them to ensure that their needs will be met by producing more of their food at home, rather than relying on more efficient but less dependable foreign suppliers. To be sure they have had to pay huge subsidies to many inefficient farmers and restrict imports to keep them producing. Otherwise their farmers would have found more profitable ways to use the resources they control. Many would be forced to do just that if unsubsidized production free from governmental interference with the market system, were to exist. Citizens of those countries may feel production subsidies, paid largely from tax monies and the accompanying restrictions on imports, are worth the cost in taxes and higher prices even if their only purposes are to make food supplies seem more secure. They may also have other reasons to continue to preserve the non-competitive portions of their own agriculture.

The United States, has not consistently, followed policies that could be expected to allay fears of importing countries either. Our trading partners may worry about again experiencing hunger if they become more dependent on U.S. agriculture. It's a matter of trust and undesirable experiences take a long long time to be forgotten. But the subsidization costs escalate too, and the higher and higher taxes those countries will need to pay them, may help overcome some of those fears of future hunger. We must be careful though, not to take any new actions which might rekindle their fears.

It would be unfair to single out the U.S. and its performance as a trading country. All countries have done things which tend to hinder free trade and invite retaliation. Many, indeen most, have a much poorer record than the United States. The OPEC nationas were our favorite targets for criticism for a while since they posed such a great threat to life styles in the industrialized world. They interfere with the free market by collusively restricting crude oil output and we and others try to counter by building reserves and finding alternative fuel sources. For these and other reasons, many governments feel compelled to interfere with

Troop Family Earns Bay Clean Water Award

MARJORIE KEEN
Chester Co. Correspondent

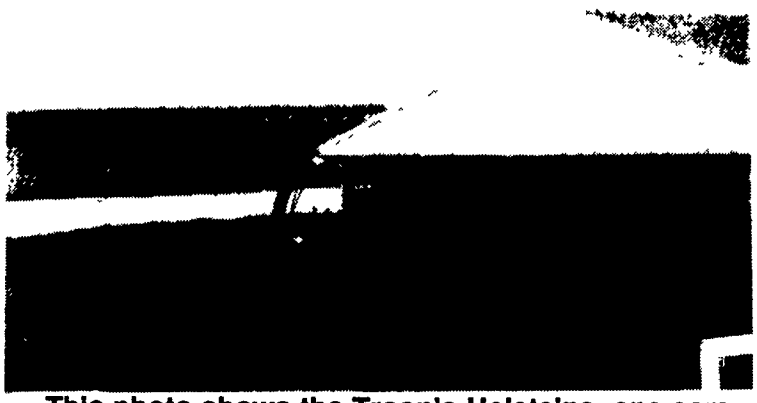
Harry and Dorothy Troop of Faggs Manor Farm, Cochranville, are recipients of the Chester County Conservation District's first Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Award. District Chairman Charles Harris presented the award to the Troops at their 110-acre dairy farm last Monday.

Harry Troop, who farms with wife Dorothy, son David, and David's wife Becky, has completed a conservation management plan. He has implemented a comprehensive manure storage and utilization plan and has installed nearly a mile of drainage tile, storage terraces and contour strips. The Troops have reduced tillage by no-tilling corn on Faggs Manor Farm and on an additional 40 acres that they rent.

The Troops participate in a soil testing program with a service that monitors fertilizer application and yields. A former director of the Chester County Crop Improvement Association, Harry Troop has also instituted a pesticide and herbicide application plan.

With 65 Registered Holstein cows and 60 heifers, Faggs Manor Farm has 180 day manure storage under roof in a pit 48 by 52 feet, 10 feet deep. The Troops haul the manure with a conventional spreader. Nutrient management has reduced fertilizer need to 60 pounds of nitrogen per acre.

Left, Charles Harris, Harry L. Troop, and Dorothy A. Troop discuss the sign that will be displayed on their farm.



This photo shows the Troop's Holsteins, one-acre pond and the 10-foot deep fertilizer storage pit which measures 48'x52'.

The headwaters of Little Elk Creek are located on Faggs Manor Farm. The Little Elk empties into the Chesapeake Bay via the Elk River.

Harry Troop says, "I think the Chesapeake Bay Program is a good thing. We've got to start cleaning up the water."

Dorothy Troop, who enjoys water skiing in the Bay, agrees. "As soon as I get out (of the water), I take a shower," she declares.

Harris stated that nominations for the 1987 Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm Award must be received by the Chester County Conservation District no later than October 16. Nominations may be made by the County Extension Office, Grange, Pennsylvania Farmers Association, Pennsylvania Farmers Union chapters or by the individual farmer (self-nomination).

Chester County Conservation District directors will review all applications and, if a qualified farm is nominated, select a county winner. The district will then prepare a regional application for the county winner.

Every nominated farmer who meets minimum criteria for a Pennsylvania Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm will receive a certificate signed by the Secretaries of Agriculture and Environmental Resources, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. County winners will receive a display sign identifying their farm as a Chesapeake Bay Clean Water Farm. Regional winners will be personally recognized during Pennsylvania Farm Show Week, January 1988, in Harrisburg.

For more information, contact Chester County Conservation District, 235 W. Market St., West Chester, PA 19382, (215) 696-5126.

felt that we had a nice a cow here and that she deserved to be seen," said Peter Witmer, who exhibited the animal.

Glenna is the offspring of Penn Del Flame Goldilocks and was sired by Penn Del Hornet Vesuvins.

"My champion has a beautiful mammary system and is of exceptional quality throughout. She has a very good set of feet and legs also, said Fowler Branstetter of Edmonton, Kentucky, the judge for the show.

In the 3-year-old class Branstetter made his placings after a lengthy process.

"I apologize for taking so much of your time, but in this class we have such tremendous quality. These cows are of premier quality. I feel it is an honor to be placing cows of this quality," said Branstetter. "These cows may very well be the best I've seen in my life."

Walnut Corner Farm of Bismarck, IL, captured the reserve champion and reserve senior champion female honors with their four-year-old cow, "Mountain Brook Big Tex Lorna." They received the Burton Lane Farm Trophy in honor of the Lake Forest, Illinois farm.

"Sunnydell BT Misty," exhibited by Land of Living Farm of Mechanicsburg, Ohio, was the junior champion, while the reserve junior honors went to "Ripley Fm Big Tex Charity" for Ripley Farms of Cortland, NY. Ripley Farms also picked up the Peer Challenge Trophy for the best exhibitor's herd and had the best three junior females.

The Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders Association placed first in the state or provincial herd, followed by New York and Ohio.

Robert Holcomb & Son, Holcomb Guernsey Farm of Greene, New York, was named the premier breeder of the National Guernsey Show, picking up an additional trophy of Gordon Hall. A second Gordon Hall Memorial Trophy went to the premier exhibitor, William Wachtel and his Spring Walk Farm of Big Prairie, Ohio. "Co-Hill Farms TH Big Tex" was named the show's premier sire, owned by the Atlantic Breeders Cooperative of Lancaster, PA.

The National Junior Guernsey Show was open to youngsters born between January 1, 1966 and December 31, 1977. The exhibitor must be the recorded owner of at least one Guernsey female, properly recorded in the herd register of the American Guernsey Cattle Club.

Brian Schnebly of Clear Spring, Maryland, captured grand champion female laurels with his senior two-year-old cow, "Crown Stone Jupiter Orchid." Herbert Guyer of Derry, WESTMORELAND COUNTY, captured reserve grand and reserve senior champion female honors with "Hi Field Jamaica Bossy," winner in the five-or-over class.

The New York breeders won the junior state herd award.

The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show, now in its 24th year, is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania Farm Show Commission.

National Study Rates Lancaster Farming Highly

A recent study shows Lancaster Farming is among the best-read farm newspapers in the nation. The study, which surveyed 63 of the major farm magazines and newspapers, ranks Lancaster Farming tops in a number of categories including: First in number of readers who cut out ads for positive action. First in number of readers who visit dealers to see the advertised products. Second (by less than one point) in number of readers who discuss advertised products or services. Third in time readers spend with each issue. Lancaster Farming readers spend an average of 137 minutes each week.

This rating comes in relation to many national farm publications that publish monthly, twice monthly and weekly. The study was done by the Independent Farm Audience Readership Measurement Service from Mamaroneck, New York.

National advertising agencies as well as local agribusiness firms refer to the study when deciding where to place advertising for products and services needed by farmers. The amount of buying activity among Lancaster Farming subscribers reflects both the newspaper's content and wide circulation. The more than 44,000 paid subscribers form an active audience that turns to Lancaster Farming when deciding to buy something related to their farming operations or family home.

In addition to the advertising, Lancaster Farming readers look for the extensive market coverage, features of outstanding farm families, sale and DHIA reports, home and youth news, editorials and columns by professional people.

Another recent independent study in Pennsylvania by the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation District Directors Inc. and Citizens Program For The Chesepeake Bay also rated Lancaster Farming as the best vehicle to reach farmers. This study concluded that Lancaster Farming was the number one choice of the farmers surveyed, when asked what publication they read regularly and considered a reliable source of information.

Lancaster Farming is published each week from 22 East Main Street, Lititz, PA 17543 and is delivered by mail to Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey, New York and Delaware as a service to farmers and related businesses.

Milking Shorthorn Show Has 200 Entries

HARRISBURG — "Kuszmar Barbara Soo" outshined nearly 200 other entries in today's Milking Shorthorn competition at the 24th Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

"Barbara," a five-year-old cow exhibited by Kuszmar Farm of Batavia, New York, was declared the grand champion female of the show, the senior champion female, the best milking female and the best cow in the five-years-and-over class.

The reserve grand and reserve senior champion female of the show was "Pinesedge Alfair Carleen," exhibited by traditional winner Sam Yoder and Family of Pinesedge Farm, Shoemakersville, BERKS COUNTY. "Carleen" also placed second to "Barbara" in the five-years-and-over class.

The junior champion female, "Seyon Shelly Bluebelle," was exhibited by the Valley Herd Farm of Sanford, Maine, while Three Springs Farm of Newville, CUMBERLAND COUNTY, exhibited the reserve junior champion female, "Three Springs KA Rena." "Rena" was the best animal bred and owned by the exhibitor for Christine Young in yesterday's Junior Dairy Show.

Sandy River Farms of Farmington, Maine, was declared the premier breeder and premier exhibitor of the show. They had the best three females, get-of-sire, best dairy herd, best dam and daughter, senior yearling heifer, best two-year-old and the cow with the best udder. "Korncrest Pacesetter" was named the premier sire of the show for the second year in a row.

Sandy River's presence at the show no doubt earned the Maine Milking Shorthorn Association first place for the state or provincial herd. The Pennsylvania state herd was declared to be the second best, followed by New York, Ohio and Massachusetts.

Richard Keene of Gilbertsville, NY, was the officiating judge for the Milking Shorthorn show. The Pennsylvania All-American Dairy Show is sponsored by the Pennsylvania and Dairy and Allied Industries Association in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the State Farm Show Commission.

PFU Urges Support Of Farm Legislation

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Farmers Union is urging dairy farmers to support special legislation that is geared to prevent a 50¢ per cwt. reduction in the price of milk paid to area dairy farmers.

According to Chester Reed, Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union, (PFU) "the 1985 Food Security Act allows the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture to reduce the support price on manufactured milk producers from $11.10 per cwt. to $10.60 on January 1, 1988." The PFU leader states that the Secretary's authority is predicated on the U.S.D.A.'s estimation that the Agriculture Department will purchase over 5 billion pounds of milk equivalent during 1988. According to Arden Tewksbury, Manager of Northern Tier Farmers Union Milk Cooperative, many private people are estimating the purchases of milk products by the U.S.D.A. during 1988 will not exceed 4.5 billion pounds of milk equivalent. However, according to Tewksbury, unfortunately, the Secretary's estimation is the only one that counts. His most recent estimation indicates 5.3 billion pounds of milk to be purchased during 1988.

According to Reed there is growing support across the country to tie into the Senate-House Budget Reconcilation Act two things:

1. Remove the Secretary's authority to lower the milk support price on January 1, 1988.

2. Increase the mandatory cost on dairy promotion from 15¢ per cwt. to a figure not to exceed 25¢ per cwt.

Reed said present plans would call for the special cost to run from October 1, 1987 through December 31, 1988.

According to Tewksbury, several legislators feel the additional advertising revenue will remove some of the "so called 'surplus milk'" from government channels which would eliminate the necessity of lowering the support price of 50¢ per cwt. on January 1, 1988.

According to Reed, the net saving to all dairy farmers will be 40¢ per cwt. for 1988. This would mean $2500 for the average dairy farmer.

Tewksbury stated, "We have been warning everyone since November, 1985, that we would be facing this situation." The sad thing is we will be facing this same predicament, a possible milk support cut on January 1, 1989 and January 1, 1990. Our best estimation is the average dairy farmer has lost over $75,000 in gross income since 1981. Can you imagine what the $75,000 would amount to if we included the inflation rate since 1981?

Reed asked, "Isn't it time that dairy farmers support our effort to correct the inequalities facing area dairy farmers?" A recent survey taken by PFU, which included 1,000 dairy farmers, indicates that 70% of the farmers supported the philosophy of a milk supply program to stabilize milk prices. Reed urges all dairy farmers and interested parties to call their local Congressman and Senators to urge them to support the budget proposal.

Growth Rate Not Improved

Studies of the hormone somatomedin in broiler chickens have led University of Delaware researcher Michele C. McGuinness to conclude that plasma somatomedin levels in chickens are independent of plasma growth hormone during growth.

McGuinnes presented her findings at the Poultry Science Association annual meeting in August at Oregon State University, Corvallis, Ore. She is a graduate student working on her master's degree under the direction of Dr. Larry A. Cogburn.

Somatomedin, a hormone produced primarily in the liver, acts on muscle and skeletal tissue to promote growth. Reduced levels of this hormone are associated with dwarfism in chickens, but its interaction with growth hormone has not yet been established.

To determine that somatomedin profile in normal broiler chickens, McGuinness first measured plasma levels of this hormone in broiler chickens from hatch to 7 weeks. She learned that somatomedin levels increased steadily up to 3 weeks of age and then were maintained at a high plateau from 3 to 7 weeks.

Because increased somatomedin in pigs is known to increase body weight and lean-to-fat ratio, the Delaware researcher sought to determine the effect of injected somatomedin in chickens. She gave daily injections of recombinant-derived human somatomedin-C to two groups of broilers from 11 to 25 days of age.

free market trading. It's easy to understand why they do and as individuals we may even support some of those actions.

Realistically, international trade cannot be separated from international politics. Since national objectives differ among countries, it is understandable then, that some believe that some types of interference with free trade may be necessary even though overall, in a more trusting and free market world they would be undesirable.

Mid-East Milk Lab

made to update the production records.

After the vials are checked in they are put into long racks and set into a water bath. They are preheated to 104 degrees Farenheit which takes about 15 minutes. The machines are also heated by a heat fan.

"This keeps the butterfat mixed and also prevents the pipets in the machine from getting clogged", explained Hope.

The racks are set on long tracks which advance the vials one at a time to be tested. A spinner stirs the sample, then a pipet draws out five squirts of milk. The first three squirts pumps the preceding sample out. This helps to eliminate the chance of carry over from sample to sample. The fourth squirt is the one tested for butterfat percentage and the fifth one is back flushed. This all happens in a matter of seconds with the results showing up on the computer monitor at about the same time.

Hope explained that 400 samples could be tested per hour if there were not any problems. An average day at the lab is about 2,500 samples with usually 51,000 samples tested each month.

The racks continue on the track to the somatic cell counter in assembly-line fashion. This machine works much in the same way as the other machine. About 80 percent of all the milk samples tested go through both machines which run simultaneously.

After the herd is run, the computer tapes are checked to the tolerance levels set by control samples. The milk is then dumped down the drain which amounts to about 15 gallons a day. This includes the distilled water used in the cleaning process which is made in the lab. The blue tablet (Bronopol) which is put in each vial, is needed to help stablize the milk sample. "It is less harmful to the environment," explained Hope. "So special handling of the waste milk and water was not needed."

Clean-up time takes about 45 minutes with soap and sanitizer being used on a daily basis. Diluted bleach is used twice a week. The vials are washed in a dish washer and the lids are washed in an old wringer washing machine. The magic marker used in numbering the lids comes off in the washing. Plastic bags were used until two years ago. Since the machines were set up to operate with the vials the expense of adjusting the machines to use the bags became too great to be feasible any longer.

The Bronopol tablets are enclosed in each vial and caps are put back on after the vials are dry. The vials are put into styrofoam ice chests with ice packs. These are mailed out each day by UPS to each supervisor.

Every three weeks the lab gets three sets of calibrated samples with ten samples of milk to each set. One set is unknown, the other two are labled as to the percent of butterfat. The samples range from skim to nine percent. The unknowns are tested three times on their lab machines, then averaged. The results are then phoned in to the standard lab center to check for accuracy. The machines are then adjusted if need be to these correct calibrations. Each week they use a new set of these calibrated samples and re-adjust the machines.

California is where Mid-East Lab receives their standards for calibrating their butterfat machines. Only three other labs are recognized for putting out standards for which to calibrate the machines. There is a two-day lag time in shipping these samples from California.

"This eliminates the chance of farmers blaming their tests on the mail since their samples arrive usually overnight or at the latest one day," states Hope.

After the machines are adjusted, an hourly control sample is run behind every herd. This is recorded on the computer print out and at the bottom of the barn sheet. If the machine is off by .05 percent in testing the control sample, it is turned off, flushed out and rezeroed. Every two hours the machines are stopped and flushed out.

"This cleans the machines and helps to insure accurate testing by the machines," explained Hope.

This control sample run after each herd is one the lab makes up using store bought milk. There is a high (4.2-4.3 percent) and a low (3.0 percent) sample made which is tested six times then averaged. They are alternated behind each herd. All color breeds have the higher control sample tested before it gets tested. Any sample that test with a butterfat percentage 2 percent gets retested to make sure the machine is testing accurately.

"The first result is the one recorded with rarely any major difference between the first and second test," stated Hope.

Three control samples come also from California for the somatic cell machine. They come in three ranges of low (200,000), medium (500,000) and high (1,2000,000-1,600,000). Each morning these machines are tested as well as every hour to ensure accuracy.

The Mid-East Lab has two sets of each machine so there is a very small chance of complete shut down. Maintenance on the machines is done over the telephone to New York or Minnesota.

"Rarely will they come to the lab to fix a problem," said Hope, "I've gotten so I can fix most minor problems."

Samples are tested Monday throgh Friday. Samples from the surrounding areas are brought to the lab early Thursday and Friday to eliminate working on Saturday. By 3 p.m. the technicians are finished.

Special care in cleanliness, constant awareness in ensuring accurate testing results and getting the results out the same day, have made this lab a reliable center for testing milk samples.

Real Cheese Kicks Off Fall Promotion

COLUMBUS, Oh. — Mid East United Dairy Industry Association and the Federal Order 36 Advertising and Promotion Agency are teaming up with other U.D.I.A. member organizations nationwide in pledging a combined $4.2 million to promote one of America's favorite foods. "Kick Off the Season with Cheese" is geared to boost sales of real domestic cheese during September 25- November 15 promotion period.

The thrust of the program is directed at the consumer on the retail level, through grocery store point-of-purchase displays. The theme ties directly into football season with eye-catching mobiles and banners. Cheese's good taste and nutritional value will be highlighted in recipes and serving suggestions featuring mouthwatering dishes which cheese compliments -- sandwiches, pizza, salads and party snacks. The appeal of such favorites will also serve as a promotion for other popular products.

CONSUMER INCENTIVE

Consumers can enjoy the fresh taste of natural, domestic cheese and get their own Wilson Pro football. The Wilson Pro football, a $30 value, will be available for only $17.95 with two proofs-of--purchase of real domestic cheese. Official order forms may be obtained from local grocers.

ADVERTISING SUPPORT

The grocery promotion also hallmarks the launch of the "Hasty Gourmet," an exciting new advertising concept developed in cooperation with U.D.I.A.'s Chicago-based advertising agency, D'Arcy, Masius, Benton & Bowles. It features a lively personality who, slightly tongue-in-cheek, introduces some quick tasty menu ideas using real cheese. In the fall period, the Hasty Gourmet will share his "recipe" for crackers with cheese and other quick and easy ideas to remind consumers that natural cheese is a good snack for football watching.

Commercials wil begin airing October 54 on network television and continue for a three-week period during the fall promotion.

Four additional promotional "push periods" are planned throughout the year for cheese and butter.

Mid East U.D.I.A. is the advertising and promotion arm for dairy farmers in Ohio, western Pennsylvania, parts of West Virginia, Kentucky and areas of adjacent states. Together with U.D.I.A. member organizations and affiliated Dairy Council units it invests $110 million annually for a unified promotion program.

Woman Weaves Basketry and Stenciling With Farming

BY JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

DELTA — A search for personalized, handmade Christmas gifts has blossomed into a part-time crafts-career for dairy farm partner Patti Hushon.

Patti and her husband, Dan, operate White Oak Vu farms, Delta R3, with a milking herd of 58 registered Holsteins, plus replacement young stock, and 100 acres of owned and rented cropland.

Although she had no dairy farm background, the former Harford County, Marylander soon felt at home assisting with farm chores, from milking to haymaking. in fact, their sons, Joshua, 6, Jacob, 3, and nine-month old Joseph became familiar with milking routines early in their infanthoods.

Three years ago, planning ahead for the holiday gift-giving season, Patti decided she wanted to stencil personalized pillows for family members and friends. While a teenager, Patti had enjoyed cooking and sewing, but crafts had never held any real appeal for her.

For stenciling advice, she turned to neighboring farm woman Jean Knight. Armed with one short lesson with brush, paints and an old grocery bag for a practice "canvas," Patti tackled the pillow decorating project. By Christmas, two dozen pillows had been sewn, then stenciled with country themes such as geese, hearts, barns - and cows, of course -, plus each recipient's name.

"People love things that have their names on them," she quickly discovered.

Bouyed by the enthusiast response to her gift pillows, Patti was soon a self-described "stenciling addict." Then, just a few weeks after her initial stenciling efforts, she was invited to teach a class on the decorative craft at Kennard-Dale High School's evening adult education series. She agreed to attempt just a "one night deal" as a stenciling instructor, but only as a favor to the friend who was organizing the classes.

"I was scared; I had never done anything like that before," she remembers. The students' evaluations came back so favorably that the class has been scheduled each fall and spring adult-ed semester ever since. To keep both her and student enthusiasm high, the stenciling projects for each three-week, two-hour-weekly, class are different. In fact, some of Patti's students return for nearly each stenciling series.

"Stenciling is a very economical but attractive way to decorate," Patti tells her students. After the few hours of instruction, they've learned enough of the basics to purchase materials and go on to create their own designs. With experience, she notes, comes the courage to more creatively customized stenciling projects.

Patti has removed her kitchen wallpaper, saying she will never again paper a room, and instead stenciled border designs. Her home, and those of friends and relatives, showcase her talent with brush, paints and patterns.

With a bit of stenciling experience, it's not even necessary to purchase expensive greeting cards and invitations, she suggests. Instead, patti recommends using heavy bonded typing paper, cut in half, with an appropriate stenciled design complimenting a handwritten message. For invitations, she suggests folding a sheet for double thickness, printing or typing the desired message on the lower right corner, running copies of as many as are needed and then stenciling a design on the front.

A year ago, Patti's search for specialized gifts sent her off on another craft direction, basketry. Her interest took root at a September flea market, where the price of a handmade basket she wanted deterred her from making the purchase.

Determined to learn basketry instead, she took a three-session course and learned four different types of weaving used in the finished project. With that hands-on experience, and some instruction booklets, Patti has mastered the techniques of a variety of basket designs.

Availability of materials was a problem, since the closest source of reed was more than a half-hour drive away. When she approached the Needle and Quill fabric and craft supply shop in Delta about carrying basket supplies, the owner agreed to stock them, but only if Patti would begin teaching classes.

Her three-week basketry classes, which started in March, have met enthusiastic reception, and like the stencil sessions, pull in many return students. Window displays at the shop, like a current one showing Christmas baskets accented with red and green dyed reed, also effectively promote the sessions.

Patti's artistic basket and stencil creations are in increasing demand among her acquaintances and students. She recently weaved 45 baskets, each requiring several hours of time, for use in a wedding and reception. And, at the reception, the bride wore a stenciled

Patti Hushon blends her basketry and stenciling creativity in many projects, such as the rectangular Apple Harvest basket. The Christmas egg basket, a popular class project, uses red and green dyed reed for touches of holiday color.

Egg and melon baskets begin with the shaping of a god's eye design, into which the basket ribs, or foundation pieces, fit. Patti emphasizes to her students the importance of this step in basketry.

Craft classes, such as those taught by dairy farmer Patti Hushon, continue in high popularity. Students agree they enjoy the sessions both to learn "fast craft" techniques and the social mingling with others having similar interests.

Homestead Notes

wedding apron styled by Patti. Originally a Polish custom, the wedding apron has a large pocket in which guests tuck gifts of money when they dance with the bride. .

A member of York County's dairy princess and promotion committee, and the county's first woman DHIA director, Patti frequently weaves baskets to be filled with cheese and other dairy products for industry promotional events. Often, those baskets are decorated with colorful stenciling.

Quick to praise her husband's support for her creative talents, Patti says that only through Dan's help can she manage the demands of her craft teaching commitments.

"If it weren't for Dan, I wouldn't be able to do half of this," she credits. "But we consider the farm a partnership; I work as hard as I can at the barn and he in turn works as hard as he can to help me. He's really good about it.

Patti's outgoing and friendly personality makes her a natural as a crafts teacher, and she's quick to share tips picked up from her own experience in stenciling and basketry. She does encourage crafters to take a beginning-basics class when learning a new skill. With a little hands-on experience, a crafter can then often advance to individual projects using a well-written instruction book with descriptive photographs or diagrams.

Both novice and experienced crafters may find useful Patti Hushon's advice on stenciling and on dyeing reed for basketry.

PATTI'S STENCILING TIPS

— Use only acrylic paints, preferably in popular brands such as Country Colors, Stencil Decor, and Apple Barrel for non-washables;

— Use soft stencil brushes. Popular sizes include No. 4 and No. 6 for most areas, and No. 2 brushes for small areas to be stenciled;

— Use Tacky Glue for applying lace or eyelet to hooped projects;

— Heat set all stenciled fabrics to prevent fading; Apply dry iron to wrong side of fabirc, on cotton setting, for five seconds.

— Prewash all shrinkable fabrics before stenciling;

— Practice wall stenciling on a scrap piece of wallboard, or the inside of a closet, before beginning to stencil a room.

— When wall stenciling, use a flat paint for the wallcovering for the best results; enamel is more difficult to stencil onto.

DYEING REED FOR BASKET COLOR ACCENTS

— Use a large kettle or an old canning kettle;

— Fill kettle half-full of tap water, add ¼ cup of salt and sprinkle in a small amount of dye of the color desired;

— Bring to a full boil for best results;

— Remove from heat and test the color with a scrap piece of reed. If the shade is not acceptable, add more dye and stir for darker shade, or add more water for lighter shade;

— When color is satisfactory, place the reed in the liquid. Let set five minutes, turn over, and let sit an additional five minutes, or until the reed is the desired shade. A deep red or scarlet takes up to one-half hour;

— Rit Dye and Comcraft Basket Dye are suggested;

— One packet of dye should dye up to two pounds of reed. The exception is when dyeing red and scarlets, which only dye about one pound of reed to a deep shade of color.

— When re-wetting red and scarlet dyed reed for weaving, soak only in cold water; use of warm will cause the reed to fade.

— Reed can be dyed ahead of weaving or an entire basket can be placed into dye for a uniform color. Caution: Care must be taken when immersing baskets with handles that have been glued, or glue may dissolve.

Weaving in extra wide popular splits allows space on the Apple Harvest basket for Patti to stencil apple motifs.

Chester County Celebrations

National 4-H Week, October 4-10, will be observed throughout the United States. "4-H Ain't All Cows N' Cooking!" There are 1200 4-H members, 200 4-H leaders and 83 4-H clubs in Chester County, that are active in the "Learning By Doing - To Make The Best Better" education that the Pennsylvania 4-H Program offers.

Through Penn State University, Pennsylvania's Land Grant University, the Chester County 4-H program obtains a selection of over 120 different 4-H project books. In Chester County there are opportunities for youth, leaders and families to take part in 4-H club experiences that include Beef, Sheep, Swine, Horse, Dairy Goat, Dairy Cow, Dog Obedience and Handling, Seeing Eye Puppy, Clothing and Textile, Travel Exchange, Community Club, Classroom Embryology and Urban programs.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Outside, the sky hangs sullen and gray. Inside the cavernous, concrete-block building, the air matches the leadeness of the cloud cover.

And I am bored.

This is my afternoon for volunteering in our county's dairy promotion sales booth at the local fair. Days of showers and the winding down of events have cut further into what is normally one of the slower days of business.

Besides the usual business of dipping delicious ice cream, this annual afternoon of dairy booth volunteerism has always served a second purpose: people watching. Working at home as we do doesn't often provide for such a window on the world. Unfortunately this day, the flow of people is scanty.

Boredom does strange things to one's head. Or maybe it's just the overwhelmingly delicious smell of fresh roasted peanuts from a booth around the corner. Whatever, I find myself pondering things which normally wouldn't get a second thought.

Like the apparent enthusiasm with which people offer their bodies to advertising. Gosh, we spend millions of our own bucks every year to splash promotion - for something - from our heads to our toes. About every fifth person sported a promotional shirt or hat, making for interesting reading.

Travel locations with hands down in the tee-shirt category, featuring vacation sites from Hawaii to summer camp. Also favored are vehicles - trucks to motorcycles - and foods. Rock groups, sports, even Mickey Mouse, stroll past the booth in this promotional parade.

"Did your parents really name you 'Milk'? asks a wise-guy exhibitor across the way of my bright blue tee-shirt imprinted with the white letters M-I-L-K. Hey, one has to flow with the trend, and when in Rome....

Hats lean more toward vehicles and equipment, with less space, of course, for creative artwork. One hat wearer, though, isn't about to use his "ad space" for promotional benefit. Printing on the headgear grumbles: "Whatever it is - I'm against it."

People are just as fascinating as tee-shirt reading on a slow afternoon.

Sometimes the hats and shirts stop to point, laugh, and acquire a dairy promotional favorites: colorful cow erasers which never fail to amuse kids (old and young).

"I want the pink one," pleads a small youngster to the male adult accompanying him. "No, that's purple," the grownup insists, of the obviously (to me, anyway!) bright pink, rubbery cow. Saying no more, the youngster accepts the correction from what I mentally label a color-blind individual. When, an hour later another adult called it a Purple Cow. I start doubting my own eyes.

Not the guy who comes along a bit later and acquires one of the erasers. Claiming he's never made a mistake yet, he allows that he'll take one anyway. Just in case.

Dot matrix music, the clicking of a computer printer across the aisle, stirs me from a lenghty yawn. At the computer photo booth, a monitor which shows the subject being photographed broadcasts the picture of a dog. A dog? Moments later, a husky, burly gentlemen leaves with computer printout photo in one hand, and a handsome, fullbred Doberman following on the leash in the other. Capture your loved one in a photo, suggests the exhibit.

"I'll have a soda," announces a small voice from a face I have to lean out over the counter to find. Two small youngsters push a baby in a carriage. No accompanying adult is in sight.

"Sorry, we don't have any soda," I reply. "How about Chocolate milk?"

"I'll have a chocolate milk," says the smudged-face, tow-haired, about-five-year-old.

"No Heather," instructs the only-slightly-older, tallest of the three. "It's not free." While I fleetingly debate an out-of-pocket donation, the trio vanishes.

Before long, my stint is over. I gallop to the cattle barns just ahead of a cloudburst and head home through traffic for an evening of chores.

Convinced that such an occasional afternoon of boredom isn't a bad idea at all. Sign me up for next year.

"Make It With Wool"

The "MAKE IT WITH WOOL" local contest will be held at 8:00 P.M., October 8, 1987 at the Unionville Community Fair, Unionville High School, in the Chester County Sheep and Wool Grower's exhibit tent.

The contest is open to individuals over 10 years of age who construct their garments using at least a 60% wool fabric -- commercially woven, hand loomed, knitted, felted, or crocheted.

The winners of the junior and senior divisions in this District competition will compete on the State level in November or December. The State winners have an opportunity to win scholarships and other prizes at the National competition in San Antonio, Texas in January 1988.

The purpose of the "MAKE IT WITH WOOL" contest is to focus attention on the beauty and versatility of wool; to encourage use of this incomparable fabric or yarn in sewing, knitting, crocheting, felting, or woven fashionable garments, and to help promote an American-made product -- American Wool!

Entries are due by October 1. Applications are available by contacting: Bobbie Leis, 4003 5th St. Road, Oxford, PA 19363, or calling (215) 932-9638. The contest is sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the National Wool Growers Association, a non-profit organization, and the American Sheep Producers Council, Inc.

Bushels of Cooking Fun For Apple Lovers

The crisp, clean crackle of autumn is in the air. What a perfect time to enjoy making wholesome apple treats.

But don't limit your apple recipes to the fall. Apples are available fresh year-around for use in a variety of recipes.

Apple recipes can be as stable as the traditional apple pie or as dramatic as Apple Juice Fluff.

You're receive plenty of "oohs and ahs" whether it is served as a salad or desert. It can ever double as a pretty centerpiece on the buffet table. Try it and the many other scrumptious recipes that readers have submitted.

MOM'S APPLE PIE

A reader shares her mother-in-law's recipe for apple pie. She said, "This recipe is fast and easy—perfect for working moms. The hardest part is peeling the apples, a job I leave to the husband or the eldest son. That way they can get involved in making the pie and everyone shares the credit."

8-10 large baking apples, peeled and thinly sliced
¾ cup sugar
cinnamon to taste
2 deep dish pie shells
Crumbs:
½ cup sugar
½ cup flour
1 stick butter

Combine apples with sugar and cinnamon in large mixing bowl. Toss to coat fruit. Set aside.

In small mixing bowl, combine ingredients for crumbs. Cut butter into sugar and flour to make crumb topping. Fill pastry crusts with apple mixture. Sprinkle crumb topping over mixture being careful to completely cover tops of pies. Bake in 350 degree oven for 45-50 minutes.

Lancaster

APPLE CRISP

4 cups sliced apples)for extra fiber leave on skins)
½ cup sugar
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup butter
¾ cups flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Place sliced apples in buttered baking dish. Mix sugar, flour and butter until crumbled and pour over apples. Bake uncovered for 45 minutes at 375 degrees. You may add chopped walnuts or raisens. Serves 4.

Denise McGarvey
Reynoldsville

EGGNOG SAUCE

2 cups milk, scalded
¼ cup sugar
pinch of salt
4 egg yolks
1 teaspoon rum or vanilla extract
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg

Combine hot milk, sugar and salt; stir until sugar dissolves. Beat egg yolks slightly; add milk mixture. Cook over hot water or on very low heat, stirring, just until mixture coats spoon. Do not boil! Add flavoring and nutmeg. Chill. Makes 8 (¼ cup) servings.

APPLE DELIGHT

4 or 5 apples
½ cup water
½ cup marschino cherry juice few drops of red food coloring
½ cups sugar
4 tablespoons pineapple
½ cup whipped cream
4 or 5 marschino cherries

Pare and core apples. Place in covered casserole. Mix cherry juice, water and sugar together. Add coloring to tint and pour over the apples. When apples are soft, place in individual servings dishes. Put a spoonful of shredded pineapple in the center of each. Pour the liquid from the casserole over the apples and top with whipped cream. Garnish with maraschino cheeries.

Mertztown

APPLE GOODIE

2 quarts sliced apples
1 cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
For Topping:
¾ cup oatmeal
¾ cup brown sugar
¼ cup melted butter
¼ teaspoon soda

Pare and slice apples. Combine sugar, salt, cinnamon and flour and sprinkle over apples. Evenly, place apples in bottom of baking dish. Combine oatmeal, brown sugar and soda. Add melted butter and rub into oatmeal mixture to make crumbs. Place crumbs on top of apples. Serve with rich milk or whipped cream as desired.

Take advantage of the adaptable apple. Apples offer juicy temptations with cold or hot mulled apple cider. A multitude of apple desserts appeal to all ages. Any way you slice it, apples offer nutritious taste-tempting dishes at affordable prices.

APPLE JUICE FLUFF

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
4 cups apple juice or cider
2 egg whites
½ cup sugar
2 cups diced, unpeeled red apples

Soften gelatin in ½ cup juice for 5 minutes. Bring 2 cups juice to a boil in medium saucepan; add to gelatin; stir until dissolved. Add ¼ cup sugar; stir to dissolve. Add remaining 1¼ cups juice; chill until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Beat egg whites until they form soft peaks; beat in remaining ¼ cup sugar. Beat gelatin mixture until thick and foamy; fold in apples and egg whites. Spoon into 2-quart mold. Chill until firm. Serve with Eggnog Sauce. Makes eight servings.

BOILED APPLE DUMPLINGS

5 or 6 apples, pared, quartered and sliced
3 cups water
1 cup brown sugar

Bring to a boil and cook until half-done

Dumplings:
2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter
Milk to make a stiff dough

Drop dough on boiling apples. Cook 25-30 minutes. Serve with milk or ice cream. Peaches may be used in place of apples.

APPLE SPONGE PUDDING CAKE

6 medium-sized apples (pared and sliced)
2 eggs separated
1 cup sugar
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla

Make a batter with all the ingredients except the apples. Fold stiffly beaten egg whites into the batter.

2 tablespoons butter
1½ cup brown sugar

Melt butter and sugar and put it into the bottom of the baking pan. Pour batter into the pan. Bake 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Becky, as she is known to her friends, loves recipes using real dairy products. The Blueberry Muffin recipe is the one Becky submitted for this year's Royal Recipes, a booklet featuring the favorite recipes of the 1987-88 county dairy princesses of Pennsylvania.

Look for Becky's picture and story on the state pageant in this week's Lancaster Farming.

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

1 cup non-fat blueberry YOGURT
3 Tbsp. BUTTER
4 Tbsp. light brown sugar
1 egg
2 Tbsp. low-fat or skim MILK
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1½ cups flour
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 cup fresh, frozen, or canned (drained) blueberries

Preheat oven to 375°. Cream lightly together the BUTTER and brown sugar. Beat in the egg. Stir in the MILK, YOGURT and vanilla, until smooth. Sift together the flour, baking soda, baking powder and salt. Stir dry ingredients into wet ingredients just to combine (no more than 20 seconds). Stir in blueberries. Spray muffin tin or use paper liners. Spoon the mixture into 12 regular or 8 large muffin cups. Bake 25 to 30 minutes or until muffins are lightly browned. About 125 calories per regular size muffin. Makes about 1 dozen.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't seem to find it anywhere, send your recipe request to Cook's Question Corner, care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 366, Lititz, PA 17543. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION - Mrs. Donna Steele, Vintondale, would like a recipe for a dessert called Havanna Banana. It has a tapioca base. If we do not receive an answer to this question by next week, we will assume that readers are unfamiliar with this dessert and we will drop the question.

QUESTION - Carol Fantom, Delta, would like a recipe for soft and fluffy biscuits like those served at fast food restaurants. If we do not receive an answer to this question by next week, we will assume that none of the readers know how to make these and we will drop the question QUESTION - Salina Peight, Belleville, would like a recipe for canning chili soup.

QUESTION - M. J. Willaw, Millerstown, requests a recipe for corn mush that uses flour and sweet corn instead of corn meal. She said her grandmother used to cook it until thick then when it was cold, she sliced it and fried it like mush made with corn meal.

QUESTION - Edna M. Kleinhans, Conestoga, requests a recipe for pickle relish like the Heinz brand name tastes.

QUESTION - Mrs. E. Martin, Narvon, requests a recipe for Haystack Dinner, a layered meal that includes mashed potatoes, which is served in individual dishes. She would also like a recipe for stewed tomatoes.

QUESTION - A reader would like to know if there are substitutions for wine, beer or liquor ingredients in recipes.

QUESTION - Mrs. Abner Z. Glick, Quarryville, requests a recipe for solid pumpkin pies. "Please," she begs, "tell exactly how you do it. Do you separate the eggs, beat them individually or together?"

QUESTION - Carolyn Steigerwald, Bernville, requests a recipe for pumpkin pie that is made from peeled, sliced, raw pumpkin instead of the usual cooked and mashed pumpkin.

QUESTION - Mrs. Paul L. Nice, Souderton, would like a recipe for pumpkin whoopie pies. She said that she works in a restaurant bakery and they are looking for a good recipe now that fall is almost here.

QUESTION - Rachel Beiler, New Providence, requests a recipe for granola bars which taste like store-brought ones.

QUESTION - Florence G. Nauman, Manheim, would appreciate a recipe for Molasses Whoopie Pies.

QUESTION - Mrs. E. Boyer, York Haven, requests a recipe for almond spice cake and for a lemon drink that is made similar to homemade rootbeet which uses yeast, sugar and lemon.

QUESTION - Jeanette Brooks, Westfield, requests a recipe for the starter required in the recipe for Friendship Cake.

ANSWER - Linda M. Marks and many other readers have requested diabetic recipes. In our October 10 issue, we will feature diabetic recipes in the section titled "Home on the Range." If you would like to share your diabetic recipes, please mail them by the end of September.

ANSWER - Mrs. Melvin Beiler, Elverson, requested a recipe for canning barbecue sauce. Thanks Eva Southard, Glen Rock, for sharing your recipe.

Barbecue Sauce

½ cup minced onions
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons fat
1 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoons pepper
2 tablespoons brown sugar
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon Worcester sauce

Apple Lovers

1¾ cups white sugar
1 cup oil
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 cups chopped apples
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup nuts or raisins

Mix all ingredients together and bake in 9x13 greased pan at 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

Mrs. Henry Yoder
Kirkwood

3 tablespoons grape, blackberry or elderberry wine
1½ cups catsup
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1½ tablespoon vinegar

Mix ingredients and heat to boiling point. Boil 10 minutes and can while boiling.

ANSWER - Thanks Carole Frantz, Friendsville, Md., for sending your recipe for beef barbecue that doesn't use ground beef which a reader had requested.

Beef Barbecue

6 pounds beef chuck roast
1 stalk celery, chopped
3 large onions, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
1 bottle ketchup
3 tablespoons barbecue sauce
3 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
2 tablespoons chili powder
2 tablespoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1½ cup water

Cut beef in 5 or 6 pieces. Place in roaster or Dutch Oven. Combine celery, onion, green pepper, ketchup, barbecue sauce, vinegar, Tabasco sauce, chili powder, salt, pepper, and water (can be blended in blender). Pour over meat. Heat to boiling on top of range. cover; then simmer or bake at 300 degrees for 6 hours or until meat is tender enough to shred with a fork. Remove fat and pull meat apart into shreds with a fork. If too soupy, cook uncovered a little longer until right consistency is reached to spoon into buns.

ANSWER - Virginia Kalp, Stahlstown, requested a recipe for cabbage and noodles. Thanks Wilma Kuzemchak, Clymer, for the following recipe.

Halushki
(Cabbage and Noodles)

2 large potatoes, grated
1 tablespoon salt
1 egg
3 cups flour

Add salt, eggs and flour to potatoes and mix well. Dough should not be thin. More or less flour may be used according to size of potatoes. Put dough on plate. Use knife to scrape off small portions at a time into boiling water. Boil about 15 minutes. Keep stirring to prevent scorching. Drain in colander. Rinse once with water. Don't let halushki get too cold. Place in bowl and prepare cabbage.

1 head cabbage (about 2 pounds), finely chopped
1 tablespoon salt.

Sprinkle salt over cabbage and fry until lightly browned in 3 tablespoons shortening. Brown 2 small onions chopped in 2 tablespoons shortening. Mix halushki, onions, and cabbage together until well-mixed. Heat and serve.

ANSWER - Martha Oberholtzer, Mifflinburg, wanted to know how to can grape juice so no hard particles form in the bottom and she asked if grape juice can safely be canned by using clear-jel or tapioca. Thanks Mrs. John B. Becker, Paradise, who says that she cans grape juice without sugar since that is what causes the crystals to form in the bottom. She also said that she thickens grape juice with tapioca to can it.

ANSWER - Blanche Hess, Quarryville, would like to know how to keep worms out of chestnuts. Thanks Mrs. John B. Becker, Paradise, who said to avoid wormy chestnuts pick chestnuts every day and immediately place them in the freezer.

QUESTION - Bea Shuey, Annville, requested a recipe for lemon butter. Thanks Leonore Aaron, New Providence, for sharing your mother's recipe.

Lemon Butter

5 eggs beaten
1 pound sugar
3 lemons and grated rind
¼ pound butter

Cook over simmering water until thickened. This is good on any sweet bread, Leonore said.

APPLESAUCE NUGGETS

Donna Rae from Newville said she received this recipe 15-20 years ago when a radio station read it over the air. Since then these big, soft cookies are a favorite at their house.

Cream together:
1 cup shortening
2 cups brown sugar
2 eggs
2 cups applesauce

Beat well then sift together:
4 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon allspice (optional)
½ teaspoon cloves

Add to creamed mixture. Drop by tablespoon on lightly greased baking sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 10-12 minutes.

Donna Rae Burgett
Newville

APPLE CRUNCH

3 cups apple wedges
1 cup water
¾ cup flour
1 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup butter

Put apples and water in shallow uncovered baking dish. Mix flour, sugar and cinnamon together. Blend in the butter until a crumb mixture is formed. Spread over top of apples.

ECID Members To Attend Annual Meeting

Dairylea Cooperative's 69th annual meeting in Liverpool, NY, in mid-October will be important for some 250 members of ECID. ECID stands for "Education, Communication, and Information for Dairylea." Its women members, all from Dairylea member farms in NY, PA, NJ, and New England, work year round providing information to members in their localities, lobbying, and telephoning members for needed political action.

While at their co-op's annual meeting Oct. 13-14, the Dairylea women will hear U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng. He will address delegates at 1 p.m. on Oct. 13 in a rare New York State appearance.

Sue Hosey, director of consumer affairs and public affairs for P&C Foods, Inc., will make a special presentation to ECID. She will discuss what consumers look for in selecting products from the dairy case and how wholesale buyers perceive dairy products in today's supermarkets.

Dairylea president Clyde E. Rutherford, treasurer Silas E. Eakins, and chief executive officer Bob Hall will report to Dairylea's delegates, who also will act on policy resolutions. ECID members will observe in order to help carry information back to their districts.

More than 800 members and guests are expected to attend the meeting, which highlights Dairylea's 80th anniversary. Dairylea has 3,000 members, and 13 other dairy co-ops affiliated for services. Net sales for the fiscal year 1986-87 were $343 million.

THE MICRO WAY

LANI BLOOMER

THE BEST OF THE MICRO WAY

This will be the last Micro Way column, faithful readers. I have accepted a full time job at Penn State, and will no longer be writing The Micro Way.

I am leaving you with a handful of the best Micro Way recipes. I've chosen these because they are all quick, inexpensive, easy enough for children to make, and good eating too!

Make this speedy casserole ahead of time or freeze it if you wish. Leave the cheese off the top so you can stir as it reheats, then top with cheese just before eating.

PIZZA CASSEROLE

1 pound ground beef or sausage
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 can (4-ounce) sliced mushrooms
1 can (16-ounce) pizza sauce
1 cup HOT water
1½ cups macaroni elbows (uncooked)
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese (4 ounces)

1. Break up meat into a 2 quart casserole. Add onion and pepper on top. Cover and microwave on high for 5-6 minutes, stirring twice, until meat is brown and vegetables tender.

2. Stir in the rest of the ingredients, except cheese. Cover tightly with a lid or plastic wrap. Microwave on high for 15 minutes, stirring every 5 minutes, until the macaroni is tender.

3. Sprinkle cheese on top and let stand 5 minutes before serving. Serves 4.

These hot appetizers have been a favorite at microwave demonstrations for years! Wrap them ahead of time then cook when you're ready for an instant snack!

BACON STICKS

1 box Snack Sticks (small, 3 inch bread sticks) sliced bacon
about 1 cup grated Parmesan cheese

For each 12 appetizers:

1. Cut three pieces bacon in half crosswise and then in half lengthwise (to get 12 little skinny strips).

2. Spread cheese on a flat plate or papertowel. Dip both sides of a bacon strip in cheese, then wrap diagonally around one bread stick. Repeat for remaining 11 bacon pieces.

3. Pace bacon sticks, 12 at a time, on a bacon or meat rack. Microwave on high for 2-3 minutes, just until bacon is done. Let cool a minute or two. Serve warm.

To cut this thrifty recipe in half, just cut the ingredients and cooking times in half. Let the carrots stand a full 5 minutes though — that's when they finish getting tender.

HONEY GLAZED CARROTS

6 carrots (about 1 pound)
2 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon honey
¼ teaspoon salt

1. Scrape carrots and slice diagonally into ¼ inch slices. Put in a one quart casserole with the water, cover.

2. Microwave on high for 7-8 minutes, stirring after 4 minutes, until almost tender.

3. Drain. Add remaining ingredients, stirring until butter melts and the carrots are well coated. Leave uncovered and microwave on high for 4 minutes until the carrots are glazed. Cover and let stand 5 minutes until fully tender. Serves 4.

These stewed apples are ready to eat in less than 10 minutes. They are delicious warm for breakfast with pancakes or over ice cream for dessert.

STEWED APPLES

2 medium apples, peeled, cored and sliced
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon butter or margarine

1. Mix cinnamon and sugar in a small cup. Put apple slices in a one quart casserole and stir in sugar. Dot with butter.

2. Cover and microwave on high for 2 minutes. Stir. Then microwave on high for 1-2 minutes longer until the apples are almost tender. Let stand for several minutes before serving. Serve warm or chilled. Serves 2.

Fudgy brownies freeze and keep well, if tightly covered. My son won a blue ribbon with this recipe at our Grange Fair.

FUDGY BROWNIES

1 stick margarine or butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
¾ cup flour
⅓ cup cocoa
½ teaspoon baking powder
pinch of salt

1. Put margarine in a medium microsafe mixing bowl. Microwave on high for 60 seconds, until melted. Stir in sugar, then beat in eggs.

2. In a separate bowl combine remaining ingredients, then stir into egg mixture until blended. Pour batter into a greased 8" square microsafe pan.

3. Cover with waxed paper and microwave on medium (50,5) for 10 minutes, until the center of the batter raises up. Rotate the pan once if your oven cooks unevenly.

4. Microwave on high for 1-2 minutes longer, until the center of the batter is cooked. Remove waxed paper and cool before cutting. Makes 16-25 squares.

NOTE: Microwave times are approximate since oven speeds vary so greatly. Start with the shorter times given in the recipes, add time if needed.

Thank you all for reading, and writing. I wish you many years of happy microwaving.

Sussex 4-H Leader

Mary Argo of Milford, Del., a project leader for the Broadkill 4-H Club, will attend a national volunteer leader forum on nutrition Sept. 13 to 17 at the National 4-H Center, Chevy Chase, Md.

Argo, who has led projects in food and nutrition in the Sussex County club for the past seven years, holds a bachelor's degree in home economics from the University of Delaware. Her trip is sponsored by the Delaware 4-H Foundation and the Campbell Soup Company, which is also sponsoring the meeting.

During the forum, Argo will attend workshops on time management; food and nutrition projects for latchkey kids; fitness and food; food power in sports; and careers in the food industry. Participants will also tour the microwave workshop at the Campbell Soup Co.

Argo was one of the original members of the Broadkill Club after it was founded by her mother. She has five children, all of whom participate in 4-H.

Kid's Korner

Trouble In the Classroom

BY LOU ANN GOOD

Wiskers stuffed the corn kernel into his cheek pouch. His beady black eyes begged for another one.

As Jason reached into the cage to fill the water dish, the hamster's whiskers tickled his fingers.

"Hey!" Samantha yelled as she rushed across the classroom. "Let me give him the water." She grabbed the water pitcher and dumped water into Whisker's dish.

Water splashed over the sides of the dish and soaked the hamster's food and the wood shavings that lined the bottom of the cage.

"Yuck!" Samantha wrinkled her nose at the soggy mess. "Whiskers needs dry food." She grabbed the hamster from his cage.

It's my turn to take care of him this week," Jason protested. "Put Whiskers back in his cage so he can't escape."

Samantha jerked Whiskers away from Jason's reach and ordered, "You clean the cage and I'll watch him."

Jason frowned. He knew Whiskers should be kept in his cage at all times because a hamster can disappear from sight before a person can blink twice. But arguing with Samantha wasted time so Jason reached into the cage to remove the wet bedding.

Samantha dropped to the floor and lay on her stomach. She placed Whiskers on the floor in front of her. "He can't get away from me." She bragged. "I'm fast."

Whiskers was curious. He sniffed at the blue tweed carpet. he stood on his hind legs and examined a school desk.

Jason had just finished cleaning the cage when Samantha wailed, "Whiskers isn't here."

Jason looked under the radiators. Samantha hunted behind the books on the shelves. The teacher and the other children joined in the search. They looked under the desks.

Jason searched all the places Whiskers might be and some of the places where he could not be. Whiskers has to be in the room," Samantha said. But nobody could find him.

The teacher shook her head and said, "Hamsters are tricky and are seldom found after they escape."

During recess, Jason sat on the school steps. A lump rose in his throat. He missed Whiskers. When he remembered the way the hamster's whiskers had quivered while munching on a carrot, Jason felt even sadder. He could not eat the carrots his mother had packed for his morning snack.

Samantha bounced over to Jason. "You must think of a way to catch Whiskers," she ordered.

"It's your fault," Jason snapped.

"I didn't try it." Samantha yelled. Then she looked sorry. "I'll help you think of a way to catch him," she offered.

She sat beside Jason on the concrete steps. Soon she suggested, "Hamsters are good at smelling. If we put his corn in the middle of the classroom, he'll get hungry and come out for food."

Jason shook his head. "Whiskers will run away before we can catch him."

Behind them, the school door opened and the happy whistle of the janitor sounded. "Why are you two sitting here and looking so sad? asked Mr. Jenkins.

Jason told Mr. Jenkins about the hamster's escape.

Mr. Jenkins looked thoughtful as he scratched his chin. Then he rubbed his ear. Finally, he shook his head and admitted, "I can't think of any way to help you. Those hamsters sure are sneaky."

The janitor picked up his cleaning bucket and started to walk off. The clinking noise of Mr. Jenkins' bucket gave Jason an idea.

"Mr. Jenkins," Jason called. "May I borrow your bucket?"

"Why? asked Mr. Jenkins. "Are you going to scrub Whiskers' cage?"

"No." Jason giggled. "I'm going to trap Whiskers in the bucket."

The janitor's eyes twinkled, then sobered. "But how will Whisker's get into the bucket?" he asked.

For a minute, Jason looked sad. Then Samantha said, "He's smart. He'll think of a way."

And Jason did.

"Hampsters are good at smelling food and following the scent," he explained to Mrs. Wise as he stacked some wooden blocks up one side of the bucket.

Jason took a carrot that was leftover from his morning snack. He rubbed it on each block that formed the stairs he had built along side of the bucket. Then he dropped the carrot inside the bucket. Jason smiled with happiness as he told Samantha, "Whiskers will smell the carrot and follow the trail. He won't be afraid to jump inside, but he can't climb out of the bucket."

The next morning, Jason could hardly wait until he reached the kindergarten classroom. His heart pounded as he hurried towards the bucket.

He peeped into the bucket. There sat the hamster munching on the carrot.

Jason stroked Whisker's soft fur. "It worked." He yelled, "My trap worked."

Samantha smiled as she peered over Jason's shoulder. This time she didn't grab Whiskers.

He looked everywhere, but Jason couldn't find Whiskers.

Jason is the son of John and Sue Breckbill of Manheim.

Jason likes to play with the furry hamster whose whiskers tickle Jason's fingers.

Jason reached in the hamster's cage to clean it.

Berks County Girl Wins Baker Scholarship

UNIVERSITY PARK — Kelly Scott of Sinking Springs was one of four outstanding 4-H members awarded the Allen L. Baker and Richard H. Baker scholarships, according to B. Alan Snider, state 4-H program leader at Penn State.

The $250 scholarships are given annually in honor of Allen L. Baker, whc served Pennsylvania 4-H for 38 years, and his son, Richard, who was director of financial management at Penn State.

Leslie Bowen of Port Royal, Ross Pifer of Reynoldsville, and David Antram of Somerset join Kelly as this year's winners.

To be eligible to win, each youth must have Pennsylvania 4-H experience, be enrolled at Penn State and submit a narrative on "The Future of 4-H." They are also judged on their 4-H records.

Kelly Scott, who has been active in 4-H for five years, is a freshman at Penn State majoring in nursing and communications. Kelly participated in the State 4-H Achievement Day from 1985 to 1987, and has completed projects in rabbits, caving and consumerama.

Leslie Bowen has been a 4-H member for 10 years, completed many projects, and participated in State Leadership Congress, State 4-H Achievement Days, and attended the Pennsylvania Governor's School for Agriculture at Penn State. She is a freshman at Penn State majoring in agricultural science.

David C. Antram, an 11-year member of 4-H, completed projects in sheep, electric, automotive, and many more. He participated in State 4-H Achievement Days and was selected as Outstanding 4-H'er of Somerset County in 1986. David is a sophomore at Penn State.

Ross Pifer, a Penn State sophomore majoring in agribusiness, is an 11-year 4-H member. He completed projects in conservation, safety, automotive, and others. Ross participated in Capital Days, State Leadership Congress and the Citizenship-Washington Focus.

The scholarships will be awarded at the annual College of Agriculture Scholarship and Awards Banquet, October 22.

Md. Dairy-Licious Contest Finalists

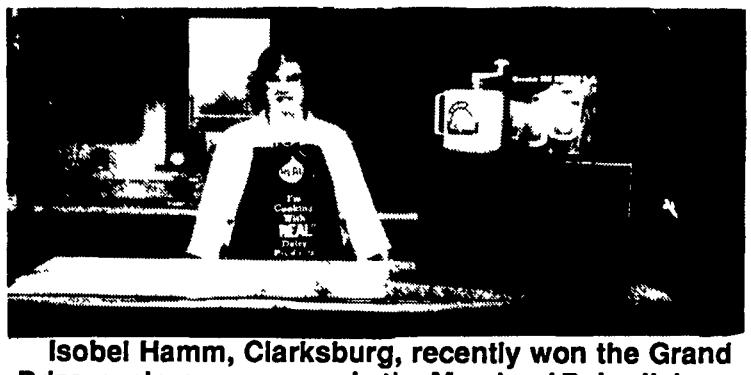
TOWSON — Four young Maryland cooks demonstrated their cooking abilities on Sunday, September 6 as they competed in the youth division finals of the Maryland Dairy-licious Recipe Contest. Each of the four finalists had been selected as first prize winners in a preliminary round of judging. Four more seasoned cooks also competed that day in the adult division finals of the contest, having been previously selected first place winners in one of the following categories, Appetizer, Beverage, Entree or Dessert. The finals took place at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium.

Competing in the youth division finals for the grand prize of a $250 U.S. Savings Bond, were two sisters, Robin and Cheryl Leishear of Damascus. Robin was the first place winner in the Appetizer Category with her entry, Smokey Cheese Dip. Cheryl placed first in the Beverage Category for her Strawberries and Cream Shake. The Leishear sisters faced stiff competition for the savings bond from David Andrew O'Hara of Frederick, and Erica Schauber, Millington. David was the first place winner in the Entree Category for his Sausage Scramble recipe. Erica created a Chocolate Cream Fantasy to win the Dessert Category. When the judges had completed their tasting it was Erica's fantasy dessert that won the judges fancy and the savings bonds.

In the adult division, Bonnie Cramer of Mt. Airy took first place in the Appetizer Category for her Three Cheese Appetizer. She competed with Isabel Hamm, Clarksburg, who had won the Beverage Category with a Creamy Eggnog recipe. Mary Kading of Mt. Rainier won the Entree Category with her Dairy Chicken entry. And in the finals as the winner of the Dessert Category was Nancy Dutterer of Thurmont with her recipe for Molded Strawberries and Cream.

The grand prize in the adult division, a full-size microwave oven, was awarded to Isabel Hamm for her tastefully imaginative recipe for eggnog, using honey.

The Maryland Dairy-licious Recipe Contest was sponsored by the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Area and the Maryland Holstein Association. The prize winning recipes will be available free of charge to interested persons. To receive a free copy of the recipe leaflet, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Maryland Dairy-licious Recipes, 216 Carroll Building, 8600 LaSalle Road, Towson, MD 21204.



Isobel Hamm, Clarksburg, recently won the Grand Prize, a microwave oven, in the Maryland Dairy-licious Recipe Contest. Isobel calls her winning recipe Creamy Eggnog. The recipe calls for honey rather than sugar. She was also awarded an ice cream maker.

Nancy Dutterer of Thurmont, recently won first place in the Dessert Category of the Maryland Dairy-licious Recipe Contest. She called her winning entry, Molded Strawberries and Cream. Nancy competed in the contest at the Maryland State Fair.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Today I'll try to finish the story of our trip to Alaska by giving you a few more highlights. We had a two hour trip on a tour boat of Silver Bay near Sitko. There were several bald eagles sitting on trees near the shoreline and we saw a number of whales playing in the bay. A Japanese pulp mill employed 400 people and another 300 worked in logging camps. We were surprised to meet a couple from Lancaster County here.

Sitko has 96 inches of rain in a year and their temperature varies from 20 degrees to 60 degrees. Here we saw a group of dancers perform Russian dances. Then we were taken back to our ship for a nice luncheon and a day of carefree cruising. Life at sea is supposed to be exhilarating but not when you get seasick as I did. However, a meal of melba toast and chamomile tea had me feeling some better.

The next day we had both breakfast and lunch outside on the Sun Deck. We visited with other passengers and ordered some pictures that the ship's photographer had taken in the diningroom. We filled out our customs questionnaire, gave the waiter, busboy, steward and tour guide their tips and then saw a movie in the theatre.

We left the ship at Vancouver, British Columbia and toured the city by bus. We saw Stanley Park, Chinatown, Bloedel Conservatory and beautiful Queen Elizabeth Park with its sunken gardens. We were left off in the Gastown Section for lunch and ate with friends in an open air restaurant. Afterwards we walked around the town and saw the steam-powered clock on Water Street. Here is where I succumbed and got out my Visa card and bought an expensive, heavy beige and blue sweater from Denmark.

Then it was on to Seattle where we stayed at a very nice hotel near the airport. In the evening we had a farewell dinner with the members of our tour group. The next morning we were taken to the airport for our flight home. We phoned our daughter at her summer home on Camano Island and then began our long wait for our plane. We changed planes in Chicago and then flew to Harrisburg where our son and his financee met us. It was good to be home!

Lampeter Fair Sheep Show Winners

BY LOU ANN GOOD

LAMPETER — The West Lampeter Community Fair fulfilled dreams for at least three sheep show competitors on Wednesday. After four years of showing, Gary Crills captured the coveted champion market lamb trophy. He said, "I always wanted it and finally I got it."

And two sisters won top awards for the first time in competition. Nine year-old Lorie Boll, Mount Joy, received the reserve champion market lamb award for her Hampshire named Skeeter. Her thirteen year-old sister Joelle placed first with her Suffolk named Leo in the Junior Fitting and Showmanship category. Lorie and Joelle are the daughters of Jay and Lois Boll.

Arlisa Snavely, Landisville, placed first in the Senior Fitting and Showmanship division with Lilly Sue, a triplet who is much larger than her siblings. Fourteen year-old Arlisa, daughter of Jim and Arlene Snavely, showed four of her 25 sheep and won 9 ribbons. The Lancaster Mennonite High School freshman has won numerous ribbons at state and local levels.

Gary Crills, Ephrata, captured the Champion Market Lamb Trophy with his well-muscled heavyweight Suffolk.

Carey Donches, Manheim, swept the Suffolk division with her ewes, rams, lambs and flocks and garnered 16 ribbons. The Manheim Central junior has been showing sheep for six years and has dominated numerous local fairs with her showing. She helps her parents Joseph and Susan Donches with their forty breeding sheep.

Arlisa Snavely, Landisville, placed first in the Senior Fitting and Showmanship Division when she exhibited Lilly Sue.

A junior at Ephrata High School, Gary Crills credits his FFA participation in helping him win the market lamb division with his well-muscled Suffolk named Bud. In FFA, he said, he has learned to judge animals and look for a nice long loin and good muscle structure in his sheep.

The West Lampeter Fair is considered the "Senior Citizen" of the Lancaster County Fairs. It began 63 years ago and its sheep show was added about 15 years ago.

This year, Max Smith, sheep show judge, said, "The quality of sheep shown here is fine, but the quantity is lacking. To make it more interesting, we need more competitors."

He feels competition from the Ephrata Fair, which runs simultaneously with Lampeter, draws potential exhibitors away. "Plus,"

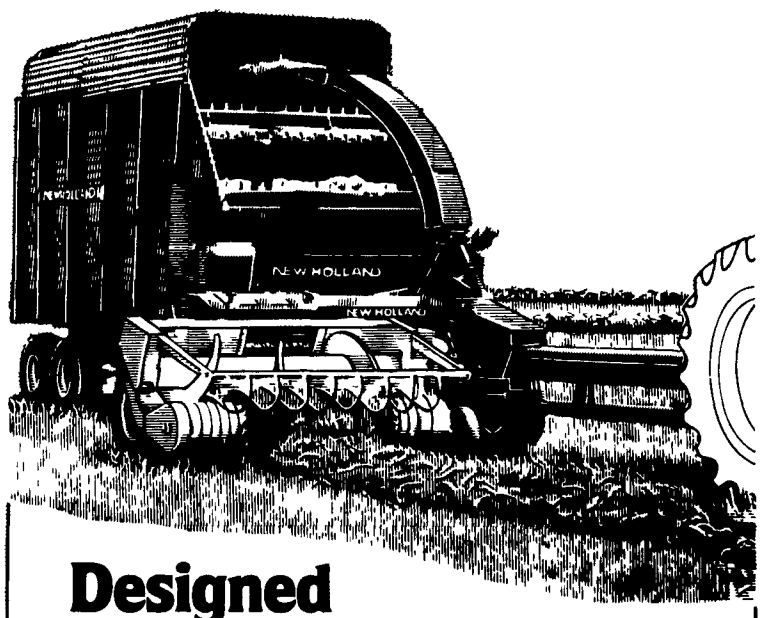
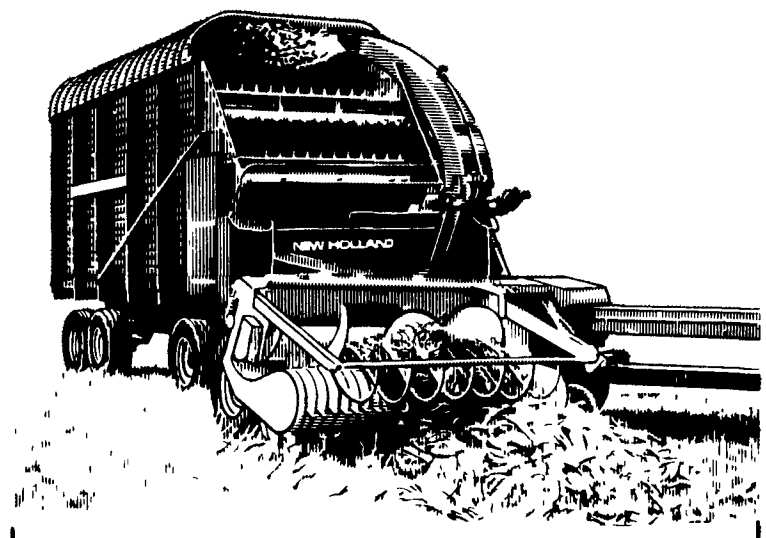
DESIGNED FOR TOTAL PERFORMANCE



Designed for total performance

Step up to better performance with the Model 900 forage harvester. The 12 knives of the 21-inch diameter cutterhead deliver uniformly-cut, high-quality forage. Here are just some of the features available that make the "900" a harvester designed for total performance:

- Metalert® II electronic metal detector—protects cutterhead and your valuable animals.
- Electromagnetic clutches—give instant response in controlling feedroll and attachment drives.
- Easy-adjust shearbar—makes adjustment fast and precise.
- Two-speed blower—is energy efficient.
- Hydraulic swing tongue—makes mounting attachments fast and easy.



The New Model 790 with five-year cutterhead protection

When it's time to chop, you want a harvester that keeps on going. And that's what you get with the new Model 790 forage harvester with optional Metalert® II electronic metal detector. Because the Metalert II system works so well, you get a five-year guarantee against cutterhead "blow-ups" caused by ferrous metals. Metalert II looks for trouble before it happens. You avoid costly repairs .. downtime ... and keep nasty bits of chopped metal out of your livestock feed. The new Model 790 is available with either 540-rpm or 1000-rpm drive. And, the massive 12-knife cutterhead has single-edged hardened alloy knives with tungsten surfaces. Stop in and take a look at the new Model 790 today.

Exclusive – 12-knife cutterhead

High-quality feed is important to you. So you'll like the fine, uniform chop you get from the Model 718 forage harvester. It's the only medium-duty chopper available with a 12-knife cutterhead to give you a controlled, even cut The uniform length-of-cut makes for easier unloading, blowing, storing and feeding And you can choose from four crop-saving heads—a one- or two-row cornhead, a windrow pickup or a sicklebar.

No wonder the "718" is the best-selling medium-duty forage harvester in the country.

Groom Your House For Sale

Many people who live in areas where real estate is booming may think they can put their homes on the market without fixing them up. They reason, why spend time sprucing up something that is bound to sell anyway? The answer? Because it can dramatically increase the price you get for your home.

There are some ways to raise the value of a home that are not expensive. Many of them revolve around cleaning, polishing and minor repairs.

Look at your home from the outside. First impressions count. A prospective buyer may set his or her mind against buying even before entering the home, if its exterior is unwelcoming. So trim bushes and trees, mow the lawn, edge around the walk and plantings. Put away or discard yard clutter. Fix up and paint broken fences. If fences are beyond repair, remove them. Wash your windows on the inside and out so they sparkle. Clean doors and screens, sweep sidewalks, driveway and any other outside areas. Spend time fixing up the front entrance and foyer since this area plays a key role in creating first impressions.

Indoors, clean the entire house but give special attention to the kitchen, master bedroom and garage. These are the parts of the home that people examine most carefully, experts point out. Be certain to clean the oven, keep countertops clear, wax kitchen cabinets. Wipe fingerprints and smudge marks from around wall switches and door frames. Wax floors and shampoo rugs.

Fix any dripping faucets. If soap or hard water deposits have built up on bathroom tiles or shower stalls, clean them carefully so they shine.

The ultimate look you want to achieve is one of a clean uncluttered home. A home looks more spacious if excess furniture and paraphernalia are cleared out. Closets and cabinets should be neatly arranged to create a feeling of adequate storage space.

Other improvements such as painting, redecorating and major repairs should be considered in relation to time and expense compared to the benefits. Cleaning, polishing and small repairs may be time-consuming, but not costly, and can pay off in selling a home.

Motivate Children To Be Better Students

In homes with two or more children, parents often wonder what motivates a child to be a better student. Some experts say that school work is between the student and teacher, but generally parents feel very much involved in classroom performance when a child brings home a report card.

How easily the child is distracted may be the single trait that most influences a child's performance in school. Additional characteristics that may spell success in school are: attitudes a child holds toward new experiences, intensity of reactions to new things and people and responsiveness to signals given by others.

Parents should recognize that each child has a certain learning style and it is influenced by the individual's own personality characteristics. They can try to help mold personalities that learn efficiently by showing a child that they have respect for learning, by providing a quiet place to study and by helping the child learn to deal with frustrations.

Parents have a responsibility and an opportunity to create a good environment both physically and mentally for the students in the family.

The Cooperative Extension Service is an affirmative action, equal opportunity educational institution.

Don't let the new Kubota T1400H Lawn Tractor's sleek good looks fool you into thinking it cannot perform beautifully, too.

Kubota's first lawn tractor is built for operator comfort and convenience. It's exceptionally quiet. Rider visibility is excellent And an air-cooled 13.5 HP Kubota gasoline engine delivers plenty of power to groom even one and two-acre lawns.

A hydrostatic transmission makes clutching or shifting unnecessary. The mid-mount mower allows a smooth, professional result even on uneven terrain.

Built-in safety features prevent accidental starts. An optional grass bagger collects clippings as you mow.

Enjoy the new Kubota T1400H Lawn Tractor. Dependable and safe, it's truly the look of mowers

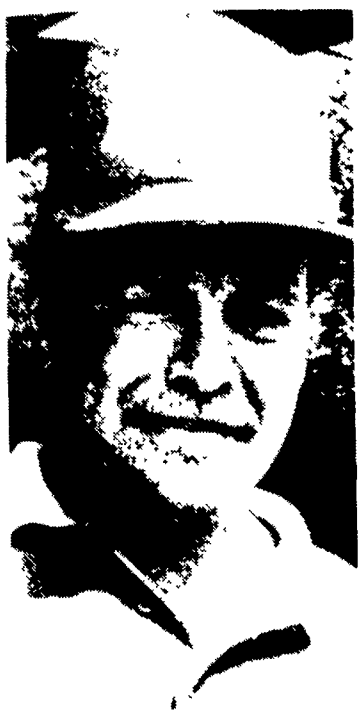
Faces at the Lampeter Community Fair



Donald Herr is president of the Lampeter Fair Board of Directors. He said, "There is a lot of work by many different people that goes into the fair to make it a success. Those who don't attend miss the fellowship of other farmers and local people."

Eric Herr from Lampeter said, "I've been coming to the fair ever since I can remember. It's exciting to show crops and steers. It's nice meeting all the people and eating the good food."

While visiting his son in Willow Street, William Lauris from Pittsburg stopped by the fair. He said, "It's very interesting. It's strictly a farm fair—that's why I like it. It's more relaxing than carnivals that try to get your money. Those who don't come miss a part of America.

"I enjoy coming to the Lampeter Fair because it is a nice, clean fair," Nora Weaver of Ephrata said. "I think fairs are growing because they are getting bigger." She believes people who don't attend the fair, "miss a lot of good food."

Penny Martin, Willow Street, came to the fair to work at the American Field Service stand that raises funds to sponsor foreign exchange students. She said, I like the competition they offer for fair queen. I think people who don't come, miss the busyness of the fair atmosphere."

Dream Unfolds for Pennsylvania's Dairy Princess

BY LOU ANN GOOD

HARRISBURG — Forty-two county dairy princesses, gowned in a profuse variety of colors, their faces flushed with excitment, touted the importance of the state's number one industry during the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Coronation held last Saturday.

Rebecca Sonnen, representing Lebanon County, was crowned Pennsylvania Dairy Princess at the Harrisburg Mariott Inn. The poised brunette with dark expressive eyes will share her royal duties with Clarinda Leatherman, first alternate dairy princess, and Jennifer Barnett, second alternate dairy princess.

Seventeen year-old Rebecca said, "It's something I dreamed about for a long time, but I figured I didn't have a chance to win since everyone else was so good." She took a deep breath, flashed one of her sparkling smiles and said, "I can't believe it's really true."

Besides the winning trio the seven finalists included York County's Suzanne Hash; Michelle Lusk of Washington/Green County; Angela Haas, Mercer County princess; and Stephanie Jo Meyers of Franklin County.

Probably the most stressful minutes for the finalists came when the Master of Ceremonies Grover Gouker asked the seven finalists: "If you could wake up tomorrow having gained any one ability or quality that you do not now possess, what would it be?"

Wearing a teal satin gown with shoulder straps tied in bouffant bows, Rebecca answered the question with calm, clear assurance and earned the affection of the audience and judges when she said that she would choose the ability to make everyone happy. She explained that she hurts when she sees others who are in need and that she wishes everyone could have the opportunites that she has benefitted from and be as happy as she is.

This was not the first contest the enthusiastic supporter of farm living won. She placed first in the state during the FFA public speaking competition held at Penn State this past year.

The new state dairy princess is flanked by the other six finalists who are all representative of the talented, personable contestants. Front: Left to right, Clarinda Leatherman, Berks, reigning princess Rebecca Sonnen, Lebanon; Jennifer Barnett, Somerset. Back: Stephanie Jo Meyers, Franklin; Suzanne Hash, York; Angela Haas, Mercer; and Michelle Lusk, Washington/Green.

As Lebanon County Princess, Rebecca entertained the audience with her Little Red Riding Hood award winning presentation.

The Conrad Weiser High School senior lives with her parents Paul and Marilyn Sonnen, and two brothers Jonathan, 20, and David, 18, on their 200 acre dairy farm. She loves to fish in the creek that meanders through their property. "But I never catch anything," she revealed. "My brother always does."

The Sonnen's have 150 head which includes 72 holsteins. Rebecca or Becky as her friends call her said that she milks almost every morning and evening. "I love it!" she said about the two-hour milking sessions. "It's so peaceful and quiet without any stress and I can think about anything I like."

Becky said that she usually thinks of herself as a shy person, "but," she adds, "maybe I'm not because I like to talk to people." Mostly, she admits to talking about the farm, cows and school.

Of course, making appearances promoting milk while finishing her senior year creates its own problems. As state dairy princess, Becky believes she will need to drop two of her classes. She said, "I have British and American Literature. I like it a lot, but the classes are mostly lectures so it would be difficult to make up the time that I'll miss because of my dairy princess duties."

Becky is involved in numerous school activities which she juggles into her tight schedule. She is president of the National Honor Society, reporter for the school newspaper, and president of the F.F.A. To accomodate her dairy princess activities, she has had to drop marching and concert band competition. It has not been without regret. "Recently I attended one of the band's competition and I almost cried." Becky recalled, "I wished so badly I could be up there playing."

"Next year," Becky said, "I'll be going to college. I'll probably attend Penn State because it offers so many majors."

She credits her FFA advisor for helping her to know what career options are available and what direction to take. Presently she leans toward concentrating on agriculture communications or teaching special education students because "I just love kids."

Regardless of her major, Becky plans to stick with farming in some way. "I think it would be neat to have my own farm," she said. "I definitely never want to live in the city."

Becky also placed first in the required presentation promoting dairy products. She imitated Little Red Riding Hood with a basket full of goodies. Naturally, her basket brimmed with real dairy products. Her convincing demonstration was clinched when she quipped, "My grandma says, 'A dinner without cheese is like a kiss without a squeeze.'"

Later, Becky shared that her mother thought up the idea of dressing up as Little Red Riding Hood, but Becky herself wrote the skit's lines.

The two alternate princesses similarly impressed the judges. First alternate Clarinda Leatherman, who represents Berks County, already graduated from high school. She chose to answer the on-stage question similarly to the reigning princess by saying, "I would like to be someone who could make everyone happy and love each person in the world." The eighteen-year-old blond enjoys working with her parents Daniel and Nancy Leatherman on their 147 acre farm where they milk 60 Holsteins.

Jennifer Barnett, representing Sommerset County, said she would like to gain mathmatical talent since she believes her teachers would appreciate that. The raven-haired, 17 year-old daughter of Albert and Cathy Barnett lives on a 435 acre farm where they milk 120 cows. She is an honor student who hopes to pursue a nursing career.

Rebecca accepted a bouquet of flowers and a warm hug from outgoing princess Pamela Kindig who said in her farewell speech, "With tears in my eyes, with pride and joy in my heart, I have no regrets for the time and energy I spent promoting Pennsylvania's number one industry."

Rebecca received well-wishes from a crush of friends and fellow contestants. Despite her considerable achievement, she's the kind of girl who's not all that impressed by what's she's doing. She hugged the other contestants and encouraged them by saying, "You were so good. Everyone was so good."

The finalists were representative of all the contestants' demonstrated enthusiastic support of the dairy industry and as reigning county princesses each has shown unusual dedication in promoting dairy products.

As state princess, Rebecca received $1200, her alternates received $500 and $400.

Both Rebecca and her alternate Jennifer Barnett received $100 awards for their creative promotional skits. The third winner was Jenny Groover of Tioga County.

It was a big night for Jenny who actually won three awards. Besides recognition for her promotional skit, she won a scrapbook award and the coveted Miss Congeniality Award that fellow contestants had choosen.

Other winners of the scrapbook award were Linda Hockman, Buck's County, Vanessa Daniel, Northampton County and Michele Lush, Washington/Greene County princess.

This year's recipient of the Tina M. Shultz Memorial Award went to Laurie Suzanne Smith, 1986-87 Blair County Princess. The award is given to a county princess who is judged as doing the most effective job serving her area on behalf of the dairy industry. It is given in memory of the 1985-86 Huntingdon County Dairy Princess who did an outstanding job promoting the dairy industry while fighting a losing battle with cancer.

Judges for the coronation were Dr. Morey Miller, Granby, Connecticut; Mrs. Bonnie Ayars, Mechanicsburg, Ohio; Dr. Lee Majeskie, College Park, Maryland; and Mrs. Merry Rama of Delancey, New York.

Scrapbook judges were Laura E. England, Southampton, and Trish Williams of Towson.

In 1978 an Incentive Award Program was established to encourage county princesses and alternates to promote dairy products at schools, malls, meetings, special events and with radio, T.V. and newspaper coverage.

This year, eight 1986-87 county princesses received a monetary award of $200. They included the following: Jennifer Weimer, Adams County; Yonna Taylor, Bradford; Dora Kay Hettinger, Centre; Becky Hipple, Lycoming; Lisa Ruth, Montgomery; Susan Waite, Sun Area; Julie Tewksbburg, Susquehanna; Jill Minor, Washington/Green.

Fall is a Good Perennial Planting Time

Have this season's perennial flowers already been forgotten? Now is a practical time to do some planting of perennials with the pleasant weather and ideal soil conditions that exist. The plants develop new roots quickly and become well-established before the freezing temperatures of winter approach and dormancy sets in. When spring arrives the following year, the plants are already established and ready for many future seasons of blooming.

Planning is important in having success with any garden, advises Susan Goldsworthy, Delaware County Cooperative Extension Horticulturalist. This is especially true with perennials. Visit local garden centers or botanical gardens to become familiar with the many herbaceous perennial plants that are available and suited to our region. Some such as columbine, Hosta, Pulmonaria, and Cimicifuga flourish in sandy locations. Most perennials, however, require full sun and a well-drained soil.

Soil preparation should include turning to a depth of at least 10-12" and proper incorporation of organic matter, limestone, and a standard-type garden fertilizer. In cases where soil drainage is extremely poor, raised beds may be necessary.

Wilting of plants can be reduced if the planting is done early in the morning or on a cloudy day. Immediately following planting, water thoroughly. Continue watering for another month or 6 weeks during any extended dry spell. This means now! Apply water slowly to a depth of about 1" once per week.

The newly-planted area can be lightly mulched to prevent winter injury to the crown and roots as well as reduce the current drought conditions. Two to 3" of a bark type mulch should be adequate.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 5

The Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 5 held their Spetember meeting at the home of Mrs. Albertas Keener, Womelsdorf. Fifteen members were present.

President Carol Stoudt conducted the business meeting in which the members made plans to attend the Berks County Farm Women Convention at the Berks County Ag Center on October 3. Plans were discussed to the state youth project Toys for Tots. The group will be busy making gifts to distribute at the Hamburg Center.

Plans were discussed for purchasing Christmas gifts for the residents at Independence Terrace in Womelsdorf and Twin Spruce Home in Myerstown.

The October 13 meeting will be a Halloween Party held at the Womelsdorf home of Mrs. Gladys Gutshall. Members are reminded to dress in costume.

Lebanon Society 20

Lebanon County Farm Women Group 20 met at the home of Janet Weiner. Roll call was answered by members showing or telling about an animal doing a stunt.

Members were reminded of the bus trip on September 24 and the county convention at the Palmyra UCC on October 14.

The following members were appointed during the election of officers: Susie Miller, president; Linda Himmelburger, vice-president; Carrol Hershey, Secretary, and Charlene Ziegler, treasurer.

The next meeting will be the Seasonal Social at the Ono Fire Hall where members will entertain Farm Women Group 1.

York Society 26

Etters Green Valley Society of Farm Women 26 in York County entertained Airville Group 21 with a luncheon and ride on the Millersburg Ferry which crosses the Susquehanna River.

Election of officers for 1988-89 will be held during the October meeting.

Lancaster Society 1

Society 1 of Farm Women met at Camp Hebron on September 11-13 for their annual retreat. Due to inclement weather, outside activities were cancelled. Guests enjoyed a candleligth service by Barbara Hershey, crafts taught by Mary Kurtz, a sing-a-long with Julia Zahn, slides of South America by Maurice Landis, readings and poetry by Mary Kreider plus games, food, fun and fellowship.

President Anne Landis conducted a business meeting. Members voted to contribute $200 to the Lititz Community Center.

Members will celebrate State Farm Women's Day with a breakfast at Country Table. Reservations are required. Members will serve Moravian sugar cake and coffee at the Christmas in October Workshop held October 19 and 20 at the Farm and Home Center. All the sugar cakes are made by society member Margaret Bucher.

The county convention will be held on Saturday November 7 at the Farm and Home Center. Members will sponsor a Bazaar table. Donations are requested. Societies can also display artifacts and records of events from the past.

The next society meeting will be held on October 3 in the home of Mary Kreider with Ann Eaby as co-hostess.

School's Celebrate National School Lunch Week

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Schools across the country will celebrate National School Lunch Week October 11-17. This event was established in 1962 by a Congressional resolution.

School Lunch Week serves several purposes. It serves as a showcase to the community about the effectiveness and efficiency of the food service program in regard to improving the quality of food being consumed by the nation's students. School food services must follow the basic federal guidelines in devising lunch menus:

- 2 ounces of meat, or other protein food
- ¾ cup total, vegetable and fruit serving
- 1 or 2 slices bread
- 8 ounces milk

Secondly, it helps create a pleasant bond between the school food service personnel and the student. Students are now being offered a la carte menus in an effort to let students pick and choose healthful foods they enjoy. They must select at least three of the basic foods.

Finally, it serves as the educational tool that teaches students the reponsibility of selecting foods from each of the four food groups they want to eat and teaches them why they should select certain types of foods for good health.

This year's National School Lunch theme is entitled "School lunch: it makes a world of difference." To help promote National School Lunch Week, schools are encouraged to focus on different cultural foods.

Italian cuisine rates as the most popular among ethnic foods. Favorites include spaghetti, meatballs, lasagna and pizza. Pizza provides foods from each of the four food groups -- the crust accounts for bread group, cheese, the dairy product, tomato sauce, a vegetable serving and sausage the meat group. Mexican food are trendy, with tacos and pita sandwiches being readily consumed. Oriental and Scandinavian cuisines also provide opportunities for ethnic menu planning.

Featuring ethnic menus give students an occasion to learn about the foods of various ethnic groups that make up the U.S. population. Schools are urged to create special menus that represent ethnic groups in their community.

Women's Lifestyles Require Special Health Care

The American woman today is busier than ever — and the only way she can cope with the demands on her time is to be in good health.

Women ask a lot of themselves, says Dairy Council Inc., Southampton, PA. They work in the business world in greater numbers than ever before. They manage home and finances; are involved with their families; remain physically active, and want to look good and have plenty of energy.

One key to staying healthy is to eat a variety of foods in moderation. This is easier to do if they remember the four food group approach to eating: 2 recommended servings, daily, from the milk group; 2 from the meat group; 4 from the fruits and vegetables group; and 4 from the grains group. These servings, however, may increase during pregnancy and breast-feeding.

Some women have special health concerns; weight watching, concern over osteoporosis, PMS, or iron deficiency. One or more of these problems exist for many women, and many others are potentially at risk.

As far as weight management goes, there are probably hundreds of diets a woman could follow. But many of them aren't safe — and most of them are ineffective. Too often they don't lead to permanent weight loss.

The safest and most effective diet is based on recommended servings of the four food groups. In addiuon, cut down on alcohol, soft drinks, cakes, pies, candy, chips, mayonnaise, salad dressings, and gravies. Also, select low-calorie foods from each group, choose baked or broiled foods, and get more exercise.

Factors that increase a woman's risk of osteoporosis includes a small frame, menopause, and a diet low in calcium. Using calcium-rich foods and increasing exercise may help prevent this debilitating disease.

PMS symptoms attack some 90 percent of all women. Avoid salty foods, cut back on caffeine intake, and exercise more often to lessen the effects of PMS.

To get enough iron in your diet, start with foods from the four food groups. Include a variety of iron-rich foods like red meats, poultry, and fish; choose whole grain fortified or enriched grains; eat foods high in vitamin C because this vitamin helps your body to absorb iron in food, and drink tea and coffee in moderation because they can reduce the amount of iron your body absorbs from food.

You have a commitment to yourself to be as healthy as possible, says Dairy Council, as well as to your loved ones and your work. So it pays you to take special care of yourself. A pamphlet with more information on women's special nutritional needs is available from Dairy Council Inc., 1225 Industrial Highway, Southampton, PA 18966.

Production of Italian-style cheeses continued to grow during 1986 to a record 1.63 billion pounds, with Mozzarella leading the way with 76 percent of production.

Choosing Child Care

JAMES E. VAN HORN, PH.D.
Family Sociology Extension Specialist

The number of mothers with young children who are working outside the home has grown sharply in recent years. This trend ultimately means that many children are being cared for or reared by people other than their parents. In some cases, care is provided by a relative or friend but in many cases the child is left in the care of a non-relative, either in the other person's home or a day care center.

The first consideration in choosing child care is the child. It certainly goes without saying that an infant or young child needs the nuturing warmth of the mother. Many of us feel very strongly that the infant up to a year and, indeed, beyond a year, needs to stay very close to the mother. This belief would then dictate that a mother who is contemplating getting a job outside the home or who is considering returning to work after a maternity leave, seriously weigh the decision to leave the infant with someone else.

In some cases, the infant's mother out of absolute necessity needs to work. But for a vast number of mothers this is not the case. With some financial sacrifice the family could make it for a period of time on one salary. Childrearing values need to be pondered by a woman in this situation. Often material desires must be examined and even weighed against the unique needs of the infant.

For mothers with older children three to six years old, the question about working may not be as critical or as difficult. But the question that should be as critical and difficult is "Where or with whom do I place son or daughter while I work?" This is an extremely important question because the child three to six is undergoing rapid and vital developmental changes that will affect his or her entire life.

Substitute Parent

If you are in the above situation, you are really looking for a substitute parent. If your values and beliefs are important to you, then the substitute parent should hold values and beliefs similar to yours. Why? Simply because the young child will be spending as much or more time with the substitute parent than with you if you are working full time. Even if you are working only part time, the substitute parent will exert much influence on the child.

It is no secret that many persons give care to someone's child without ever having previously met the parent in person. One mother admitted this and also remedied it the next time around. She said, "I was desperate and saw the ad in the newspaper. I telephoned. Her voice sounded pleasant. Her rate was OK. I got her address and told her I'd bring Jason over in the morning." "After a couple of weeks," she said, "Jason began using words that we don't allow. I asked the care giver about it. She didn't use them she said. Questioning Jason, I learned that the woman's older boys would come home after school and it was their behavior and language Jason was imitating."

A parent looking around for someone to care for son or daughter should plan ahead and talk to a number of potential care givers. Often a person applying for a job, for example, as dishwasher in the back room of a restaurant goes through a much more thorough interview and must present some references before getting the rather routine job that carries little responsibility, save for not breaking dishes. And keep in mind that the dishwasher, even with his references and interview, is not left alone in the restaurant. Most owners of restaurants that can afford to hire a dishwasher value their business far too much. They will only entrust the property and business to someone they have grown to trust and someone who agrees with their practices and philosophy on how to operate a successful restaurant.

Now ask yourself: Before you left your child with someone, did you do as much as the restaurant owner? Did you interview the person or were you afraid she might think you were being nosey or think you were questioning her ability? Did you ask for and receive any references? Did you even talk to two or three parents who have had children with this care giver? Were you so relieved to find someone who maybe lived close or who had an opening, that you just jumped and said, "I'll bring him over tomorrow morning and pick him up at 5:30 PM?"

The point is--you should ask questions, you should be nosey and if someone thinks you're doing something you don't have a right to do or that you are questioning her ability--say good-bye. She has something to hide or she takes the whole job as being nothing more than custodial (feed, water, and change).

Remember, the restaurant owner interviews and gets references and yet hardly ever leaves his prized possession with the dishwasher he hires. Shouldn't we do at least as much and more considering we DO leave our "prized possession" alone with this stranger? Next month we'll talk more about choosing child care.

Bedtime Story Quilt Show and Sale

A perfect marriage of books and quilts will be depicted during the BEDTIME story theme at the fifth annual Totem Pole Quilt Show and Sale, Ingersol Rand Clubhouse in Athens, October 3 and 4 from 10 to 5 each day.

Against a background of over 100 antique and new quilts, loaned by local quilters, familiar books such as "Little Women," Little House on the Prairie," and even "Fatherhood" by Bill Cosby, will come alive in settings provided by library friends and local antique dealers. In addition the Bradford County Literacy Program tutors will be on hand to read stories to the children.

The Bradford County League of Women Voters will also sponsor a cubicle honoring the bicentennial of the Constitution, and will feature a new book, "Abigail Adams," a woman who stayed home while her beloved husband John, was away at the Constitutional convention.

Featured also will be a huge merchandise boutique with quilting merchants.

Chicken and Biscuit dinners, short order food, and homemade pies will be available both days.

The event is sponsored by the trustees of Mather Memorial Library, Ulster, and is dedicated to mothers and fathers and all educators who teach children to read and to love bedtime stories.

Quick Takes With Cheese

Kick off the fall season with a few new menu ideas featuring one of the most nutritious and versatile foods available — cheese. Suitable any time of day, cheese can stand alone as a snack or be the center of attraction in a main dish casserole. Considering the many varieties of cheese available in the dairy case, the only limitation to using cheese is one's imagination.

Whatever your preference, the following "Quick Takes" should help get your creative juices stirring:

• For a quick-fix breakfast treat, fill a small pita with cottage cheese flavored with chopped dates or raisins, chopped walnuts and a dash of nutmeg; or faster yet, sprinkle granola and chopped apple on a serving of cottage cheese and then enjoy!

• Forget the burger and try this Bacon-Cheddar Cheese Spread on your favorite roll: Combine 2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese, at room temperature, with one-fourth cup dairy sour cream, 1 to 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion and 3 slices cooked, crumbled bacon. Beat until smooth; cover and chill. Spread at room temperature or broil until hot and bubbly. (Yield: 1½ cups)

• When a snack attack hits, satisfy the craving with a rice cake spread lightly with whipped cream cheese and a sprinkling of toasted sesame seeds or chopped walnuts.

• For an unusual party spread, beat 2 cups (8 ounces) shredded Swiss cheese at room temperature with 3 ounces softened cream cheese and ½ cup dairy sour cream until well blended. Stir in 2 tablespoons chutney and ½ cup chopped almonds. Serve on assorted crackers.

• Add something extra to plain hamburgers with Blue Cheese Butter: Beat one-half cup (one stick) softened butter with one-half cup (2 ounces) crumbled Blue cheese and one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce. Spread on toasted roll or cooked hamburger and savor. (Yield: one cup)

• One of the smoothest cheese sauces is also the easiest to make: Place one cup evaporated milk and one cup (four ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese in a one-quart saucepan. Melt the cheese, stirring constantly, over low heat, but do not boil. It's great over cauliflower, fish, pasta or rice. For an interesting variation, blend the sauce, one-fourth teaspoon oregano and a dash of ground red pepper. Serve over broccoli or green beans. (Yield: 1½ cups)

• As an hors d'oeuvre: Blend together ⅓ cup crumbled Blue cheese, 2 tablespoons EACH sour cream and finely chopped apple and a dash of curry powder. Serve on toast rounds.

• Looking for a new sandwich idea? Serve this savory Tomato-Cheddar Spread on hearty wheat or other whole-grain bread: Cream one-half cup (one stick) butter with one cup (four ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese. Blend in one-half cup chopped cherry tomatoes, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, one-eighth teaspoon EACH basil and salt. (Yield: ½ cup)

• To make deviled eggs even more "devilish," halve 6 hard-cooked eggs and scoop out yolks. Mix yolks with one-half cup (2 ounces) crumbled Blue cheese, 3 tablespoons sour cream, three-fourths teaspoon dry mustard and a dash of pepper. Refill whites with mixtures. Chill and serve.

• Create a cheese topper for vegetables by tossing together one-fourth cup crushed, seasoned croutons with one-fourth cup (one ounce) shredded Cheddar, Muenster or Swiss cheese. Sprinkle over cooked vegetables before serving.

• Upside-Down Cheese Biscuits provide a quick but tasty side dish for lunch or dinner. Melt two tablespoons butter in an 8-inch square pan, then sprinkle with one-half cup (two ounces) grated Parmesan cheese. Cut one (10 ounce) package refrigerated biscuits into quarters and space evenly over the cheese. Bake 10 to 12 minutes in a preheated 450°F oven. Invert on a serving plate and let each person break off desired serving.

Wake Up to a Healthy Breakfast

Say "breakfast" to some people and visions of a big, farmstyle breakfast of home fries, warm biscuits, bacon, eggs and fresh-squeezed orange juice pop into their heads.

Oh, to wish that one had more time to fix a well-balanced breakfast other than on an occasional weekend!

While most adults would agree that breakfast is an important meal, approximately one-fourth of all adults usually or always skip it, and fewer people than ever are eating breakfast at home.

If you're a member of this group, why not put your time-management skills into action and opt for a breakfast that can be quickly prepared and eaten at home, or put together at your desk. With a little advance planning, one can enjoy a breakfast that supplies the energy and important nutrients needed by the body throughout the day.

Consider some basic options: an eight ounce carton of yogurt, a half cup of cottage cheese, one and one half slices of cheese, a slice of bread, a cup of ready-to-eat cereal and a medium size apple or orange. Foods from each of the basic four food groups that can be mixed and matched in a variety of simple breakfast combinations.

For example, on mornings when nothing seems to go right, pour a cup of cereal into a container and carry it to work accompanied by an orange or banana. Add a carton of milk from the vending machine, and you have yourself a nutritious breakfast. For something a bit more enticing, spread one-half cup of ricotta cheese on a slice of whole grain bread and top it with a teaspoon of jam or a sprinkling of cinnamon. Or, if bagels are your passion, spread on some cream cheese and top with slices of apple.

Breakfast shakes from the blender take but a few minutes to prepare and when the weather is warm, offer a cool, refreshing pause. Prepare a Banana Eggnog Shake by adding one-half ripe banana, one large egg, three-fourths cup milk, and a teaspoon of sugar to a blender container and whirl together. Pour into a glass and sprinkle with nutmeg. Or pour it into a small thermos and carry it to work, being sure to shake it well before drinking. For a yogurt-based shake, blend together a cup of plain yogurt, one-third cup of milk, a cup of cut-up fresh fruit, a few drops each of vanilla and sweetener and a dash of nutmeg. Add a tablespoon of wheat germ and several tablespoons of nonfat dry milk for extra nutrition.

Open-faced breakfast sandwiches can also be put together quickly and broiled in a countertop oven. Slices of tomato and hard-cooked egg topped with a slice of lowfat cheese provide an unusual but tasty breakfast entree.

When time is more abundant on the weekends, cook some extra breakfast foods and freeze them, to reheat in the microwave during the week. Whole wheat pancakes to which Cheddar or Swiss cheese and crumbled bacon have been added will provide the extra staying power needed for a busy morning at work. Forget the traditional topping of butter and maple syrup; they're tasty enough to eat "as is."

And don't overlook a piece of leftover cheese pizza or cottage cheese-bacon quiche as a sound way to start off the day. Or a "reverse" cocktail hour of red and green grapes, a slice or two of Swiss cheese and some crackers.

Post these suggestions on the refrigerator door, so that the next time you think of leaving the house without breakfast, you'll have a ready supply of tasty ideas worth waking up for.

A homebred Chester White earned the York Fair's supreme open class gilt award for Airville swine breeder Jim Parlett. Don Lanius, of the York Fair Board, made the plaque presentation for sponsor New Freedom Farm and Home Supply. First female offered in the Fair's swine breeders' sale, the gilt brought $650 from an Illinois buyer.

A bid of $3.20 per pound bought the 240-pound York Fair FFA champion market hog for Tom Moyer, buyer for Hatfield Quality Meats and returned to successful exhibitor Gus Parlett well over $700 for the winning homebred hog.

A total of 42 head averaged 81 cents with the champion and reserve and 69 cents without the top two winners.

ASCS Approval Needed To Move Mortgaged Grain

Before moving any farm-stored grain under loan, farm program participants must contact our office for approval and specific details, said Donald E. Lutz, Chairman of the Berks County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Farmers who plan to commingle their 1987 and 1986 harvests and request a loan also need to check with ASCS first.

Lutz said removal of mortgaged grain before repayment of the loan or receipt of release authorization is considered unauthorized removal and subject to penalty. Farm program regulations require that producers notify ASCS if they intend to sell loan grain or if the grain is out of condition and needs to be moved.

Under the ASCS price support and grain reserve programs, farmers may obtain loans and hold their grain off the market in order to benefit from future price increases. The grain under loan is then stored in an approved facility, on the farm, or in a commercial warehouse.

Farmers who remove reserve grain, or grain under regular loan without prior authorization can be subject to immediate repayment of the loan, plus interest, plus early redemption charges if applicable, repayment of unearned storage plus interest, denial of further loans, and possible investigation by the Office of Inspector General.

The ASCS official cautions farmers not to jeopardize their eligibility for the farm-stored loan program by removing grain without obtaining permission.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

Stake Bodies
by OMAHA STANDARD

Full time hauling demands equipment that withstands the punishment of rigorous work, day in and day out.

Omaha Standard Stake Bodies are engineered to meet tough hauling needs, regardless of cargo. Steel or wood racks, both feature heavy duty steel stakes.

Full width 96" platforms with swaged (indented) lights for better light protection and appearance. Spring-loaded rack connectors and automatic hold downs that keep racks in place and help reduce noise. Swing-out rack sections are optional. Stake racks fit both heavy duty standard and medium duty "Metro" platforms. Steel bulkheads with full width mesh windows are available.

There's no better stake body on the market. Ask someone who owns one, or better yet, compare us one-on-one with the others

EBY

ALUMINUM GRAIN BODY

CONSTRUCTED FOR YEARS OF MAINTENANCE-FREE SERVICE.

You'll get more out of an Eby aluminum grain body Lightweight and rugged aluminum provides rigid, fuel-efficient support to fill your grain hauling needs

Eby packs years of experience, workmanship and performance into every aluminum body it manufactures And special Eby options let you customize your body to your individual operation Available in standard lengths, each unit is designed to provide you with an investment in durable performance and practical economy

Look over these outstanding features.

- Less weight. Eby aluminum bodies weigh up to 30% less than comparable steel and wood construction
- Less maintenance. Aluminum construction won't rust or rot—never needs painting
- Long-life durability. Heavy-duty structural components and hollow-tube frame combine with aluminum floor and sides to stand up to years of hard work

Livestock Winners Named At Indiana Co. Fair

BY BETH (NESBIT) HUBER

INDIANA — The 1987 recipient of the grand champion steer award at the Indiana County Fair is the 18 year old son of Wilber Shearer, Roy Shearer.

Roy captured this title with his light heavyweight cross weighing in at 1265, pounds.

Tim Bishop, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bishop of Homer City. Tim, a member of the Southern Indiana County Livestock Club was the winner of the reserve champion banner with his light heavyweight.

SWINE

On Monday, Aug. 31, many of Indiana County's swine exhibitors were anxiously awaiting to have their hog weighed for their exhibition on Tuesday.

Monday's excitement was carried over to Tuesday while many exhibitors were preparing for the day's event.

After many months of preparation each of the 91 FFA and 4-H members anxiously waited to enter the show area to compete for the ultimate position of grand champion market hog 1987.

In the Berkshire competition Vernon Lockhart was chosen as the champion while Robert Dilts was named as the reserve champion with his Berk.

Clark Bruner was the recipient of the champion Duroc and Dennis Chambers of Punxsutawney was the one who received the reserve champion award.

The champion Hampshire awards went to Stacey Fyock, Penn Run, and Vernon Lockhart of Smicksburg.

Two sisters from the Marion Center area received champion and reserve champion titles. Brandi and Julie Mikesell were awarded these titles respectively.

Darla Fyock was awarded the Yorkshire awards while Don Johnston was the winner of the largest breed of the show, the cross competition while Mike McCunn. Clark Bruner and Mandi Garris were the top award winners in the Cross-O.

Standing in the grand champion position at the end of the day was Robert Dilts with his county bred Duroc-cross 245 pound pig. Bob's pig was bred by Clayton Winebark, this was the eighth champion that the Winebark family bred this show season.

The reserve grand champion title was awarded to Clark Brunner and his 230 pound Duroc.

SHEEP SHOW

In the crossbred class Tim Bishop stood at the top of the most competitive class of the day. Tim Bishop captured the position with his 110 pound animal.

Saltsburg FFA member, Harry Cileman, was the exhibitor of the best Dorset of the day.

Jonathan Snyder was the top award winner in the Shropshire breed.

The lone exhibitor in the southdown breed was Laura Kwisnek, therefore she was the recipient of the top honor.

The 1987 champion market lamb at the Indiana County Fair belongs to Tim Bishop of Homer City.

Bull Calf Tops State Guernsey Sale

Franklin Co. Correspondent

SHIPPENSBURG — A nine month old bull calf topped the 336th Special Guernsey Sale at the Shippensburg Fairgrounds September 17. Adams R H Lassiter, an Idle Neer Rhondas Hornet son, was bred and consigned by Adam Carroll Messix of Chestertown, MD. Lassiter's dam, Messixs M C Lass, an Ex 91 cow, has a top record of 17,260 of milk, with a 5.0 percent test and 858 pounds of fat in 305 days. Buyer James DeLong of Bowers paid $1300 for the service age bull.

The top selling animal at the state Guernsey sale was Adams R H Lassiter, who sold for $1300. Alan Kozak, left, buyer. James DeLong, and Jeff Benedict. On the auctioneer's stand are Lee Yost, pedigree reader, and John Merryman, auctioneer.

Wabank Carla, a two year old bred heifer bred and consigned by J. Richard Brenneman, Quarryville, was the highest selling female, bringing $1025. Alan Kozak, PA Guernsey Breeders Association Business Manager, did the bidding for absentee buyers John and John E. Marchezak of Bentleyville. Carla's sire is Harmony Dots Dandy. Her dam, Wabank Captain Darla, is an 83 point cow who at two years and five months made 11,094 pounds of milk and 358 pounds of fat in 275 days.

Second highest selling females were Enyaw Attraction Silver and Crown Stone Lance Panda, who each brought $1000.

Silver, bred and consigned by Dwayne Wampler, Ferrum, Virginia was the Grand Champion at the Richmond, VA Junior Show. A dry six year old, she has a two year and five month record of 10,034 of milk with 380 pounds of fat and 322 pounds of protein in 305 days. She was purchased by Marion Benedict of Waynesboro.

Crown Stone Lance Panda, a two year old bred heifer, was bred and consigned by William S. Schnebly of Clear Springs, MD. Panda was sired by Nedrow Farms Telestar Lance. Her dam, Crown Stone Tex Naive, at three years and two months made 13,150 of milk and 616 pounds of fat with a 4.7 percent test. Panda was purchased by William Askew, Hillmar, CA.

The sale averaged $660 on 46 head.

"The prices of the cows and bred heifers reflected the demand for good Guernseys and high protein and high fat milk," said Kozak. "In the next couple of months some of the milk marketing programs will be paying for protein and fat. Protein in Guernsey milk can be worth fifty cents to $1.25 a hundredweight if the milk is used to make cheese, yogurt, or dry milk," he explained.

Also sold that day were 21 animals from the Wayne Wampler herd of Ferrum, VA. Wampler dispersed his herd due to a shortage of feed in his area. His animals averaged $567.

Auctioneer for the sale was John B. Merryman, Sparks, MD. Pedigree reader was Lee Yost, Benton, who recently retired as Business Manager of the PA Guernsey Breeders Association.

Ringmen were Charles McLaughlin of Mt. Brook Farms, MD, and Alan Kozak.

Farm Philosophy

By Newton Bair

APPLYING THE APPLE

Every now and then I get the urge to talk about computers. You may be one of those persons who will immediately want to tune out. If you are over eighty, go right ahead, I won't mind.

Things have a way of creeping into our lives without even shocking us. From the Kerosene lamp to electric lights, from farming with mules to highly mechanicized tractor farming, from the crystal set headphones to Sony TV. It all came so gradually that we hardly noticed it in our own lifetime. Nothing surprises us very much anymore. The new and spectacular is soon old and common. Even the computer is rapidly getting to be old hat.

Start with the simplest things in nature, like the element Carbon, for example. All living things, including you and me and every animal and plant that grows, has the element Carbon in every cell. The tetrahedral structure of Carbon, with four points of bonding, allows it to form an infinite variety of combinations with other elements to build the complex life forms on Earth. We call these living things "ORGANIC," and they become the basis of "organic" farming, gardening, pest control, food and health supplies. We group them scientifically under the category of "Organic Chemistry."

Silicon is an element much like Carbon. It is not organic, it is strictly metallic. But it has a tetrahedral molecular structure just like Carbon, allowing it to form infinite combinations with other elements. It is one of the most common elements in the earth's crust, and exists in nearly every rock and soil. And Silicon is the basis of every computer chip made so far.

We can think of the computer as a product of evolution, based on a little chip of the element Silicon. I like to think that it is no accident that an atom of Silicon has properties that are similar to an atom of Carbon.

So, aside from the lesson in Physics, the thing that excites me is the ultimate power of the Silicon based computer. Within a few short years, the computer has become one of the most powerful tools in the hands of mankind. Not because it is a mechanical marvel that can do so many things so fast and so easy, but it is rapidly becoming linked to nearly everything we do. It is intruding into our lives and thoughts, and it won't be long until it invades our total society.

In spite of its complexity, the computer need not be a mysterious or ominous machine. We don't need to know how it works, but we do need to know how to use it. We need to know and understand what it can do for us.

Just ask the school kids about it. It can be a means of fun and games, but it can also open up new worlds to be explored, and new understanding of the old ones. It also gives us another hand to work with, one that is infinitely more powerful and exciting than the two marvelous ones we already have.

This essay is written on the computer. A good typist would laugh at two-fingered pecking on the keyboard, but my fingers can find the letters about as fast as I can think anyhow. It is possible to transfer what I write directly to the newspaper copy room, as it is being written or within seconds after it's finished. All it needs is the proper link to the telephone line.

Anyone who has a computer in the home or office can access information from many sources. One of the easiest and best is the Penn State Extension Network called "Penpages." It is accessable, at no cost, to anyone in Pennsylvania who has a computer MODEM. Call your Extension office for information on how to do it.

The human mind is a sort of computer, more marvelous and mysterious than the Apple or IBM or the clones. Who knows, someday the carbon atoms in the brain might hook up with the silicon atoms in the computer. It could be quite a marriage!

Better Time Ahead For Farmers

ASHEVILLE, N.C. — Despite popular conceptions, farmers are actually having an easier time getting ahead in today's economic environment than they have had in past years, said Richard Brock, a commodity consultant, speaking at the U.S. Feed Grains Council's 27th Annual Membership Meeting.

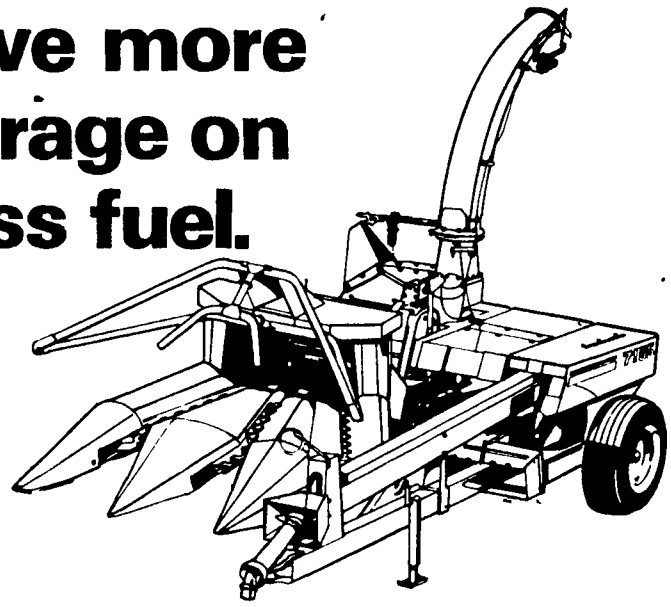
In his presentation, Brock jolted listeners into thinking differently about the current agricultural malaise. Farmers have lived through the worst of it, Brock said.

The 1987/88 marketing year will be one of transition and stability for most of agriculture, he said. He added the cash flow and profits will be strong over the next five years.

Brock made a number of other predictions and observations for the next five years, including:

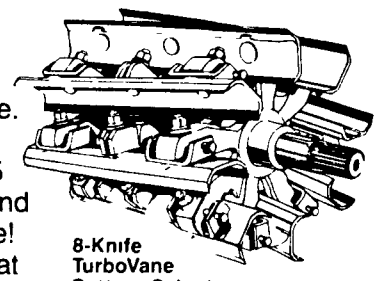
* Farmland prices have bottomed, meaning that now is a good time to buy land — not for inflationary reasons, however, because inflation will remain low;
* The emphasis currently is on profitability, not growth, so that buying land makes sense only if profits can be improved by such a move;
* Input prices will continue to decline;
* Current high real interest rates will remain steady or decline, but are not likely to drop below 9 percent;
* Deflation will continue;
* OPEC's attempt to support oil prices will fail;
* Gold and silver are near a major peak - they will drop significantly during the next year;
* A depression like that of the 1920s will not occur — but the U.S. and world will continue to experience "secular," or industry-specific, depressions; and
* A trend toward farmer self-assistance will prevail over government assistance in the long run.

Hesston harvesters give more forage on less fuel.



Three Hesston Models...the 7165, 7155 and 7145... offer increased harvesting capacity with the revolutionary 8-Knife TurboVane Cutting Cylinder. This exclusive Hesston design features eight C-2 knives that produce high capacity "scissor-action" cutting that eliminates bunching and carry-over...and gives more output on less fuel!

The C-2 knives have two cutting edges that can be reversed for longer service life. And the Auto-Sharp Knife Grinder, standard on the 7155 and 7165, sharpens quickly and easily...anytime and anywhere! It is a self-indexing grinder that sharpens knives with the cylinder running in normal cutting direction.



8-Knife TurboVane Cutting Cylinder

Straight-Thru Crop-Flo puts more horsepower and fuel into cutting and less into crop handling...eliminates cross augers or spinners that can drain power and waste fuel. And Hesston's new auger base header unit allows you to work more crops on a lower overall investment!

If you want to forage more on less fuel, see your Hesston dealer today about Models 7145, 7155 and 7165 ...for tractors from 60 to 250 HP!

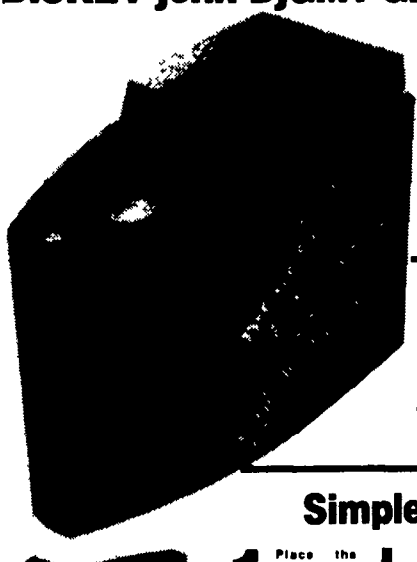
DICKEY-john DjGMT Grain Moisture Tester



The DICKEY john Grain Moisture Tester measures moisture content automatically You don t have to preweigh the sample There are no meters to read no dials to set and no thermometers to lose As soon as you pour in the grain sample the testing sequence begins A digital readout is displayed when the proper weight of the sample has entered the test chamber The readout is corrected for temperature at the touch of a pressure sensitive switch Models are available with direct readouts for corn soybeans or wheat and adhesive conversion charts are provided for other grains

- GRAIN MODEL List...$259 CASH...$185
- FORAGE MODEL CASH $294.50

Simple, four-step operation

1 Place the tester on a steady level surface Then, lift the protective cover up and slide it down out of the way

2 Use the sample cup to pour grain into the testing cell Pour slowly and steadily, taking about eight to ten seconds to empty the sample cup. A readout will appear automatically

3 Wait at least fifteen seconds Then press the temperature compensation switch for a direct readout of the moisture content of the grain listed on that switch Refer to the appropriate chart for other grains

4 Empty the tester by turning it over (If you should forget to empty the test cell, the tester will shut itself off automatically after two minutes.)

AGROFARM

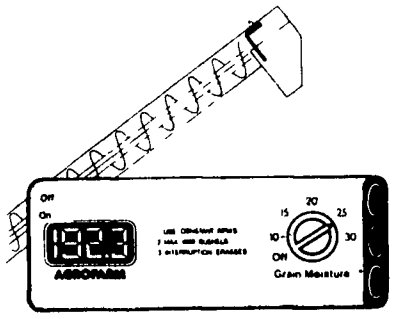
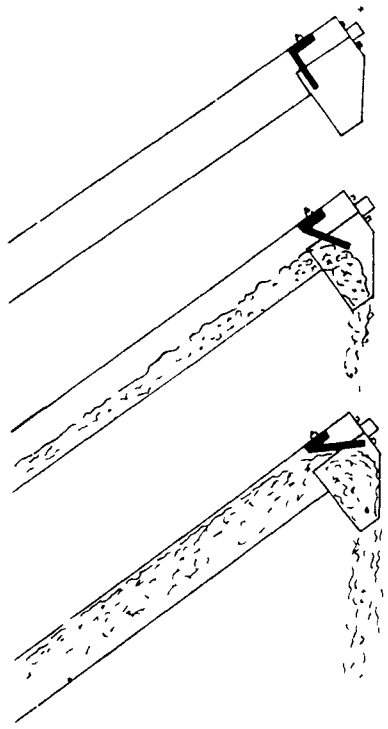
BUSHEL COUNTER WHY SO ACCURATE?





- Accuracy 95%
- Fit all combines and augers 7" – up
- Installation 1 hour
- Calculate yield and income
- The key to field management
- 2 year guarantee

Closed:
No grain is counted — even though the auger is rotating.

Partly Open:
The pressure of the grain on the weighing plate determines the counting speed on the digital instrument in front of the driver.

Open:
90% of the grain in the tank passes through the auger when it is filled evenly. Then the quantity of grain is calculated. It is not weighed.

A full auger is unloading the same quantity of grain per minute with an accuracy of 2% - on condition that the grain is the same moisture.

Daily Adjustment:
The driver adjusts moisture on the digital instrument, after which the counting is corrected automatically.

Once-And-For-All Adjustment:
The digital instrument is adjusted to each individual combine after having checked one load of grain or after calculation of a full tank.

CHARLES & CARL BOMGARDNER
Annville, PA

More harvest capacity so we have less stops to unload. Easier to make threshing adjustments. Much faster and easier to change from corn to soybeans.

HOWARD MYERS
Lawrenceville, NJ

I can do more acres per day. I also was able to take on extra custom work.

DAVID MAST
Elverson, PA

We are able to cover a lot more acres and able to handle bad conditions better.

KENNETH SMITH
Middleburg, PA

One axial-flow can do the work of two JD's with less grain loss and damage using half the fuel.

WILLIAM RINAS
Felton, PA

With the rotor I can travel a bit faster on hills and I have less cracked grain in the sample.

DAVID BECKER
Elizabethtown, PA

Much, much less downtime

Don't get clipped.

Repairing that old unloader may not be your wisest choice...

Repair costs can clip you for a lot more dollars than you might think. In fact a new unloader may not cost much more during "Hanson's Limited Time Unloader Special". So before you repair that old unloader, check with Hanson. Performance, dependability and value. That's the Hanson difference.

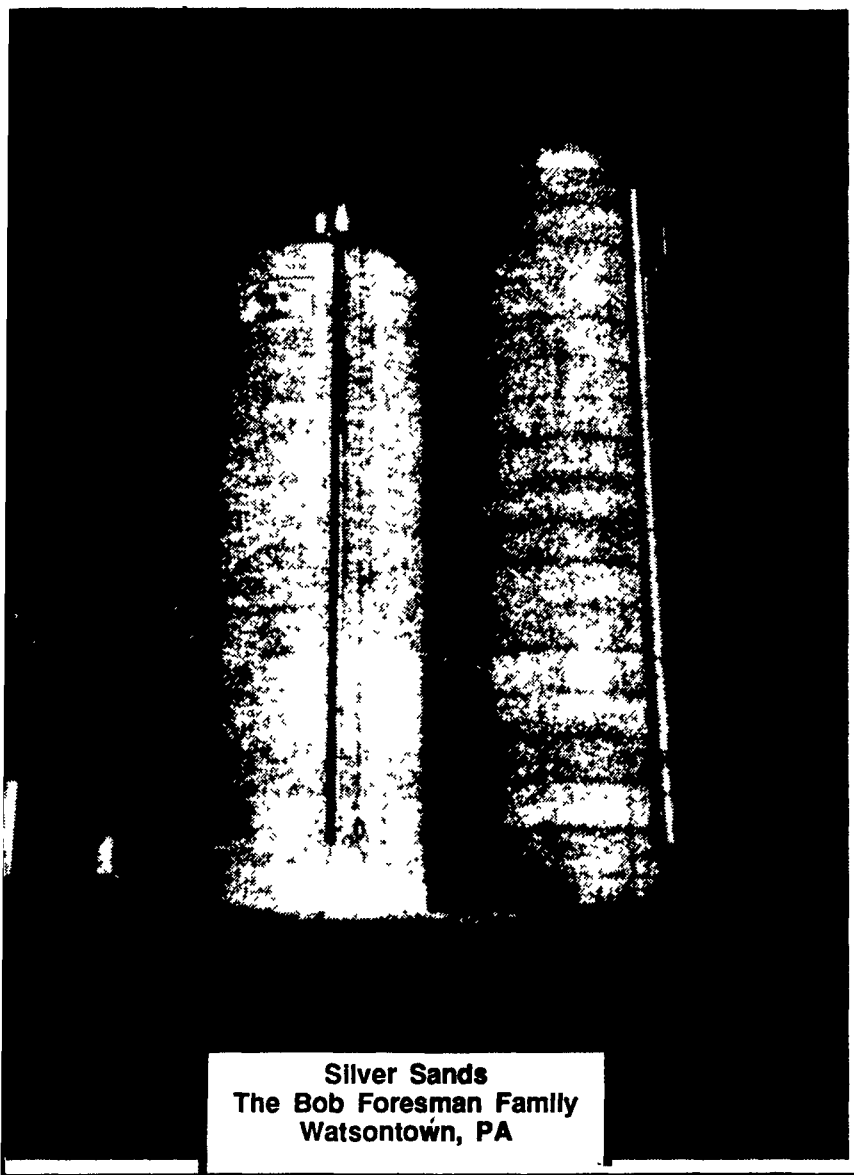
Solid Ways To Improve Your Farm

Consider The Many Advantages Of Concrete



Silver Sands
The Bob Foresman Family
Watsontown, PA

You still have time to get your Sollenberger Silo for high moisture corn storage this fall. The summer of 1987 will be remembered for the many hot, dry days. These high temperatures damaged a lot of stored corn in structures that have a thin wall and do not reflect heat. Avoid this heat damage with a poured concrete silo from Sollenberger Silos Corp.

* The Laidig 43 bottom unloader handles high moisture ear corn and shelled corn.

* The Laidig 98 or 198 will do a good job with grains or forage at 55-60% moisture. BY FILLING EARLIER YOU CAN SAVE YOUR VALUABLE LEAVES.

You Will Appreciate The Quality Of A Sollenberger Silo For Many Years To Come.

PRE-CAST BUNKER SILOS

"THE ECONOMICAL CHOICE" STORAGE FOR ANY FORAGE

Also Suitable For Grain Storage, And Practically Any Other Bulk Material.

The Sollenberger Pre-Cast Bunker Silo Panel Is Designed To Be Free-Standing. With The Tongue and Groove Edges, It Can Be Coated With Mastic & Bolted Together To Give An Air-Tight Smooth Wall That's Easy To Pack And "Keeps Feed Good." Delivered And Set On Your Prepared Gravel Base.

- Outside Walls
- Center Walls
- Can Be Moved, Or Added To Later
- 8'6" high
- 5'2" Wide
- 5000 P S I Steel Reinforced Concrete
- Adaptable To Head gates Or Self Feeders
- Very Strong
- Can Be Used For Retaining Walls
- Many Industrial Bulk Storage Uses

We have contracts already for the 1988 season. This is an indication that it too will be an extremely busy year. Consider your needs, and then give us a call if we can be of help. By ordering early, you can save on the price and also help us schedule our work better.

INDUSTRIAL SILOS

Common Uses:

- Wood Chips • Sawdust
- Bark • Sand & Aggregates
- Coal • Grains • Meals
- Plastic • Water & Liquids
- Any Flowable Materials

Advantages:

- Designed according to your specific needs by registered, professional engineers
- Lower construction cost
- Standard 6" steel-reinforced, poured concrete walls
- Smooth, leak proof walls
- Maintenance free
- Concrete wall reduces product freezing in winter and heating in summer
- Lower fire insurance costs

More And More Farmers Are Moving Up to Sollenberger

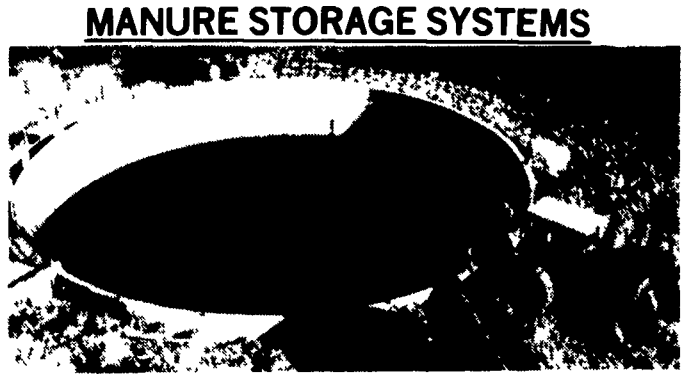
PRE-CAST CONCRETE FEED BUNKS

You Spend A Lot Of Time And Money Producing And Storing Your Good Feed Crops. Don't Just "Get By" With A Feeding Bunk That Wastes Feed Or Is About Worn Out. Your Best Choice For A Feed Bunk Is Pre-Cast Concrete.

SLANT BACK J BUNK H-BUNK

Let Us Know Your Needs. We Can Deliver From Our Large Inventory And Set On Your Prepared Site. OR: We Can Load On Your Truck To Help Save On Freight Costs. We Have Several Sizes And Styles To Choose From, Plus Metal Posts, For Cable, Which Can Be Bolted To The Bunk To Keep Cattle Out

MANURE STORAGE SYSTEMS



- Manure Storage Systems For The Small Herd - or The 400 Cow Herds And Larger.
- Systems Adaptable To Any Type Equipment
- SCS Approved
- Circular Tanks Poured-In-Place Above Ground - In Ground - Or Uneven Backfill.

Myers Has Champ, Kazmer Reserve In Cambria Co.

The Cloverleaf 4H County Bred Beef Club held its annual market steer competition at the Cambria County Fairgrounds, at 1:00 p.m., on Wednesday, Sept. 9. Peter LeVan, director of the Beef Forage Farm at Pennsylvania State University, was judge for the event. 27 county bred steers participated in the show. The results of the judging are as follows:

Danny Myers, 14, son of Mr. & Mrs. Dan Myers, South Fork, grand champion, with a 1260 lb. cross bred steer, bred at the James McNulty Farm, Patton.

Staci Kazmer, 12, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Steve Kazmer, Nicktown, reserve grand champion, with a 1080 lb. cross bred steer, bred at the John Nealen Farm, Nicktown.

Reserve showman, senior division, Stephanie Kazmer, 14, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Steve Kazmer of Nicktown.

The steers were sold Sept. 10 at the 4H livestock sale held at the Cambria County Fairgrounds. The grand champion was sold to Hoss's Steak & Sea House of Johnstown for the high bid of $5.00 per lb. The reserve champion was brought by Giant Eagle Market of Barnsboro for $3.10 per lb.

A separate fitting contest was held at 8:00 a.m., Monday, Sept. 7, in the beef barn at the fairgrounds. Judging the contest was Don Mayer of Lewistown, researcher in the linear mating program at Atlantic Breeders Service, Lancaster. The results of the judging are as follows:

Senior Division, 1st. - Dennie Dumm, 18, son of Mr. & Mrs. Harry Dumm, Nicktown.

Senior Division, 2nd. - Missy Stineman, Sidman.

Intermediate Division, 1st. - Danny Myers, South Fork.

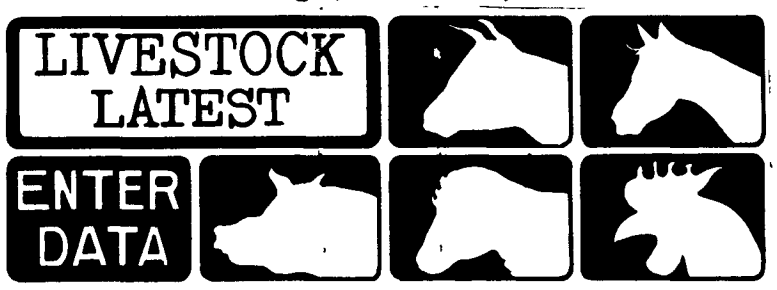
Scott Millar, Gettysburg, and his Reserve Grand Champion 4-H Steer at the 1987 South Mountain Fair, in Adams County.

Jason Boyer, East Berlin, exhibited the 1987 4-H Grand Champion Steer at the South Mountain Fair. Jason was also selected Champion Fitter and Champion Showman. This is the second year in a row that Jason captured the triple crown at the South Mountain Fair in Adams County.



Swine Autumn Classic Set For Harrisonburg

HARRISONBURG, Va. — The 1987 Autumn Classic will be November 5-7 at the fairgrounds in Harrisonburg, VA. Breeders of Poland China, Landrace and Berkshire hogs will be bringing their best March-May farrowed seedstock to the classic. The show will be Friday November 6 with the sale beginning Saturday morning November 7 at 10 a.m.

This is an excellent opportunity to select your future seedstock foundation. Poland Chinas are well noted for their heavy muscled carcasses, especially large loin eyes. A real plus in this era of Lean Pork Value marketing.

The American Landrace breed is well known for its length of body and excellent maternal traits. A fine opportunity to increase your pigs weaned/sow/year average at your farm.

The Berkshire boars being offered are centrally tested at the Maryland Pork Producers Association Test Station. A chance to purchase "the confinement factor" with performance data.

If you would like more information please contact Don Verhoff, American Landrace Association, P.O. Box 2340, West Lafayette, IN 47906, 317-497-3718 or Wesley Blanchard, American Berkshire Association and Poland China Record Association, P.O. Box 2436 or 2 537, West Lafayette, IN 47906, 317-497-3618 or 3818.

York Farmers' President Says Vote Yes

"Everyone in the commonwealth should vote "YES" in support of the referendum to save farmland," said Robert Huntsberger, President of the York County Farmers' Association.

Huntsberger was referring to the referendum question which will appear on the November 3rd ballot which will call for a one-time $100 million bond issue to fund a purchase of development rights program in Pennsylvania.

"When farmland disappears, the price of food just goes up, because of transportation costs, and quality normally suffers.

"Agriculture generates more than $35 billion worth of business in the state...it's our number one industry," added.

The York County Farmers' Association is conducting a voter registration drive with special emphasis being placed on its own membership.

CAN YOU TOP THIS?

Time, genetics, production records, strict culling, good management and nutrition seem to be paramount in making sheep profitable for Art and Marg Christensen of Dillon, Montana. I had the privilege of visiting the Christensen ranch in southwestern Montana a few years ago. Recently, upon receiving some production/management information on the Christensen operation, I was reminded of this visit and some of the non-traditional management practices the Christensen's were applying, at the time, right in the mist of a very conventional sheep producing region. Since Art has spoken at several sheep education programs over the years some of you may already have heard or read in detail about this successful sheep operation. However, for those who have not and yet seek to improve production levels, here are a few factors that have worked for the Christensen's. I find these same production/management practices universal and a worthy challenge for any profit minded Shepherd.

Can you take 569 ewes, including drys and replacements, and wean 197 percent with an average production of 158 pounds of lamb per ewe at 140 days? This is one year's production under modified range conditions. Being in a fenced range operation, the Christensen's credit much of this production to genetically high producing ewes matched with a sound nutrition program. You might say, "I can do better in Pennsylvania." I would agree, but for now how well are you doing, and with some commitment could you do better?.

Their ewes are primarily of two groups. The foundation commerical ewes are a Targhee-Rambouillet cross that are the result of 28 years of selection with the aid of production records. He calls them "Christensen Targhees". The next group or "bread and butter ewes", states Christensen are the "Christensen Targhee"-Finn ewes. Art feels the 1/4 Finn x 3/4 Targhee type ewe is the best for their production/management system. The ewes are bred back to Targhee rams and Percentage rams (1/2 Finn x 1/2 Rambouillet or Targhee) used for developing replacement stock.

Nutrition and high production go together says, Art. They flush both the ewes and rams two weeks prior to breeding time. It is important to keep the ewes in a strong thrifty condition through gestation. "Excercise is also important in helping prevent Pregnancy dis-

KUBOTA COVERS THE FIELD

Kubota has the field covered with dozens of diesel tractors. From 10 horsepower lawn and garden tractors to 85 PTO horsepower turbo charged farm tractors.

And while they vary in size, all are built by Kubota to exacting quality specifications. All are powered by Kubota diesel engines. They're sturdy and dependable, fuel efficient, and require little maintenance.

Multi-cylinder design makes them quiet and they run with less vibration.

ease", states Christensen. Four to six weeks prior to lambing depending on weather conditions, the ewes go on a protein supplement program that has been matched to the native feeds. After lambing the ewes go on a alfalfa pellet and grain mixture provided in self-feeders. These self-feeders follow the lambed ewes with multiple births to the range and remain there until there is adequate grass. This particular feeding regime might last for 50 to 60 days. "Overeating has not been a problem for these high producing ewes", says Art. The cost of purchased feed is about $12.50 per ewe.

A 45 day shed-lambing system begins the last week of March. During the lambing period a special effort is made to graft an extra lamb on all ewes known to be good mothers and have extra milk. The Christensen feeding program during the 140 day post-lambing period is adequately fortified for ewes with triplets.

Other adapted management practices given credit for this progressive and successful sheep enterprise are1) a 4 to 6 week pre-lamb shearing program and 2) a strict ewe and lamb preventive health program. I do not have any specific information on the health program.

Milk Market News

Maryland has had a reduction of 131 farms shipping milk within Federal Order #4 since the Dairy Termination Program began on April 1, 1986. Actual numbers dropped from 1,366 to 1,235 farms during the past 12 months period. A total of 115 dairy farms were accepted into the buyout program from 230 farmers who submitted bids. All bids of $22.50, or $4.50 per year for five years were accepted by the state and federal ASCS units. The reduction of nearly 10 percent in farms shipping milk was accompanied by a drop of only 5.5 percent in Maryland milk output.

All states except Pennsylvania showed declines in farms shipping milk and total milk production from a year ago. Pennsylvania had an increase of 19 farms and showed an expansion of over 15.2 million pounds of milk in March 1987 compared with March 1986. The Order #4 totals showed a small increase in milk output even though there was a net decrease of 209 farms. Virginia, West Virginia, New Jersey and Delaware showed decline in farm numbers of 45, 23, 18, and 11 respectively compared with 131 farms in Maryland. Pennsylvania now accounts for over two-thirds of the farms shipping milk in Federal Order #4 with a total of 4,484 farms in March 1987. Pennsylvania and Maryland have been the largest contributors to Order #4 milk production since it was organized in the late 1960's. Some former Maryland producers have shifted milk production either to farms in Pennsylvania or in Virginia. Better employment and income generation opportunities have been more available to displaced dairy farmers in Maryland than in the other nearby states included in federal Order #4.

Nationally, milk cow numbers were down nearly six percent in January-March 1987 compared with the same period in 1986. The period from April through September will conclude the 1986 buyout program and cattle slaughter program. The next few months will indicate the extent to which the national buyout program can be considered a success nationally, in the Northeast, in Order #4 and in Maryland.

A senior at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, Princess Anne, has been selected the recipient of the Delmarva Servicemen's Association scholarship. Mark Howard Barnes of Salisbury will use the $500 award to finance his final year in the Department of Poultry Technology and Management in UMES. Barnes has a grade point average of 3.47 on a 4.00 scale. He is president of the university's Poultry Science Club, a UMES honor student, a 1987 recipient of the Eastern Shore Hatchery Association scholarship and the Virginia Tech Poultry Science Club scholarship and has worked this year at Showell Farms, a Showell, Maryland integrated poultry company. He was selected the scholarship winner based on his scholastic record, extra curricular activities and work in the poultry industry. Barnes was presented the scholarship check recently at the Delmarva Broiler Housing and Flock Supervisors' Conference in Salisbury, Maryland.

Amerequip Has New Front End Loader

New 10 ft. front end loader from Amerequip Corporation. The new 102QX is another Q series in a family of eight models. The 102QX is designed for tractors 60 to 100 H.P. with lift capacity of 2,500#.

As common in all Q series loaders it has been computer designed and can be mounted or removed in less than five minutes with the use of the tractor hydraulic system and no parking stand.

The new charcoal color with color coordinated decal stripes complements any tractor made.

For more information contact Amerequip Corporation, Suite 1160, 8300 Norman Center Drive, Minneapolis, Minnesota 55437. Phone number is 612/921-3900.

Pioneer Eastern Sales Office Holds Research Tour

MOUNT JOY — To show that Pioneer products are tested to grow in the east, a group of farm editors, county agents, agribusiness persons and other farm leaders were invited to tour the eastern sales office here and the new alfalfa research farm south of Quarryville along with the corn research station at New Holland. John Weidman, area sales manager, welcomed the group and gave background on the Pioneer company that now sells many different agricultural products--corn, alfalfa, soybeans and sunflower seeds and sunflowers to name some of the seeds.

Weidman said, "We sell more than seeds even though thats what we are known for." A silage innoculate and computer software were two of the other items mentioned. Tim Markovits, district sales manager; Bob Kalton, field sales manager and Tom Creswell, sales and planning coordinator discussed their work with farmers and brought the attendees up to date on the Pioneer company's new restructuring of sales territories in 1986. "We Cover the World, But We Are Local" was the theme of these presentations.

Bill Fleet, area agronomy sales manager, described the agronomy services offered by the company and commented on what he called the million bet--biotechnology. "A lot of private money has been invested and planned in bacterial biotechnology," Fleet said. "But this genetic engineering is not new. The plant breeder has been doing it for years. But now he has the tools to help him select on a more systematic basis."

"While some people have predicted that we will have a corn stalk that grows potatoe tubers with a little lettuce on top, it is not going to happen. If we can just keep the production curve going up a little each year, as we have had in the past, we'll be quite satisfied," Fleet said.

The new alfalfa research station located south of Quarryville on Route 472 is just getting the finishing touches on a new building and greenhouse. Station manager Dave Jesen shows the test plots in the fields and described the methods used to select new varieties of alfalfa that are adapted to eastern climates and soil. Later the group visited the New Holland station known for its corn research program. And station manager Terry Williams described Pioneer's efforts in this research.

Dave Jessen, station manager of Pioneer's alfalfa farm south of Quarryville, discusses a shipment of alfalfa plants that have just arrived at the research station for experimental purposes.

Case IH Introduces New Field Cultivators

RACINE, Wisc. — September, 1987... For improved working depth accuracy and simplified leveling, Case IH has introduced the Model 4800 Vibra Shank® field cultivator and Model 4900 Vibra Tiller®.

Both tillage tools are designed to effectively dissipate weeds and pulverize the soil for fast warm-up and quick crop germination, resulting in higher yields. Features on both models include a crank-adjustable hitch for drawbar height, automatic self-leveling hitch and positive mechanical depth control.

Mutual Benefits

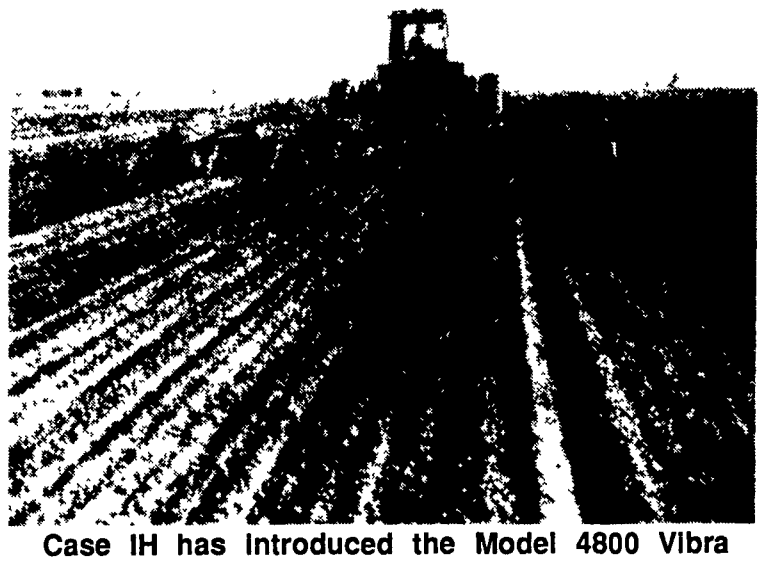
The crank-adjustable hitch available on the Models 4800 and 4900 allows the operator to quickly level the implement with a single mechanical handcrank, thereby eliminating the jacking and jockeying of other field cultivator hitch systems.

Once set, the Case IH self-leveling hitch keeps all five ranks level, fore and aft, at any depth setting. This provides exceptional working depth accuracy.

The new positive mechanical depth control maintains precise, uniform depth and ensures accurate chemical application. At working depth, master and slave cylinders that raise and lower the implement are totally retracted. Thus, the implement rides on a positive mechanical stop instead of hydraulic oil in the cylinders. This helps maintain a constant working depth at tillage speeds and increases cylinder life.

Both models feature a five-bar main frame. The frame combines high strength with 27-inch (680-millimeter) clearance between Vibra Shanks and 40-inch (1016-millimeter) clearance between Vibra chisels on the Model 4900 for excellent performance in trashy field conditions.

In addition, waling beam bogie axles on the main frame and wings have offset tandem wheels that oscillate to keep the tillage implements level and accurate over uneven ground.



Case IH has introduced the Model 4800 Vibra Shank® field cultivator and Model 4900 Vibra Tiller® for improved working depth accuracy and simplified leveling. Features on both models include a crank adjustable hitch for drawbar height, automatic self-leveling hitch and positive mechanical depth control.

Model 4800

The Model 4800 Vibra Shank field cultivator features Case IH Vibra Shanks with independent, automatically adjusting spring tension for vigorous vibrating action that shatters clods and thoroughly stirs the soil.

Ideal for weeding, applying chemicals, summer fallow work and seedbed preparation in previously worked soil, the cultivator is available in nine widths from 22 feet, 1.1 inches to 31 feet, 10 inches (7 to 9.7 meters).

Model 4900

Available in seven working widths from 31 to 52 feet (9.4 to 15.8 meters), the Model 4900 Vibra Tiller is designed for large capacities and dual uses. When equipped with Case IH Vibra Shanks, it can operate as a heavy-duty field cultivator for preparing up to 7-inch- (178-millimeter-) deep seedbeds. With Vibra chisel shanks, the unit is effective for light primary and secondary tillage at depths to 8 inches (203 millimeters).

The Model 4900 also has an exclusive positive transport lock that automatically latches two locking pins to hold the wings securely in an upright position for safe transport. A remote-controlled hydraulic cylinder releases the pins to permit lowering, for improved ease of operation.

Headquartered in Racine, Wisconsin, Case IH is a worldwide manufacturer and marketer of Case Ih agricultural and Case construction equipment. Case IH is an affiliate of Tenneco Inc.

Headquartered in Houston, Tenneco Inc. is a diversified company with major business interests in oil, natural gas pipelines, agricultural and construction equipment, shipbuilding, automotive parts, chemicals, packaging, agriculture, land management and minerals.

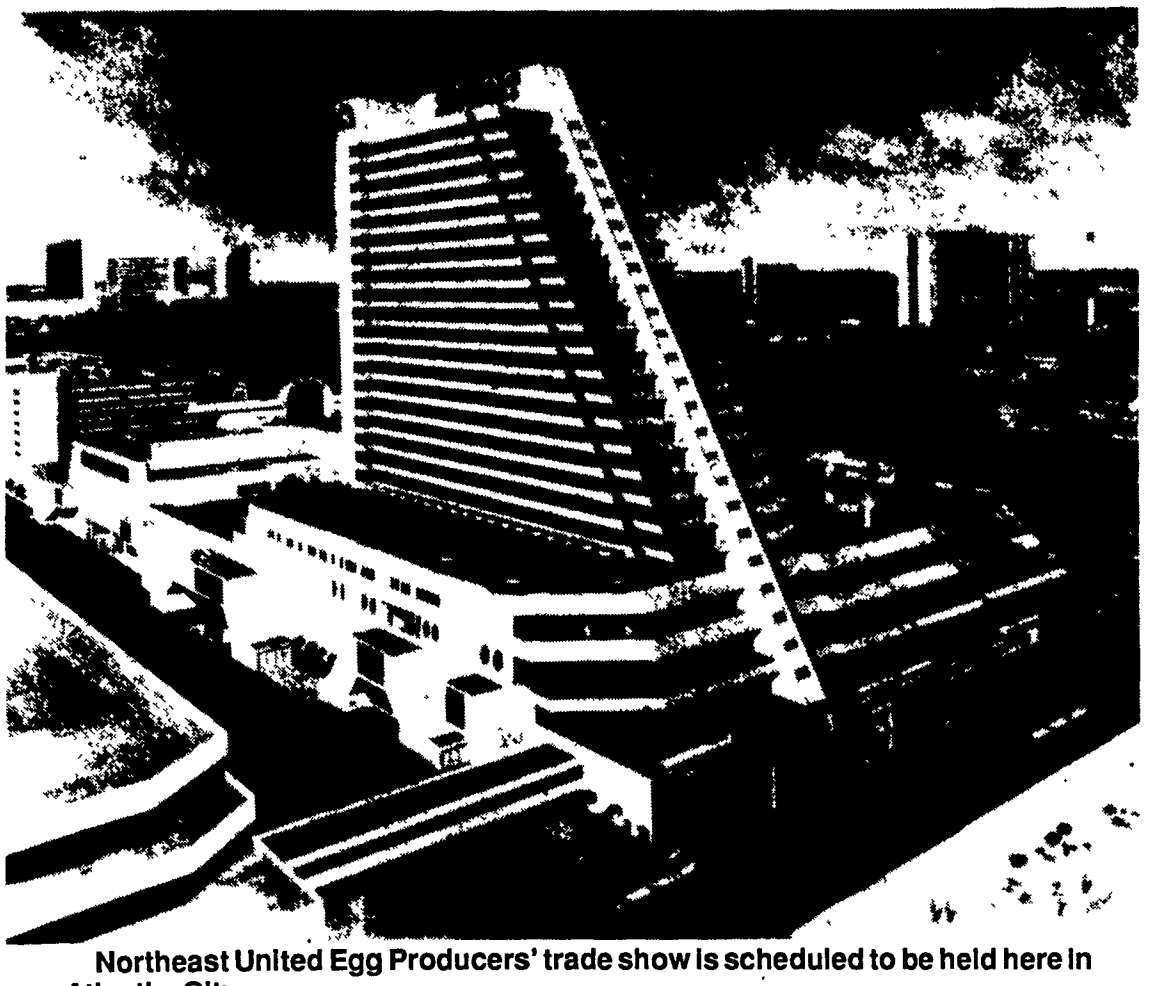
Northeast United Egg Producers Set 1987 Trade Show



Northeast United Egg Producers' trade show is scheduled to be held here in Atlantic City.

Christine Bushway, President and General Manager, announces the Northeast United Egg Producers 1987 Trade Show. "We're very excited about our third annual trade show which is promising more exhibitors and more attendees than ever."

The show, scheduled Sunday, November 15 and Monday, November 16, will once again be held in Atlantic City at the brand new SHOWBOAT Hotel, Casino and Bowling Center.

The Showboat is America's newest resort playland, featuring a magnificant hotel, a 60-lane bowling center and complete family recreation complex.

"Changes have been implemented in response to concerns voiced at last year's show," explained Bushway. Exhibitors will be able to set up booth space on Saturday, November 14. The exhibit hall, designed to hold over 100 booth spaces, is easily accessible due to its ground level location. "Exhibitor response to these changes has been overwhelmingly positive.

"The choice of Showboat as the 1987 show site," continued Bushway, "was made in order to provide a family oriented, central location in the Northeast." She stressed that at this time, 80% of the exhibit space is sold out, "but there are a few remaining."

Those wishing to exhibit should contact Northeast UEP as soon as possible at (603) 868-2824. A complete contract kit will be sent to those requesting information. To secure a room at the Showboat, contact Northeast UEP for a rate card, or dial Showboat reservations direct at 1-800-621-0200.

The show will be important not only on a goods and services level, but on an educational level as well. Speakers have been lined up, addressing the critical issues of Foodservice, Marketing and Agribusiness.

Join Northeast UEP as we once again bring you in touch with the latest the industry has to offer. And enjoy the facilities. We hope to see you there!

Delmarva Poultry Production Conference Well Attended

The 1987 Delmarva Broiler Housing & Flock Supervisors' Conference held in Salisbury, Maryland September 16 was attended by more than 200 people. There were presentations on poultry house ventilation, early brooding management, biosecurity on the farms, solving manure disposal problems, and improving motivation and communication skills. The meeting was designed for flock supervisors, the representatives of the grow-out companies who work with the contract growers to insure the production of healthy chickens.

Dr. Eric Jensen with CEVA Labs presented an overview on the importance of ventilation in poultry houses. Rusty Barnes of the Cumberland Corporation spoke about positive pressure housing while Noel Dykes of Sterwin Labs discussed negative pressure housing.

An audience partucipation segment on motivation and communications was led by Dr. David Jenkins and Dr. Sheila Scheideler, both of the North Carolina State University. The purpose of this hour and a half long program was to teach the flock supervisors how to have a better relationship with the poultry farmers with whom they work and with their company supervisors.

A panel presentation on early brooding management shared recently generated research data on early brooding. Dr. Bill Weaver of Virginia Tech and Dr. Dennis Murphy of the University of Maryland discussed their work. Speaking from the company perspective were Walt Hudson of Perdue Farms and Bruce West of Townsends, Inc.

Biosecurity in the poultry industry was again a topic at the Broiler Housing & Flock Supervisors' Conference. Dave Paulson, a grower from Maryland, told the flock supervisors what he as a grower does to protect his investment and what he expects from company representatives. Mike Neal with the ConAgra Poultry Company stressed the company responsibilities and the importance of following emergency disease guidelines developed by the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc.

The day's final presentation was by Ross Harris, an extension environmental specialist with the University of Delaware. He talked about manure disposal techniques and practices, saying this was a very important matter for the poultry industry and one in which the flock supervisors can play a very pivotal role because of their regular contact with growers.

Awards were presented during the day long program. University of Maryland Eastern Shore senior Mark Howard Barnes was given a $500 check as the winner of the Delmarva Servicemen's Association scholarship. Barnes, an honor student in the University's Department of Poultry Technology and Management, was selected because of his scholastic record, extra curricular activities, and work in the poultry industry. Thirteen flock supervisors were presented with the "Outstanding Flock Supervisor" awards. They were selected by the flock supervisors in their own companies based on an 18-point selection criteria. Factors such as job knowledge, creativity, loyalty to the company, personality, relationship with growers, leadership, work habits, and degree of job satisfaction were considered.

The winners were: Gene Perry, Allen's Hatchery, Inc.; Ronnie Conaway, Cargill, Inc.; John Scott, ConAgra Poultry Co.; Doug Lynch, Holly Farms Poultry Industries, Inc.; Don White, Hudson Farms; Philip Banks, Mountaire Farms, Inc.; Carl Thompson, Perdue Farms, Inc.-Broilers; Jeff Fowler, Perdue Farms, Inc.-Roasters; Tracey Ruddle, Perdue Farms, Inc.-Cornish; Allen Lane, Perdue Farms, Inc.-Breeders; Dennis Supe, Showell Farms, Inc.; Lee Joseph, Townsends, Inc.; Ed Warren, Townsends, Inc.-Breeders.

This conference was sponsored by the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc. in cooperation with the Universities of Delaware and Maryland.

Southwest District 4-H Dairy Show

BY BETH (NESBIT) HUBER

MARTINSBURG — On Saturday, Sept. 5 the best 4-H dairy members from nine southwestern Pennsylvania counties congregated at the Blair County Fairgrounds for the 41st annual Southwest District 4-H Dairy Show. Each 4-H animal represents the best from their respective counties; the district competition is to choose the best from the best to represent southwestern Pennsylvania at the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show to be held Sept. 21, at the Farm Show complex in Harrisburg.

Judges for the day-long event were type judge, Creedin Corman, Fitting judge, Robert Eckstein, and the showmanship judge, Don McCullough.

A total of 181 animals were exhibited by 163 4-H members. The nine counties participating in the show were: Armstrong, Bedford, Blair, Cambria, Clearfield, Fulton, Huntingdon, Indiana, and Somerset.

The day began with the exhibition of the Holstein; John Andrew Foster, III stood in the top position with Globe-Run Sexy Darlene, a 3 year old cow, while Dennis Rupp led Aden-Acres Mars Sara, a junior 2 year old to the reserve grand champion position. In the junior competition Holly Edwards from Indiana County held her intermediate yearling in the junior champion spot while Alex Claypoole from neighboring Armstrong County stood in the reserve junior champion position with his senior yearling.

In the Guernsey competition Julie Snider led Sniders Fayvors Flora to the grand champion title. Melissa Morrow, Blair County, stood beside her with Hillside Bounty Audrey. Joel Garman was the recipient of the junior champion award while Lori Winsheimer was in the reserve junior champion position.

Every year a special award is given to the outstanding Guernsey showman at the conclusion of the Guernsey competition. This award is presented by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Bedford County Guernsey Breeders, in memory of their daughter Lori Anne. Lori Anne was an active member in the 4-H organization. The recipient of the award this year was Jennifer Yaple, Clearfield County. Jennifer is also Pennsylvania's 1987 Guernsey Queen.

Indiana Co. 4-H Dairy Goat Show

INDIANA — As the Indiana County Fair began to draw to a close the Indiana County dairy goat 4-H members just began to get started by showing their dairy goats to judge Richard Bowers.

Standing at the top after the day's show was over was Shelly Novak with her Saanen. Shelly's goat also had the best udder of the show.

In the Alpine category Robert Wetzel stood in the champion position while Lori Wetzel held the reserve champion ribbon.

Amy Frendgrove dominated the La Mancha breed by capturing both the grand and reserve champion titles.

The champion Senior showman Terry Frye was also the owner of the grand and reserve champion Nubian.

Shelly Novak, as stated earlier, was the winner in the Saanen category with holding both the champion and reserve champion titles.

Brenda Auen was the dominating figure in the Recorded Grade competition by owning the two top animals.

Patsy Novak, dairy goat superintendent, stated at the conclusion of the show that a total of 49 head of goats were paraded before judge Richard Bowers, this number was up from last year.

Standing in the champion Jersey position was Janice Hardy of Huntingdon County with TK ASM Bessy. Janice's brother James was keeping the awards in the family by capturing the reserve grand champion title with GR Twix 64. Another sister Jill received the junior champion award while Janelle Koontz from Bedford County received the reserve junior champion award.

Indiana Co. Dairy Show Results

BY BETH (NESBIT) HUBER

INDIANA — As the end of the summer nears most teenagers are waiting and planning for the first day of school, but for those teenagers in Indiana County 4-H dairy clubs the waiting and planning for the annual dairy show receives primary attention before school does.

Type judge for Sept. 1 show was Steve Moff, Columbia, Ohio, while David Dowler, Mercer, PA, judted 30 4-H members on their fitting and showmanship skills.

In the Brown Swiss category Lisa Coleman captured both grand and reserve champion titles. Lisa is a member of the Saltsburg Future Farmers of America.

The Holstein competition was dominated by Neil Stewart and his son Chris, who is a member of the Northern 4-H dairy club.

Patrick Zagrodnichek, a member of the southern Indiana dairy club was the recipient of the grand champion Milking Shorthorn. Ron Olson, a member of the Marion Center FFA, was the winner of the reserve grand champion award.

A Mount Union, Huntingdon County resident, Amy Brant received the grand champion Jersey title and Mike Lydic, 4-H

(Turn to Page D17)

Reliable Feeding

Both the RD-820 ring-drive silo unloader and the 98B surface-drive silo unloader have a double-hook gathering chain with hardened steel cutters and claws that cut through frozen and packed silage.

- Spring-tensioned powered cutter keeps silo walls free of buildup
- Adjustable depth-of-cut control makes feeding truly automatic (98B)
- Powerful blowers with adjustable impeller blades for efficient blowing.

A Northern dairy club member, Norma Andrie, was the top award winner in the Guernsey division. Melissa McDonald, a Bedford County 4-H member captured the reserve grand champion title.

In the fitting and showing competition David chose his champion showman with little deliberation. Brenda Nesbit stood in first place in the senior category while Becky Meyer was named as the junior winner.

YOU & VAN DALE.

Forage season — the time of year when you've got one eye on the weather and the other on your crop. Time everything just right and it'll mean dollars in your pocket later on.

The payoff comes at feeding time, and that's when you can count on Van Dale to deliver quality forage to your herd. Van Dale equipment performs when you need it to...Van Dale silo unloaders that really dig in, even at −20°F; Van Dale conveyors and feeders that let you feed more animals in less time; and Van Dale mixers that can actually improve the value of your ration.

To tame tough forage jobs on your farm, team up with a tough partner: Van Dale!

MAXI-SIL™

Brand

SILAGE ADDITIVE

Nutritional Value
Purina MAXI-SIL™ Brand is a preservative that retains and protects the nutritional content and value of your silage longer.

Palatability
Purina MAXI-SIL™ Brand contains enzymes that aid in the rapid production of natural lactic acid producing organisms and result in a sweeter smelling and tastier silage.

Spoilage and Waste Reduction
Purina MAXI-SIL™ Brand minimizes spoilage and waste in silage stored in upright, trench, pit or bag silos. Palatability is retained longer in trench silo, silage facings and in feed bunks.

Treatment
Purina MAXI-SIL™ Brand is available in 50 lb. bags, enough to treat 50 tons of silage.
Note: Follow application recommendations.

Purina®

PURINA® TOP-16 DAIRY WORMER...

Offers Dairymen These Benefits:

- Highly Palatable
- One Day Treatment
- No Milk Discard
- Purina Top-16 is mixed in a 16% Dairy feed, so milk production is not lost during worming.
